SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 18—Orville Enoch Hodge, resigned Illinois State Auditor, was answering "all questions" put to him by State's Attorney George P. Coutrakon today concerning the $547,000 warrant scandal in Hodge's former office.

After three hours of continuous questioning, Coutrakon left the conference in his office here and said: "The questioning is still progressing and we are making progress." He added that it would last for several more hours and may have to be resumed tomorrow.

Hodge, who resigned his office under fire, had said he would answer all questions. Coutrakon said: "I'm asking the questions and he hasn't refused to answer one yet."

Asked if Hodge was making a confession, the state's attorney said, "It's too early to answer that."

To another question as to whether others were involved, he said, "We're not far enough along to ask about other persons."

No Word on Money.
A reporter asked Coutrakon if Hodge had said what he did with the money.

"I'm not in position to express myself," he answered. "I'm just getting into that and I don't want to say anything that might jeopardize the case."

The state's attorney said he would confer with Illinois Attorney General Latham Castle and Albert E. Jenner Jr., special counsel for the Illinois Budgetary Commission, about Hodge's question-and-answer statement when Coutrakon is finished with his questioning.

Coutrakon, meanwhile, ordered the Sangamon county sheriff not to serve an embargo warrant that had been issued against Hodge's executive assistant, Edward A. Epping.

The warrant, issued last night prior to a raid on Epping's three-room apartment, charged him with embezzling 15 state auditor's checks, numbered 68,900 through 68,914, and made out for a total of $180,000.

In explaining his order to the sheriff's office, Coutrakon said the raid was "futile" and did not turn up any missing state checks.

Epping had been summoned by the Internal Revenue Service to produce certain of Hodge's personal records, which do not involve the auditor's office. After he turned them over to agents of the service today, he reported to the sheriff's office.

Availability Assured.
A telephone call to Coutrakon disclosed the warrant had been canceled, but Hodge Dobbs, attorney for Epping, was asked by the state's attorney to keep his client available for questioning. Dobbs assured Coutrakon he would.

"Epping has assured me that he has not knowingly committed any criminal offense," Dobbs said. "So far as I know, he has not declined to co-operate with any public officer or agency."

Dobbs said Hodge's lawyers also had asked for the same Hodge records the revenue service is seeking.

WOMAN DIVORCES SCIENTIST WITH CALCULUS IN HEAD

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP)—A scientist's wife testified at her divorce trial yesterday that her husband's African drums were the only things that took his mind off mathematics.

"He begins working calculus problems in his head as soon as he awakens," Mrs. Mary Louise Feynman told superior court. "I couldn't talk to him because he would say I was interrupting his work. He did calculus while driving his car, while sitting in the living room and while lying in bed at night."

Furthermore, his drum playing "made a terrific noise," she added.

The court gave her the decree on cruelty grounds and awarded her alimony, property and a cash settlement.

Richard P. Feynman, physicist at California Institute of Technology, got to keep the drums.

DOUKHOBORS TURN NUDE BACKS ON TOURING TEXANS

CASTLEGAR, B. C., July 18 (AP)—Twelve members of the radical Doukhobor sect, Sons of Freedom, staged a nude demonstration yesterday beside railway tracks near here as a train bearing 193 touring Texans went by.

The disrobing, between Glade and Shorebrook, 15 miles from Castlegar in southeastern British Columbia, took place shortly after a Doukhobor choir had greeted the traveling farm study group from Texas at the Castlegar railway station. The nude Freedomites had their backs to the train as it passed.

The Sons of Freedom periodically demonstrate in the nude as a form of protest against man-made laws. Many have resorted to terrorist attacks, burning homes and blowing up railroad bridges. This was the first incident, however, in more than a year.

Democratic Senator
Charges White House
Move Against Hell's Canyon Bill as It Reaches Floor.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—Senator Richard L. Neuberger (Dem., Oregon), charged today the White House is pressuring Republican Senators to vote against a bill to authorize a high, federal dam in Hell's Canyon.

Neuberger said several Republicans whose support he sought for the proposed high dam told him they could not go against President Eisenhower's wish.

They have been informed of the President's interest, Neuberger said, in phone calls from White House officials. Other reports were that I. Jack Martin, a presidential aide, had made personal calls on some Senators to seek opposition to the bill. Other calls were made to Republicans by Department of the Interior officials, it was said.

The "pressure" reports were denied by five western Republican Senators questioned by a reporter. The five said they had not received any calls on the bill from the White House and had not heard of any other Senators receiving calls.

Debate Scheduled Today.
The Senate scheduled debate today on the bill to authorize a $308,000,000 dam on the Snake river on the Idaho-Oregon border.

The Senate started work earlier than usual and may not quit until midnight, Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas said. A final vote probably will be delayed until tomorrow.

The Hell's Canyon debate was delayed by Senate consideration of a bill to simplify customs procedures. Senator George Malone (Rep., Nevada), obtained the floor at 10:20 a. m. to make a speech opposing the customs bill. He was still talking about four hours later.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem., Oregon), in a speech prepared for delivery, said the Administration was advocating "permanently" the site in favor of its development by a private utility.

He said a plan for three smaller dams in the Hell's Canyon reach being constructed by Idaho Power Co., under Federal Power Commission license, "offers less water storage, less flood control, less power, less recreation and imperils fish and wildlife conservation."

MARINE OFFICER
MALTREATMENT

Improper Even If for Discipline, Says Commander of Training
Unit at Trial of Sgt.
McKeon.

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C., July 18 (UP)—The commander of a Marine training outfit in which Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon was a drill instructor testified at McKeon's court-martial today that he would consider marching troops into a swamp maltreatment, even if done to teach discipline.

Marine Lt. Col. Robert A. Thompson took the stand as the government attempted to prove to a court of seven combat veterans that McKeon should be sent to prison for leading raw recruits into a tidal creek where six men died.

Earlier in today's session, McKeon's lawyer told the officers the 21-year-old drill instructor should be classified as a hero for trying to save the lives of his men when panic broke out among them in the stream last April.

Calls Training Good.
The lawyer, Emile Zola Berman of New York City, said McKeon was giving his men only the kind of disciplinary training that makes good Marines and turns a "laggard" outfit into one of fighting morale.

Former Marines all over the nation were coming to the aid of McKeon, flooding the Parris Island telephone switchboard with testimonials applauding the training practices long in use by the corps.

Thompson testified he met the accused sergeant early in February at an orientation meeting he had for new drill instructors.

He said that at such meetings he warned new instructors "against getting financially involved with recruits and against maltreatment or hazing."

"Did you give them any instances of maltreatment?" asked Berman.

The battalion commander said he did not, but that opinions vary as to what maltreatment is.

Views on Maltreatment.
He defined hazing as "just a milder form of maltreatment." A form of hazing that every American is familiar with, the witness said, "is running the boys through a belt line."

"Would you equate it with robbing a boy or man of his dignity as a human being?" he replied.

"Is it your view that if a drill instructor to teach discipline and impose morale, marched troops into swamps, would you regard that as maltreatment in the context of your orientation?" Berman asked.

"I would," he replied.

The prosecuting trial counsel, Marine Maj. Charles B. Sevier of Jacksonville, Ill., asked if the witness would regard it as maltreatment if troops were taken on a night march into water over their heads when some of the troops were non-swimmers.

"I would," Thompson replied.

He said he never had issued instructions about whether troops in his command should be marched into marshes, either day or night.

On the night of the tragedy, platoon 71 was not under Thompson's command but was under command of the weapons training battalion, since it was training on the depot rifle range.

Calls Methods Traditional.
Berman said he would attempt to prove that the methods used by McKeon on that fateful night "were part and parcel, the warp and wool" of the methods by which this corps had made its wonderful tradition.

McKeon, whose home is in Worcester, Mass., pleaded not guilty yesterday to the two major charges against him—involuntary manslaughter and oppression of recruits.

On two minor charges, drinking in barracks and in the presence of a recruit—he said nothing. As a result, the court ordered the court-martial to proceed as if he had pleaded not guilty.

Rakosi Admits 'Grave Mistake of Cult of Personality,' Injury to Socialist Laws.

VIENNA, July 18 (UP)—Matyas Rakosi, longtime boss of Communist Hungary, has resigned his party positions "voluntarily." Premier Andras Hegedus announced today.

Hegedus said Rakosi had resigned in a letter addressed to the party's Politburo.

The announcement was made after a meeting of the central committee of the Hungarian Communist party in Budapest.

Hegedus said Ernoe Gero had been recommended to succeed Rakosi as secretary general of the party. He did not say whether the recommendation had been approved.

Rakosi signed both as secretary general of the party and as a member of the Politburo, Hegedus said.

Rakosi said he was resigning because he was "responsible for the grave mistake of the cult of personality and the injuring of Socialist laws."

Rakosi thus became the latest of the leaders of the Communist satellite countries who had supported the late Joseph Stalin to be ousted in Moscow's campaign to downgrade the late Soviet dictator.

In his letter of resignation, Rakosi also pointed out that he was 65 years old and had been suffering from a serious illness for two years.

After reading the letter before the politburo, Rakosi said he had been suffering from hypertension and that his physicians had forbidden him to continue in political work.

His removal from power might have been foreseen when Moscow and Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito made up recently. Tito, who was kicked out of the Communist family during Stalin's life, was welcomed back by the new regime. He never forgave Rakosi for attacks made on him, and observers believed that Tito may have demanded Rakosi's head as one of his terms of peace.

Rakosi, whose personal appearance has caused him to be nicknamed among other things, "Old Potato Head," has a reputation for toughness as a Communist leader.

He once described Communist measures in taking over a country as "salami" tactics—taking a little slice at a time.

But in his confession of Stalin-like practices he said he was "very sorry" for his action and promised reform measures would be taken. He said workers would get higher wages and consumers' goods would be made more plentiful.

Reminded that he had started to work on the foreign policy plank, Dulles said he has begun to crystallize his ideas in that respect.

In the 1952 platform the Re-

NOTES FEELING

on Home Front.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today he sees no political objection to a cut in North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces if military experts urge such action.

He said he does not believe the NATO alliance, a key plank in United States foreign policy, would be destroyed or seriously weakened if there is a downward revision in its defense goals in line with competent military judgment. But he quickly added that military experts usually oppose such cuts.

Dulles discussed the problem of NATO manpower levels at a lengthy news conference devoted chiefly to reports that Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, has tentatively proposed an 800,000-man cut in United States military manpower by 1960.

Radford was said to have the backing of Dulles and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

New Weapons Stressed.
Dulles said he had not discussed the matter with Radford and said he believed the question was one primarily for military people. But Dulles noted there has been a feeling developing in the world that greater emphasis can be placed on new weapons and less emphasis on standing armies. He said this had been evident in both United States military thinking and in the actions of the Soviet Union which has announced plans to cut 1,200,000 men from its armed forces.

Dulles said there might be less dependence on foreign bases as long-range weapons developed. He cautioned, though, that it would be much more expensive to maintain the defense of the United States entirely at home than if some American retaliatory power were stationed at bases abroad.

He said he did not think that neutralist feeling in the world would develop to the point where the NATO area would not be defended by a combination of allies.

Other Points.
In other news conference highlights Dulles made these points:

Assuan Dam—There are a lot of things which have happened since the United States offered to help Egypt build the $1,300,000,000 dam on the Nile river last December. Therefore he refused to say whether the United States remains ready to go ahead with its aid offer now that Egypt has said it is ready to accept Western rather than Soviet help.

Latin American Trip—Dulles probably will visit Colombia, Ecuador and Peru following the Panama conference of American chiefs of state. He leaves Friday to accompany President Eisenhower to the Panama meeting.

Technical Aid—He deplored a congressional cut of $5,000,000 in the Administration's request for $15,000,000 for technical assistance to underdeveloped countries through the United Nations.

Policy Unchanged.
Reporters pressed hard to get Dulles to say whether he thinks the United States can make a substantial cut in its military manpower without affecting its position overseas.

Dulles said the United States stated as far back as October 1954 that it was American policy to maintain forces in Europe needed for defense of the area. He said there was no intention to change this policy now.

SYDNEY, Australia, July 18 (UP)—An insurance company paid off today on a housewife's second set of twins.

Mrs. David Humphries, 23 years old, the mother of one set of twins, bought a $49.50 insurance policy against a second set. Her doctor said the chances of a second set of twins were 500 to 1. The insurance company made it 20 to 1.

Mrs. Humphries gave birth to twin girls to match her twin boys. The insurance company paid $896.

SENATE GROUP SPLITS ON ISSUE OF TRADE WITH SOVIET WORLD

Majority Report Assails Administration for Not Blocking Shipments to Russia — Stassen Criticized.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —The Senate investigations subcommittee split sharply today on what its stormy inquiries into free world trade with Russia showed.

Its four Democratic members and Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wis.) in a report to the Senate called White House aid Harold E. Stassen "an arrogant, evasive and uncandid witness" in the hearings, and accused the Eisenhower Administration of failing to fight as hard as it could to choke off this East-West trade. Stassen, former foreign aid chief, is now President Eisenhower's chief adviser on disarmament problems.

Senators Mundt (Rep., Ohio), Stassen, McCarthy, and Senator McClellan (Dem., Ark.) and Senators Jackson (Dem., Wash.), Symington (Dem., Miss.), and Ervin (Dem., N.C.) in a report to the Senate called the White House for many months.

Repercussions Likely.

The reports are bound to have repercussions in the Senate's forthcoming debate on foreign aid.

In the investigation the subcommittee explored a 1954 international agreement reached in Paris under which Western Allies relaxed curbs on the sale to Russia of about 200 items which had been embargoed or otherwise controlled as strategic for wartime use.

Stassen, Secretary of Commerce Weeks and other Administration witnesses testified in the hearing that this country agreed only reluctantly to the relaxation, at the insistence of the Allies. They said the alternative would have been virtual collapse of the whole system of embargoes which still remains in effect.

The majority report said that Stassen, who had an important role in the negotiations, "misled the Congress and the American people" about the scope and effects of the Paris agreement until the hearings brought out many of the details.

Battle Act Cited.

It also charged that the Administration had "violated the spirit, if not the letter" of the battle act, a law which provides machinery for cutting off United States foreign aid to Allies which sell strategic materials to the Reds. It said the Administration "disregarded the clear intent of Congress" and never once enforced this law.

"At no time (in the 1954 negotiations), did the executive branch of our Government seriously use the Battle Act as a lever for persuading foreign nations to observe the then existing strategic trade embargo," the majority report said.

The report said also the Administration had arbitrarily refused to let the subcommittee see some documents concerning the Paris negotiations, or to examine others except under pledge to keep them secret.

Bender and Mundt said public disclosure of this information would have told the Communists too much about United States defense secrets. They said this Government also had pledged to keep secret some details of the agreement, and could not break this pledge to friendly allies.

They contended "the hearings were abruptly ended at the time when it was learned" that Adm. Walter S. Delaney, Battle Act administrator, was ready to give all of the additional information which the subcommittee desired and which they (the majority) claimed was being denied by the Administration.

Charge by Majority.

The majority report, on the other hand, said: "The subcommittee believes that the executive branch wished to withhold from the American people the fact that foreign nations receiving aid from the American taxpayers are in turn helping the Communists to arm themselves against the United States and the free world."

Mundt and Bender contended the majority report "unfairly criticizes" Administration agencies, "deliberately fails to relate the entire program," and "ignores testimony given in executive sessions."

The majority report concluded with a recommendation that President Eisenhower submit to Congress by Dec. 31 "a complete report of the views of the executive branch with respect to revisions in the Battle Act."

U.S. ASKS ICELAND TO DEFER TALKS ON WITHDRAWAL

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —The United States formally proposed yesterday that Iceland defer talks about withdrawal of American troops from the Keflavik air base until a new Icelandic government is formed.

The State Department announced that a note to that effect had been delivered to the Foreign Ministry at Reykjavik by United States Ambassador John J. Muccio.

The present government of Premier Olafur Thors has a caretaker status. Elections were held June 24 and a new government is to be formed this month. On June 11 the Thors government proposed that talks about withdrawal of American forces be started Aug. 1, it being assumed in Iceland that a new administration would have been organized by that time.

The United States has possibly 6,000 officers and men stationed in Iceland in a position about halfway between Washington and Moscow on the North Atlantic air lines. The United States is eager to keep forces there because of the strategic importance of the position.

ALARMED BY 'COVER-UP' OF PRESIDENT'S CONDITION

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —Senator Pat McNamara (Dem., Mich.) said today he was alarmed at what he termed "the apparent manipulation of fact" in the press concerning President Eisenhower's health.

In an address for Senate delivery, he said Washington newspaper men have been talking about "the skillful cover-up" of James Hagerly, the President's press secretary.

"But few of them have been writing about it," McNamara said. "The only conclusion I can draw is that they are not allowed to."

McNamara said "few newspaper men" have been able to learn about the "Hagerly curtain" which he said is "shielding the American people from the truth in one of the most masterful suppressions of the facts ever put across by the advertising techniques of Madison Avenue."

KHRUSHCHEV BOARDS PLANE ALONE ON UNDISCLOSED TRIP

MOSCOW, July 18 (UP) —Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev left Moscow by plane today on an undisclosed mission. There was no announcement of his destination.

Khrushchev went to the central airport with other Soviet leaders to bid farewell to the East German government delegation which came to Moscow for top-level talks.

Two minutes after the East Germans took off for Berlin, Khrushchev boarded a twin-engine Soviet passenger plane alone and flew off eastward.

NAUTILUS NEARS 50,000-MILE MARK ON ORIGINAL FUEL

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —A Senate subcommittee disclosed yesterday that the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, Nautilus, has cruised almost 50,000 miles without refueling.

The figure was mentioned at a closed session of the Armed Services subcommittee June 20 and made public in testimony just released.

In a discussion of submarines as launching platforms for ballistic missiles now under development, Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Miss.) noted that the Navy had announced some time ago that the Nautilus had cruised 36,000 miles since it was launched Jan. 17, 1955.

He asked Navy Capt. S. S. Searcy, one of the officers present, whether he knew how far the Nautilus had traveled now.

"It is approaching 50,000 miles," Searcy replied.

Symington: "Without refueling?"

Searcy: "Yes, sir."

Group Sponsored Booklet.

Two days of testimony have brought out that the Rocky Mountain companies sponsored a booklet, "The Federal Power Program," which was presented to Under Secretary of Interior Ralph Tudor in April 1953.

Ebasco was paid to supply research material used in the booklet.

Yesterday's hearing again was marked by disagreement between Democratic and Republican subcommittee members over the merits of private vs. public power and whether public power is "socialistic."

Phillips, without specifically referring to Chudoff's allegations, said Ebasco Services, Inc., has at no time joined an "organized effort" to influence the Secretary of the Interior or any other Government agency on behalf of private power companies.

"Ebasco Services is one of a wide range of professional engineering and consulting services to industrial firms, institutions, public utilities and Government agencies."

"It is well known that these Rocky Mountain power companies are among the clients of Ebasco Services. We are very proud to serve them."

Phillips said Ebasco had no holdings in any private power company in the United States.

The question of interlocking ownership was brought up by Chudoff in questioning by the second straight day of Colin W. Raff, executive assistant to President J. E. Corlette Jr. of the Montana Power Co.

Chudoff listed a number of companies which he said own around 10 per cent each of Montana Power. These "large stockholders who control the policy of the company by electing the board of directors are one and the same" as the firms which have interests in Ebasco, he said.

Raff said that while Ebasco has done research work for Montana Power, neither company controls the other.

DENIES EBASCO JOINS IN MOVE TO INFLUENCE U.S.

Officer of Research Firm Says It Owns No Stock in Private Power Concerns.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —As the Senate began debate today on a major source of dispute in the public vs. private power controversy — the proposed federal Hell's Canyon dam — a House subcommittee had testimony before it on whether private power companies had tried to "influence" the Federal Government.

Before the House Government Operations subcommittee headed by Representative Earl Chudoff (Dem., Pennsylvania), an Ebasco Services spokesman said yesterday Ebasco had never teamed with private power companies in any organized effort to "influence" the Federal Government.

C. N. Phillips, research director of the New York engineering firm, took issue with statements by Chairman Chudoff.

The House subcommittee is looking into what Chudoff has said is evidence of a "definitely organized effort" by private power companies from the Rocky Mountain states and Ebasco to "influence the Secretary of the Interior."

Phillips said Ebasco had no holdings in any private power company in the United States.

The question of interlocking ownership was brought up by Chudoff in questioning by the second straight day of Colin W. Raff, executive assistant to President J. E. Corlette Jr. of the Montana Power Co.

Chudoff listed a number of companies which he said own around 10 per cent each of Montana Power. These "large stockholders who control the policy of the company by electing the board of directors are one and the same" as the firms which have interests in Ebasco, he said.

Raff said that while Ebasco has done research work for Montana Power, neither company controls the other.

He said no single investor owns more than 10 per cent of the company's stock, and the firm's 11 directors all come from Montana.

Objects to Tax Burden.

Under questioning, Raff said he opposes government power because "of the great tax burden it places upon the people of the United States, including myself."

"You don't like the competition of federal power, is that right?" asked Chudoff.

Raff said he did not object to competition but that he did not like what he termed "unfair" advantages enjoyed by tax-exempt public power.

The Montana power executive told Representative Robert E. Jones Jr. (Dem., Ala.), he believes "any enterprise that is taken over by the Government in competition with private enterprise is socialistic."

DATE FOR FIRING 5000-MILE ICBM MISSILE IS SET

'Milestones Are Being Met,' Head of Air Force Program Says — Time a Secret.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —The Air Force has told Congress it has set a date on which it hopes to have 100 intercontinental ballistic missiles with hydrogen warheads ready for aiming at targets 5000 miles away.

"We are actually meeting our milestones in a race with Russia to develop the weapon," said Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, chief of the ICBM program.

He testified June 20 at a closed meeting of a Senate Armed Services subcommittee. The subcommittee yesterday released highly censored abstracts of the testimony.

The date is a secret but the Navy told the same subcommittee recently that it will be firing a shorter range ballistic missile carrying a nuclear warhead.

Schriever said he believes the ICBM will be ready about the same time as an intermediate range ballistic missile. He was not referring to the Navy's IRBM but to a similar one being developed by the Air Force.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Stuart Symington (Dem., Miss.), is studying the comparative strength of American and Russian air power.

PRINCES GET JAIL TERMS

TUNIS, July 18 (AP) —Prince Ridha, son of a former Bey of Tunis, and one of his princely cousins were sentenced to jail yesterday as part of a narcotics ring. Prince Ridha was ordered to serve nine months. His father was Ahmed II who reigned from 1929 to 1942.

Prince Ali Zaccaria, a grandson of Ahmed, got 10 months. Some 20 others convicted of taking part in the drug traffic were sentenced to seven to 13 months and fined 50,000 francs ($142.84) each.

Senate Votes Earlier Old-Age Pay for Women, Aid to Disabled

Bill Would Lower Eligible Age to 62 From 65, Grant Benefits to Totally Handicapped at 50.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —Over-riding Eisenhower Administration opposition, the Senate voted earlier retirement benefits for women and new provisions for disabled persons in a social security bill it passed 90 to 0 last night.

The Senate had voted a similar expansion of benefits last year, and the changes in some form thus were certain to be included in a compromise of the two bills.

The Senate, after a 12-hour session, passed the bill permitting qualified women to start drawing retirement payments at age 62 instead of 65 and totally disabled persons to receive benefits starting at age 50. The six absent Senators also were recorded as favoring passage.

The Democrats squeaked through by only a two-vote margin, 47 to 45, on the most exciting battle of the debate—the proposal by veteran Senator Walter F. George (Dem., Ga.) to put the disability program into the bill. Voting for it were 41 Democrats and 6 Republicans, while 38 Republicans and 7 Democrats opposed it.

Called a Landmark.

Senators Russell Long (Dem., Louisiana), and Paul Douglas (Dem., Ill.), both told a reporter they considered that the Senate's decisions on the bill established a landmark in the 21-year history of the Social Security system.

The House bill, passed last year 372 to 31, also contained the disability benefits and lowered retirement age for women in a somewhat different form.

Veto Threat Discounted.

Democrats discounted any threat of a veto by President Eisenhower, even though the Administration opposed both the key benefits in the bill as too costly.

Long gave full credit to George for getting the disability provision into the bill.

"I do not believe anyone else could have done it," he said. The 78-year-old George, retiring after nearly 34 years in the Senate, engaged in a debate with his close friend, Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem., Va.), chairman of the Finance Committee. Byrd had joined with Republicans in that group to strike disability and age 62 retirement for women from the bill as the Administration asked.

Under the disability plan, an estimated 250,000 persons would draw the payments averaging about $75 a month in the first year. They would have to meet strict requirements of coverage under social security, and their disability must last six months before they are eligible for benefits.

The lowered retirement age for women marks the first time that the age 65 retirement deadline has been broken since social security started in 1935.

An amendment by Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem., Okla.), adopted 86 to 7, put the provision back into the bill yesterday.

Three Groups Eligible.

Three groups of women can receive retirement benefits under the Social Security system — widows, working women and wives of retired husbands.

Under the Senate version of the bill widows could receive at age 62 the full retirement benefit to which they now are entitled at age 65. This is the same as in the House bill.

Under the Senate bill, working women could receive at age 62 a payment equal to 80 per cent of what they would get at age 65. This would be gradually increased if they waited until they were closer to 65 before going on the rolls.

Wives of retired husbands under the present law get one-half their husband's benefit but do not receive it until he retires and is actually drawing his payment. Under the Senate bill, they could start receiving their benefits at age 62 if the husband had started getting his benefits. But at age 62, they would receive 75 per cent of the payment they would be entitled to at age 65. This would be gradually increased for them, too, if they waited until age 65 before going on the rolls.

Under the House bill, the working women and wives of retired husbands would get at age 62 the full benefit to which they are entitled at 65.

Tax Boost.

The Senate bill provides for a one-half of one per cent tax boost, split between the employee, to finance the disability program.

SCHOOL AID BILL DECLARED DEAD BY LAWMAKERS

Congress Leaders Give It No Chance in This Session Despite President's Plea.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP) —Congressional leaders said today federal aid for school construction is dead for this session of Congress, despite President Eisenhower's plea to revive it.

The House rejected a $1,600,000 school aid bill by a vote of 224 to 194 on July 5. Mr. Eisenhower, at a conference with his legislative leaders yesterday, made an appeal for its revival.

"Science has developed some wonderful machines, called pulmotors," Chairman Graham A. Barden (Dem., N.C.), of the House Education and Labor Committee, commented today. "But so far as I know it has not come up with anything powerful enough to bring that bill back to life."

Top House leaders of both parties concurred in Barden's assessment. They said there was no chance now that action will be taken on federal aid for schools.

This was despite the fact that House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts and Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland of California told the President yesterday they would see what could be done to get action on the issue before adjournment.

What the leaders have concluded, informed sources said, is that there is nothing that can be done.

U.S. GRAND JURY IN TAX SCANDAL PROBE MEETS; NO ACTION INDICATED

Disagreement Reported on Criticizing Attorney General's Office for Its Handling of Inquiry.

The federal grand jury investigating tax scandals in the Truman administration, which had been in recess for 15 weeks, met for nearly three hours today, then recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow, apparently without having taken any positive action.

The jury was ordered back into session by United States District Judge George H. Moore, at the judge's request, to wind up pending matters before its term expires next Monday.

Some of the jurors, believing that United States Justice Department officials have failed to pursue the investigation vigorously, decided the jury should take matters into its own hands.

Disagreement exists among the jurors, it was reported, as to the type of final report the jury should file. Some favor criticism of the handling of the inquiry by the Attorney General's office and want to recommend continued investigation by a succeeding jury, it was reported.

Others apparently believe the investigation was disclosed all the law violations that could be prosecuted and the investigation should be dropped.

Wyllis Newcomb, special assistant to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., who handled presentation of evidence to the jury during the inquiry, met with the jurors today. He said in advance of the meeting he had no formal matters to present to the jury.

The jury recessed without informing him if it would want him present tomorrow, but he will be available, if called, it was learned.

The jury was forced to recess April 4 at Brownell's suggestion so that its work would not influence the trial of Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, Truman administration officials, who were found guilty June 14 of conspiracy to defraud the Government by a jury in the court of the late United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulen.

Brownell has since said that, in his opinion, the investigation ended with the conviction of Connelly, former appointments secretary to President Truman, and Caudle, former head of the tax division of the Justice Department.

Sentencing Scheduled. Connelly and Caudle were scheduled to be sentenced tomorrow, pending disposition of a series of defense motions, by Judge Hulen. However, the judge died July 7 of a gunshot wound in the head, suffered in the back yard of his home at 16 Southmoor drive, Clayton.

United States District Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye of Minneapolis, named to take charge of the Connelly-Caudle case, will be in St. Louis tomorrow. It is expected he will confer with attorneys for the Government and defense before proceeding with the case.

John Lashly, attorney for Connelly, expressed the view today that it would be "next to impossible" for a judge who did not reside at the trial to pass upon some aspects of the pending motions.

AUTO HITS TREE, MAN HURT

Gene Willgrups, a sailor assigned to the Naval Marine Corps Reserve Training Station at the foot of Ferry street, suffered a head injury early today when he lost control of his automobile and struck a tree in front of 4878 Birch boulevard, police reported.

Willgrups was taken to City Hospital. Police said they followed him from the intersection of Kingshighway and Penrose street to the accident scene. Willgrups was booked for failing to halt at a major stop sign, speeding and destruction of city property. He is 22 years old.

Begins Life Here After 10 Years Of 'Death' in Soviet Slave Camp

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
CONRAD GEISLINGER showing location of village of Seimchan in East Siberian Highlands, where he worked as slave laborer mining gold and copper.

Former German Soldier Was Presumed to Be Dead by Parents Who Immigrated to St. Louis.

Conrad Geislinger, who for 10 years was presumed dead by his parents, was learning a new language today as he prepared to begin a new life with his immigrant parents here.

A former German soldier, Geislinger, 32 years old, was captured by Russian troops shortly after his induction in 1944 and did slave labor in East Siberian gold mines until his sudden release in 1954. During that time, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Geislinger, 3321 Tennessee avenue, thought he had been killed in the fighting in western Hungary in the last days of World War II.

When they unexpectedly received word from him that he had been released after serving 10 years of a 15-year sentence for "espionage and parasitic activity," the Geislingers were as dumfounded as was their son when he learned his parents no longer lived in Germany. They had come here in 1949 and are now naturalized citizens. Mrs. Geislinger was in a Russian concentration camp until 1947.

This week the younger Geislinger reached Lambert-St. Louis Field, after an 11-month wait from the time of his release while the immigration procedures were completed. Conrad's father, a packer, is taking his vacation this week so the family can make the most of the homecoming.

The week's agenda includes some sightseeing but it calls mostly for just sitting in the living room of the modest south St. Louis home and talking.

Conrad spent the first four years of his sentence, imposed for trying to escape from a prisoner-of-war camp, in the Ural mountains. In 1948 he was sent to the gold and copper mines near the village of Seimchan, in the East Siberian highlands, where winter lingers for 10 months and the temperature falls to 76 below zero, Fahrenheit.

MAN WHO STORED DYNAMITE IN HIS APARTMENT HELD

Robert E. Chisholm, a construction worker, had been keeping 85 sticks of dynamite and four boxes of percussion caps in his apartment in a 31-family building at 4132 Washington boulevard, he told police yesterday. He was arrested and booked suspected of violating the city building code by illegal storage of explosives.

Detectives of the arson and bombing squad went to Chisholm's quarters yesterday on the complaint of another resident of the building, who told them he had seen the dynamite in Chisholm's apartment. Chisholm was not at home.

When found at home later, Chisholm led police to his automobile, where he had placed the explosives. He said he got the dynamite from a construction job he left last Wednesday, intending to use it for blasting rock.

RESTAURANT OWNER ROBBED OF $800 WHILE CLOSING UP

Frank Hyde, who operates a restaurant in the basement of 3002 Lawton boulevard and lives next door at 3004 Lawton, was robbed of $800 early today shortly after he closed the establishment, he reported.

Hyde, a Negro, said a man accosted him in the darkness as he was about to padlock a door between his restaurant and living quarters. The man took from Hyde a zipper bag containing the money and fled, after locking Hyde in the room.

A 32-caliber revolver also was taken from Hyde, officers were told. The restaurant proprietor is a retired railroad worker and has a pension of $100 a month. Hyde said he had planned to deposit the money, part of which was his savings, in a bank today.

In a petition filed with the commission at Jefferson City, the residents said Union Electric controlled Missouri Edison and that the two utilities should be considered as a single supplier. Rates should be uniform throughout the country, they maintained.

Union Electric officials said their minimum monthly residential rate in the county was $1.20 for 20 kilowatt hours or less. A Missouri Edison spokesman said his company charged a $1 minimum for 14 kilowatt hours, and acknowledged that Missouri Edison rates for additional power used were above those charged by Union Electric.

PARKING GARAGE SITE IS CHANGED TO ADD 200 CARS

Broadway-Sixth-Chestnut-Pine Location Chosen — Switch Is Criticized.

The location of one proposed municipal parking garage in the downtown area was changed by the Off-Street Parking Commission to provide parking facilities for about 200 additional cars at no extra cost, R. J. Stone, chairman of the commission, said today.

Answering a contention by the St. Louis Parking Association, a group of private parking lot operators, that the site was moved for the convenience of Famous Barr Co., Stone said that argument "is just a smoke screen" for the association's opposition to municipal facilities.

The proposed site is in the block bounded by Broadway and Sixth, Pine and Chestnut streets. At one time, it was tentatively proposed to locate the garage on the west side of Sixth, between Chestnut and Pine.

Parking facilities are now provided on this site by Famous Barr. The facilities accommodate slightly more than 200 automobiles.

Independent real estate appraisals were made for the commission as to the cost of condemning this site and the one east of Sixth, he said.

"We learned that the cost of land acquisition would be about the same," he said. "As a result of discussions with our consultants and an analysis of appraisals of both sites, we made a firm proposal for the garage on the site on the east side of Sixth street."

"By suggesting this site for the proposed new facility, we determined we could increase the number of parking spaces from 200 to 800. If we had proposed the site on which 200 cars can now be parked, we would have increased parking spaces from 200 to only 600."

He said he disagreed with the contention by parking lot operators that the changed location favored the Famous Barr store's customers.

"Actually, moving the location across the street will make little difference to those customers. The use of the block to the east, however, will provide more convenient facilities to the small businesses in the area to the east and especially to tenants of the Pierce Building, a block away at Fourth and Chestnut streets."

STATE TO SEEK $210,000 MORE FOR GAS STRIKE

Dalton Says Suit for Maximum Penalties Will Be Filed Against Union Tomorrow.

A suit seeking an additional $210,000 in financial penalties against union locals of Laclede Gas Co. employees will be filed in St. Louis circuit court tomorrow, Attorney General John M. Dalton announced in Jefferson City today.

Following a conference with Gov. Phil M. Donnelly, Dalton said the suit would ask for the maximum penalty provided in the King-Thompson Act, under which the state of Missouri seized the utility company July 5 after the employees went on strike.

The suit will ask $10,000 a day against each of the three locals of the union for the period from July 7 through last Friday, the last day of the strike, Dalton said.

Earlier, the state filed suits asking for $35,000 in penalties against the union, the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers, for July 6, the first day of the strike continued after state seizure.

In those suits, $10,000 each was sought from the three locals and $100 each from five union officers. The penalties against the officers may not be repeated under the law.

Prior to the conference, Gov. Donnelly repeated his earlier position that the additional suit should be filed against the union.

Dalton told reporters that the filing of the new penalty suit "should make a clear-cut case in which the courts can determine the constitutionality of the (King-Thompson) Act."

Constitutionality of the act was upheld for the first time in a ruling last week by Circuit Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr. in which the strikers were ordered to cease their walkout.

The union has announced it will appeal the decision. Dalton declared, "It is our job to represent the state of Missouri, and the Legislature enacted the law and provided for the penalties."

"The gas workers elected to contest the validity of the law, and under the circumstances we must proceed to invoke the penalties which the Legislature has prescribed."

Meanwhile, Laclede officials and union representatives who are negotiating a new contract announced they had reached agreement on a 5.68 per cent wage increase for members of two of the three union locals.

The two locals are No. 194, representing the clerical work-

Man Ruled Dead Is Found Here, Says He's 'Presumptively Alive'

Theatrical Agent Disappeared From Cleveland 24 Years Ago.

A man declared "presumptively dead" by a Cleveland court two years ago told a Post-Dispatch reporter here today that he knew nothing of the court's declaration, but "it is safe to assume that I'm presumptively alive."

The man who was found in St. Louis by the New York Life Insurance Co., is Samuel Richard Bradley, 65-year-old retired movie producer and night club manager, who said he has seen "visiting friends" here recently at 2847 Hampton avenue.

The company said Bradley, a policyholder, left his former home in Cleveland in 1932. In November 1954 a court there declared him legally dead. Now, having found him, the company has asked the court to cancel the finding.

Bradley told the reporter that he had been living in Akron, O., since leaving Cleveland, where he managed a night club until 1949. He said he has always lived under his own name and never attempted to conceal his whereabouts.

Contentedly puffing a cigar at his friends' home, Bradley said he started his theatrical career as a teen-age vaudeville performer. Later, he said, he produced silent movies in Cleveland, featuring such stars as William Desmond and Mary Marsh, sister of Mae Marsh.

He said he left Cleveland after separating from his wife, Mrs. Martha Bradley of Cleveland, whom he has not seen or heard from since before World War II. She divorced him in 1946 on grounds of "willful absence," and sought to have him declared legally dead in 1954.

Bradley said he had signed a statement relinquishing claim on a $3500 policy with the insurance company. He said a representative of the firm found him in Akron, which he still regards as his home, in December 1954, and again in St. Louis last month, when he was visiting his friends before.

Living on Savings. A slender man with thinning black hair, he said he had been living on his savings and was now drawing federal social security checks.

When told her former husband was still alive, Mrs. Bradley said: "I am glad to know he is alive but have no desire to communicate with him."

ers, who would receive the increase on a wholly percentage basis, and No. 6, representing the maintenance and street employees, who would receive it on a modified across-the-board basis.

For members of Local 6, this would amount to slightly more than a 12-cent hourly increase for some workers and about a 13-cent hourly rise for others.

The third local, No. 109, representing foremen, is not scheduled to begin contract talks until a final settlement has been reached with the other two locals.

Agree on Arbitration. The company and union bargaining teams yesterday agreed to submit the principal issue of "riser" connections to arbitrators, but still have not reached a decision as to how the arbitration panel shall be chosen or what its membership shall be.

The union originally had insisted that the "riser" connection issue be referred to a fact-finding panel without powers of arbitration. The company had supported the arbitration idea.

The company has wanted the "riser" connections of gas lines to be installed in the future by private contractors. The union has insisted that the work continue to be performed by company employees.

SIX NEW POLIOMYELITIS CASES REPORTED IN AREA

Six new poliomyelitis cases were reported today in the St. Louis area by the St. Louis and St. Louis county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The new patients, who brought this year's total to date to 30 compared with 14 a year ago, are 10 months, 2, 6, 7, 8 and 20 years old.

Three of the six are known to have received Salk vaccine shots, but only one of these three was diagnosed as suffering from paralytic poliomyelitis. Of the 30 infantile paralysis victims reported this year, five are known to have been vaccinated. Two of these were stricken with paralytic polio and the other three with a milder form of the illness.

There have been no polio deaths this year in the city or county.

Dr. Costello said the hospital decided to make the vaccine available to all its 1100 employees, whether in contact with polio cases or not, after the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced that vaccine supplies were ample.

Milan Milkovich, hospital administrator, said there were now six cases of confirmed or suspected polio at the hospital, including five children and one adult. The adult is Dr. Daniel L. Mullaly, a staff physician, who became ill June 28.

Only about 250 of the hospital's personnel are subject to direct contact with patients having infantile paralysis, the hospital said. Inoculation of hospital employees, which is on a voluntary basis, was expected to continue for several days.

BUSSES TO TAKE PLACE OF CARS ON BROADWAY

Public Service Company Won't Have to Spend $1,500,000 to Relocate Tracks.

Busses will replace streetcars next month on the Broadway line, Public Service Co. officers announced today.

The company obtained permission from the Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday to substitute bus for streetcar service in order to avoid spending about $1,500,000 to relocate car tracks on Broadway in connection with city and state plans for street widening and expressway projects.

The tracks, 14½ miles long on Broadway from Catalan street in south St. Louis to Grape avenue in the north, will be covered by street surfacing at a relatively small cost, company officers said.

The bus service, to start next month at a date which will be announced, will include express busses in the morning and evening rush hours and "shopper" expresses, the company said.

Broadway is scheduled to be widened at several points, and is to be crossed by both the planned Mark Twain and Ozark Expressways.

DOCTORS, NURSES AT CITY HOSPITAL GET POLIO SHOTS

Approximately 300 City Hospital doctors, nurses and other employees received Salk vaccine inoculations Monday and yesterday as a safeguard against poliomyelitis. Dr. Cyril Costello, hospital medical director, said today.

Dr. Costello said the hospital decided to make the vaccine available to all its 1100 employees, whether in contact with polio cases or not, after the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced that vaccine supplies were ample.

Milan Milkovich, hospital administrator, said there were now six cases of confirmed or suspected polio at the hospital, including five children and one adult. The adult is Dr. Daniel L. Mullaly, a staff physician, who became ill June 28.

Only about 250 of the hospital's personnel are subject to direct contact with patients having infantile paralysis, the hospital said. Inoculation of hospital employees, which is on a voluntary basis, was expected to continue for several days.

FILIPINO WORKERS ASK REDS TO FREE TRADE UNIONISTS

MANILA, July 18 (AP)—The Federation of Free Workers of the Philippines appealed today to the Soviet Union to release "thousands of trade unionists and other political prisoners" orbit.

as a step toward peaceful co-existence. The labor organization also requested the Russian leaders to "exert power and influence in seeking release of trade unionists and other political prisoners in forced labor camps in Red China and other countries within the Communist orbit."

RUSSIA TRIPLING OIL SALES TO ISRAEL

May Sell Jews New Turbo Drill and Send Them Technicians.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio

MOSCOW, July 18—The Soviet Union's new position in the Middle East as "the friend of the Arabs" has not prevented it from signing up to increase oil deliveries to Israel, it was disclosed yesterday.

The Israeli embassy said that the Soviet Petroleum Export Trust has agreed to ship $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 worth of crude and fuel oil to Israel in 1957-1958. This is three times as much oil as Israel is buying from the Russians this year.

At the same time, the Israelis said, negotiations went on toward the purchase of Soviet oil-drilling equipment, including the revolutionary new turbo-drill. Russian specialists would go to Israel to train the local drilling crews if the purchases were made.

This is the fourth year Israel has purchased Soviet oil. In return it exports goods to the Soviet Union, the most important being citrus fruits.

Diplomats noted here that the Arab states resent trade with Israel, and have threatened boycott of nations engaged in such trade. The Soviet move in going ahead with normal commercial transactions was seen as a sign of confidence in its position in the Middle East.

JUSTICE'S SPEEDING CHARGE CONVICTION IS OVERTURNED

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—An appeals court ruled yesterday that Municipal Court Justice Carson de Witt Baker was convicted of speeding on insufficient evidence.

Baker appealed after being fined and losing his driver's license over a 1953 speeding charge, which came to light when he paid fines on 17 parking violations.

The appellate part of the Municipal Court said the policeman who issued the speeding ticket "had no recollection of any events concerning the alleged traffic infraction and was unable to identify the defendant."

Baker still faces an investigation into whether, as a convicted "scofflaw" who repeatedly ignored traffic tickets, he is fit to remain on the bench.

MARINE OFFICER LABELS MARCH AS MALTREATMENT

at the time, "in terms of Marine Corps training the platoon was not sharp, was not disciplined."

"It was, in a lot of ways, a 'pressure' Berman continued, 'a herd. They were not taking seriously the training."

"There were two minor events on that fateful day, minor to me. Other drill instructors reported that the platoon which was supposed to be working was indeed lolling around . . . a field day was ordered."

"It was an order of the senior drill instructor (McKeon was a junior) that since the platoon was on the rifle range there would be no seconds of protein—and no desserts."

(There is a theory in the Marine Corps that the eating of sweets affects your aim when you are firing rifles. The theory goes that the sugar intake must be controlled since the body converts sugar to alcohol—and alcohol is bad for good shooting.)

Reason for March.

"It was at this time," Berman went on "that to teach them discipline and to improve morale, McKeon decided he would lead them on a night march."

Berman described the area as a mud flat covered with grass which was flooded only at high tide by the waters backed up from Ribbon creek.

When he led the platoon into the water, Berman related, McKeon was out front, "carefully reconnoitering. And at no time was he in water above his chest—his armpits."

While he marched with the men, Berman said, McKeon kept dropping bits of advice like, "When you get in combat at night stay out of the light. When you ford a stream stay close to the banks if possible."

While the march was under way, Berman told the court, "the men scattered into groups—and one group wandered off."

"There was a sharp cry of help from one man—and platoon 71 panicked. . . . Men started to grab belts and jumped on one another."

McKeon Pulled Under.

Berman said McKeon rescued one man and thrice was pulled under by a struggling recruit. "Another 10 seconds and there would be no reason for this occasion," he observed.

The plain facts are, Berman contended, that McKeon was using training methods condoned by the Corps. "He was dedicated to the purpose of making Marines." The record of the Corps, Berman concluded, "requires no apology. If there are others who think so, the apology should not be made by McKeon."

During a brief recess, McKeon met Mrs. Maggie Meeks of Savannah, Ga., the mother of Pvt. Thomas Hardeman, one of the victims.

When Mrs. Meeks made the observation "I hope the Lord will forgive you," tears came to the eyes of the usually impassive McKeon.

Shortly after Berman's statement, the Government put its first witness on the stand, Capt. Charles R. Weddell, the base adjutant.

Weddell testified as to the base regulations governing drinking at the time of the tragedy.

Trial Picks Up Speed.

The trial dragged during the first day and a half as attorneys argued legal technicalities, but yesterday it picked up speed.

In quick order, the Marine Corps was directed to produce the results of a training methods survey, two motions to sever the drinking charges were struck down and McKeon made his plea.

Berman had moved to eliminate both drinking charges on the ground that they were minor. Testimony on them, he said, would prejudice McKeon's defense against the more serious charges.

Law officer Irving N. Klein, a Navy captain from New York, ruled against the motion. He also denied a subsequent Berman motion to delete the charge of drinking in the presence of a recruit.

The Marine Corps was directed by Klein to let Berman see the results of a poll of 27,000 Marines about training methods, a survey ordered by Commandant Gen. Randolph McC. Pate shortly after the tragedy. Earlier, Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas had turned down Berman's request to see the poll results and the Marine analysis of it.

Klein said the survey "may possibly have some pertinence to this case."

Defense Contention.

It is Berman's contention that McKeon, in leading the platoon into the water, was acting in accordance with recruit training methods customary at Parris Island. He said he expects to find in the survey information about training to sustain this position.

(The New York Times quoted Berman as saying he would have four men from his office assigned to cull the records of the survey, and expected that by working day and night they could finish the job. The issue as to whether any of the material they turn up can be used as evidence will have to be decided.)

McKeon, usually reticent, yesterday said he is "very much pleased" with the defense his counsel is waging. "He is outstanding," the sergeant added in reference to Berman.

There is a disagreement between Sevier and Berman over the maximum sentence McKeon could receive if convicted. Berman contends the maximum is four years and nine months, and Sevier says it is six years and three months. The matter will have to be settled later by Klein.

DULLES TO HELP DRAFT G.O.P.'S FOREIGN PLANK

publicans charged the Truman Administration with squandering in seven years "the unprecedented power and prestige which were ours at the close of World War II" and "losing the peace." They implied Administration responsibility for the loss of 500,000,000 non-Russian peoples of 15 countries to the Communists.

Administration leaders were charged with "betraying" the moral incentives and hopes of the Second World War: of abandoning such friendly nations as Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Poland and Czechoslovakia to the Communists, and of conducting such an erroneous policy with respect to China that "they substituted on our Pacific flank a murderous enemy for an ally and friend."

Peace-Assuring Pledges.

Truman Administration leaders "flouted our peace-assuring pledges such as the Atlantic Charter, and did so in favor of despots," the G.O.P. platform said. "Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam were the scenes of those tragic blunders with others to follow. The leaders of the Administration in power acted without the knowledge or consent of Congress or of the American people. They traded our overwhelming victory for a new enemy and for new oppressions and new wars which were quick to come."

"With foresight," the plank continued, "the Korean war could never have happened. . . . By their hampering orders they produced stalemates and ignominious bartering with our enemies, and they offered no hope of victory."

The Republicans implied the Democrats were responsible for resentment in Latin America, anti-American sentiment in the Middle East and Africa and an "Asia last" policy. Administration leaders, they asserted, had no real foreign policy; "they swing erratically from timid appeasement to reckless bluster."

"The good in our foreign policies has been accomplished with Republican co-operation, such as the organization of the United Nations, the establishment of the trusteeship principles for dependent peoples, the making of peace with Japan and Germany, and the building of more solid security in Europe."

But in the main the Republican party has been ignored and its participation has not been invited."

The Republicans promised to "eliminate from the State Department and from every federal office, all, wherever they may be found, who share responsibility for the needless predicaments and perils in which we find ourselves. We shall also sever from the public payroll the hordes of loafers, incompetents and unnecessary employees who clutter the Administration of our foreign affairs."

A Republican program will "mark the end of the negative, futile and immoral policy of 'containment' which abandons countless human beings to a despotism and Godless terrorism, which in turn enables the rulers to forge the captives into a weapon for our destruction," it was said.

PRESSURE USED AGAINST DAM BILL,

mation Bureau, and the Idaho Power projects are incompatible — construction of either would flood the sites selected for the other. So it's a winner-take-all fight.

Hell's Canyon bills were stymied for a year in Senate and House Interior Committees until soon after Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler spoke out on the issue. He urged party leaders in Congress to get them out to bolster the "giveaway" charges—especially for the benefit of Democratic candidates in crucial Pacific Northwest Senate contests.

The bills finally cleared the committees by close votes after considerable shuffling and reported vote trades.

In the Senate committee, the vote was strictly along party lines with eight Democrats for the bill and seven Republicans against it. This result was achieved by transferring Senator Russell B. Long, (Dem.), Louisiana, an opponent of the bill, to another committee and replacing him with a pro-Hell's Canyon member.

Still in House Committee.

In the House committee Representative J. Edgar Chenoweth, (Rep.), Colorado, voted with the Democrats in the expressed hope of getting favorable consideration for a Colorado reclamation project. The House Hell's Canyon bill is in the Rules Committee, where it may remain until the Senate has acted on its identical version.

The Senate measure was assured of support from 27 Democratic and two Republican cosponsors. Some proponents conceded most other Republicans would oppose it and several Southern Democrats would follow suit.

Hell's Canyon long has been a prime political issue in the Pacific Northwest and it will be bigger than ever in some campaigns this year.

Senator Morse, author of the Senate bill, is running for reelection against Douglas McKay, former Secretary of the Interior who withdrew his department's opposition to Idaho Power's FPC applications.

Among other candidates expected to raise the issue are Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem.), Washington, for the bill, and Senator Herman Welker (Rep.), Idaho, against it.

The legislation would authorize—but would not appropriate money for—a $308,000,000 concrete dam in Hell's Canyon and related works costing an estimated $176,000,000 more.

Proponents claim the project would (1) add more than a million kilowatts of capacity to the federal power system in the Northwest, (2) attract new industries and add wealth to the region through lowest electric energy (3) subsidize off-project irrigation projects through power revenues and (4) provide important flood control and other benefits.

Idaho Power Co. contends its three dams, costing an estimated $133,000,000, would provide almost as much power and as many other benefits as the more expensive federal project.

Idaho Power's three-dam plan was licensed by FPC following a year-long hearing and over the opposition of public power groups. The opposition has asked the United States court of appeals to nullify the license and has petitioned the Supreme Court to put a stop to construction work on one of the dams.

The Court of Appeals is expected to rule soon on validity of the license. Arguments for and against application to stay the effectiveness of the license have been submitted to the Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, Idaho Power has been proceeding with construction of Brownlee dam, principal storage unit in its three-dam plan.

Republican Defense.

In yesterday's preview of the forthcoming debate, Republican Senators Barry Goldwater, Arizona, and Welker, defended the FPC action licensing the Idaho Power dams.

Welker said a big federal project is not needed for flood control. He argued it would be inefficient as a power producer and would jeopardize state water rights in Idaho. He quoted one army engineer as saying no large reservoir is needed to control the Snake river in the Hell's Canyon area.

Another Army engineer, he said, advocated less-costly flood control and irrigation dams upstream from Hell's Canyon. This engineer he quoted as asking: "Why in hell should Idaho water be permitted to rip and tear its way several hundred miles across the state for storage at Hell's Canyon?"

Goldwater said national Democratic chairman Butler "presured" party leaders in Congress into using a "six-gun technique" to get Hell's Canyon bills out of committee.

He said Butler urged the leaders to press for committee approval of Hell's Canyon legislation "in order to enhance the chances of re-election of one of our colleagues."

One bill was "bartered" against another, Goldwater said, in order to get Hell's Canyon bills out of committee.

HODGE ANSWERS

ALL QUESTIONS IN

office. "He has agreed," Contrak said, "to give me a complete statement and answer all my questions."

The meeting between Hodge and Contrak was closed to the press.

More to Be Auditor.

Gov. William G. Stratton, who forced Hodge's resignation as auditor, his withdrawal as a candidate to succeed himself and his resignation as a delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention, announced the interim appointment of Lloyd Morey, president emeritus of the University of Illinois, as state auditor.

Morey, reached by Gov. Stratton in Ann Arbor, Mich., arrived here today to take over the auditor's office. He was flown here in a National Guard plane and went immediately to the Governor's office to sign his $50,000 bond.

Present for the signing ceremony were Stratton and Justice Ray Klingbiel of the State Supreme Court. After the signing, the bond was flown to Nashville, Ill., for approval by Justice Ralph Maxwell, also of the Supreme Court. It was to be returned to Springfield later today, after which Morey will be sworn in.

Morey, 70 years old, was comptroller of the university from 1916 until he became president in 1953. He became president emeritus in 1955. Gov. Stratton said Morey will have a free hand in running the auditor's office.

Contrak, meanwhile, said that if Hodge's answers to questions concerning allegedly improperly cashed state warrants (checks) were satisfactory, he may not have to appear before a grand jury Monday.

Signs Immunity Waiver.

The former state auditor, who was one of the leading candidates on the state Republican ticket in 1952, has signed an immunity waiver. This means that his statements before the grand jury can be used as evidence against him in a trial on any charge that may be filed.

Hodge, a Granite City real estate and insurance agency owner, has said that if any shortages are found in his office he would make restitution "to the full extent of my resources." It was said that he told the governor he could raise about $400,000.

Epping, who is not on the state payroll, is considered a key figure in the alleged mishandling of state funds. Authorities have investigated reports that he cashed some improperly indorsed state warrants (checks) at the Southmoor Bank & Trust Co. in Chicago. Epping is a partner in a private accounting firm.

He reportedly was paid $1000 a month fee by his accounting firm. Epping, formerly from O'Fallon, recently built a new home in Lebanon, Ill.

A part of the investigation of Hodge's affairs deals with his lavish, modern home at Lake Springfield, it was learned. The house on a lake on the outskirts of the city is built on several levels. It is equipped with piped-in phonograph music, air conditioning and expensive furnishings. It was here and at Hodge's home in Granite City that he gained a reputation as a good host.

Jenner's Statement.

Jenner of the Budgetary Commission, which two weeks ago was ordered by Gov. Stratton to investigate Hodge's office, told reporters today:

"We are now certain that an amount equal to $547,000 was paid to persons who performed no services for the state, or to persons or companies which are wholly fictitious."

Asked if the sum might be greater than $547,000, Jenner said: "It will go up, not down."

The budgetary commission is not going to fix the blame, Jenner said, but determine whether anyone connected with the auditor's office used his position for personal gain. He said he expects the commission's final report to recommend changes in office procedures.

Also the commission is seeking to determine if persons employed by the auditor were given state powers and responsibilities while not on the state payroll, Jenner said. It is also trying to find out whether a dual payroll system was used whereby some persons were employed by the office, but not listed in official state records as state employees.

Other Questions.

Jenner said the commission also wants to know whether the auditor and some of his employees were officers of banks or other financial institutions, which come under the supervision of the state auditor's office.

Another phase of the commission's inquiry, he said, is to find out whether or not Hodge or any of his employees had their automobiles or airplanes maintained at state expense.

Meanwhile, in Chicago, where agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have been investigating the part played in the case by the Southmoor Bank, First Assistant United States Attorney Frank McGarr announced that apparent federal law violations had been found at the bank.

He said two possible crimes—misapplication of federally insured funds and embezzlement—by some bank officials may be indicated.

Investigation at the bank began after FBI agents examined photostatic copies of 21 Illinois state warrants from the files of the state treasurer's office and determined that they apparently were not indorsed by the payees to whom they were made out. McGarr said. The original cancelled checks were missing from the files of Hodge's office, he added. Not all of the 21 checks examined were cashed at the Southmoor bank.

Foundation Record Missing.

McGarr explained the misapplication offenses dealt with the apparent cashing of checks for nonpayees. The embezzlement angle is being considered in connection with the Southmoor Foundation, a fund maintained by the bank from a part of its profits from construction loans. McGarr said no record of the funds diverted to the foundation has been found in the bank's records.

Federal agents said one of the important witnesses before the grand jury in Chicago to tomorrow will be Adlai A. Mueller, former chief bank examiner in the state auditor's office. Mueller, a career employee of 30 years experience, was demoted to clerk by Hodge shortly after Hodge was elected to the office.

Two of the questionable checks were reportedly made out to the Wood River Printing and Publishing Co., which does job printing and publishes the Wood River Journal, a weekly newspaper. J. A. Wilson, president of the firm, issued the following statement:

"Our attention has been directed to newspapers listing checks reputed to have been issued to the Wood River Printing and Publishing Co., one for $6875 on May 19, 1955, and the other for $11,850 on Sept. 15, 1955. No checks representing either of these amounts were ever received by this company or by any of its employees."

Stockholders Meet.

A group of former stockholders in the Elmwood Park State Bank, near Chicago, which was closed by Hodge in 1953 for alleged irregularities, and reorganized with Hodge reportedly a principal stockholder, called a meeting today in Chicago to consider possible legal action.

One of the witnesses, when the Sangamon county grand jury resumes its inquiry Monday, will be Chicago Policeman William D. Lydon, whose drapery firm received huge contracts from Hodge. Lydon was suspended from the Chicago Police Department yesterday by Commissioner Timothy O'Connor. He has been on vacation at Hodge's Esquire Apartments in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Authorities said Lydon's firm was named as payee for about $396,000 in state checks.

O'Connor said he was suspended because he conducted another business while a member of the department and because he falsified his civil service questionnaire by saying he had never been indicted for a crime. Court records showed he was acquitted of murder in 1924.

"State Senator Elbert S. Smith (Rep.), Decatur, conferred for 90 minutes today with Gov. Stratton and discussed very seriously my (Smith's) availability to run" as a replacement for Hodge, the Senator announced. He added, "no definite offer was made" and no second meeting was scheduled, but Smith said he planned to keep in touch with the Governor.

Gubernatorial Timber.

Hodge, 51 years old, was considered until recently to have a good chance to obtain the G.O.P. nomination for Governor in 1960. He was referred to as the "most popular man in Springfield" and in 1952 ran a close second on the state Republican ticket. He was nominated to succeed himself as state auditor in the April primary election.

Born in Indiana, Hodge was taken to Granite City as a small boy by his family, which was considered well-to-do. He attended Granite City schools and went on to Washington University in St. Louis. He also attended the Benton College of Law in that city.

He and his wife, the former

Margaret Coudy of Granite City, have one son, now 22 years old.

On the death of his father, Hodge became the owner of the Hodge Agency in Granite City, a real estate and insurance firm. He prospered and now owns farms in Madison and Clinton counties and owns an interest in a produce farm near Pecos, Tex. In addition he owns a stock farm in Missouri and the $600,000 Esquire Apartment Hotel. In the Granite City area, he owns several commercial buildings.

Known as 'Joiner.'

Hodge is a director of the Paramount Fire Insurance Co. of New York and a director of the Mercantile Mortgage Co. in Granite City. In his home town, he is known as a "great joiner." He belonged to and was active in the Masonic Lodge, Elks, Moose, Rotary and Eagles. Being an avid sports fan, he at one time owned some shares in the old St. Louis Browns baseball team.

Tall and an impeccable dresser, Hodge developed a widespread reputation as a host. He entertained Illinois political leaders in his Lake Springfield home and at his large home in Granite City. Frequently he sent guests to Fort Lauderdale for a visit "on the house."

Simultaneously, he maintained suites at a hotel here and at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. It was estimated that over a period of 40 months he paid $25,000 for the accommodations at the Drake.

Hodge had four automobiles, a yacht and two airplanes, keeping a pilot on his payroll, although he often flew the planes himself. He made frequent trips to the Esquire. Friends said he enjoyed going to night clubs and was never known to let anyone else pay the bill.

Japan-Brazil Flights Sought.
RIO DE JANEIRO, July 18 (AP)—Brazil is an easy four days from Tokyo, Japan Airlines reports after a survey flight to Sao Paulo. It hopes to get a permit for regular passenger flights via Wake Island, San Francisco, New Orleans, Caracas, Belem and Rio to Sao Paulo. Since Japanese first were admitted to Brazil in 1908 many have settled in Sao Paulo state.

MAGSAYSAY DUE TO VISIT THE U.S. EARLY NEXT YEAR

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)
MANILA, July 18—President Ramon Magsaysay will visit the United States.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon on his July 4 visit here extended an invitation on behalf of President Eisenhower. President Magsaysay accepted. He will make the trip probably some time early next year, giving Americans a chance to see the man who in a short time has become one of the most popular political figures in Asia. The invitation brought by Nixon was not the first time that Magsaysay had been asked to pay a state visit to the United States, but until now he felt that his duties at home were too pressing to allow him to leave.

Japan Plans Atomic Liner.
TOKYO, July 18 (AP)—Japan's big OSK (Osaka Shosen Kaisha) steamship line hopes to have a streamlined, atom-powered liner on its South American run by 1961—if it gets enriched uranium from the United States. OSK said the ship could cruise at 25 knots.

EISENHOWER, TOP AIDS CONFER ON STEEL STRIKE

3 Cabinet Members, Mediation Chief in Group—No Plan to Invoke Taft Act.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (UP)—President Eisenhower discussed the steel strike today with Cabinet members and other top federal officials.

Present at the conference were Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell; Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service; Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey; Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks; Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Sherman Adams, the assistant to the President.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said Finnegan gave the assurance that both parties "are determined to make every possible effort to reach an agreement at the earliest practicable time." The strike is in its eighteenth day.

Asked whether Mr. Eisenhower is concerned about the strike, Snyder said "Anything that causes unemployment or an extended disturbance of the national economy is a matter of concern to the President."

Snyder said he knows of no White House plans to invoke the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Act to require a "cooling off" period in the steel dispute. He said he did not believe the meeting constituted presidential intervention in the steel dispute. He said the meeting was "a review."

STEEL CONTRACT TALKS RENEWED

PITTSBURGH, July 18 (UP)—The steel industry's big three, back after a one-day secret conference in New York, resumed negotiations with the United Steelworkers today to end the 18-day strike.

However, there was nothing to indicate either side would substantially alter its position. John A. Stephens, vice president of United States Steel Corp. chief industry negotiator, said yesterday's management conference was called to give its officials a hard look at the issues and not to draw up any new contract proposal.

The closed door session in New York was described as a "review" conference which was attended by the presidents or chairmen of 12 major steel companies.

The Government announced yesterday it will ease its "freeze" on steel in warehouses to give civilian producers access to all but certain vital types needed for defense purposes.

The new order goes into effect Sunday. It replaces the temporary July 6 blanket freeze designed to assure defense producers adequate supplies of special steels during the strike.

Commerce Department officials said the new order was issued after consultation with representatives of the nation's 1250 steel warehouses. They said they determined that, with some exceptions, supplies are "adequate."

The United States, with 85 per cent of its steel capacity knocked out, is still outproducing all but three other nations in the world. They are Russia, West Germany and Great Britain, according to Iron Age magazine.

Iron Age estimated that by the end of the third week the strike will have caused the loss of 7,000,000 tons of steel.

The magazine said that although the Eisenhower Administration is taking an official hands-off attitude in the strike, behind the scenes pressure is building up with "at least two Cabinet members" involved in settlement efforts.

The strike has made 650,000 steel workers and about 100,000 workers in steel-dependent industries idle.

FRENCH REJECT RED PLAN TO CUT FORCES IN REICH

Moscow Wanted Reduction Without Waiting for Agreement on Disarmament.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio

PARIS, July 18 — France firmly rejected last night a Soviet proposal that the French forces in Germany be reduced without waiting for an over-all agreement on disarmament. It said such a step was "not truly qualified" to promote a relaxation of international tension.

Soviet Premier Bulganin made a similar proposal to the other Western allies in a letter June 8. Britain turned it down July 9. The United States has not yet replied, but its known position on the prerequisites for disarmament precludes any acceptance of the Bulganin proposal.

Premier Mollet, in a letter to Bulganin, made it clear that the French government was not interested in carrying out manpower cuts such as those announced May 14 by Russia. He maintained that such reductions in strength without adequate inspection of nuclear weapons were inadequate.

Soviet Objective. What really should be the Soviet objective, Mollet strongly suggested, was a program that could couple disarmament with the solution of "the most urgent" political questions as the reunification of Germany and the need of progressively establishing a sense of security throughout the world.

Bulganin's June 8 proposal was obviously intended to make political capital out of Moscow's earlier announcement that 1,200,000 Soviet army soldiers were being demobilized. The French reply shows, however, that Mollet and his ministers were unimpressed by the Soviet maneuver.

The position taken by the French government was solidly in line with appraisals that Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, recently made of the Soviet Union's military strength. These appraisals showed that the Red army, because of mechanical improvements, was stronger than ever. The SHAPE estimates publicly stated that there was no available evidence supporting the Soviet Union's announced manpower cuts. Thus, the number of Red army divisions was left unchanged at 175, while it was noted that the satellite air arms had grown in strength. The SHAPE view is that even if true, a reduction in the Russian army means little.

Grave Importance.

Showing that France also feared the vastly greater number of troops in the Communist countries, Mollet remarked that reducing the Western defense lines in Germany would have "a very grave importance" for his country and its allies but that, in the meantime, the Eastern armies would remain "virtually intact."

Mollet hinted at the Algerian conflict by remarking that in any case, a manpower reduction for France could be undertaken only with difficulty "in the present situation." He emphasized that in the meantime progress toward disarmament could be made within the framework of the United Nations in two important fields.

BULLET FIRED AT FLEEING MEN HITS, WOUNDS WOMAN

A bullet fired at two men fleeing from a liquor store at 2711 Franklin avenue last night apparently ricocheted from a brick wall and struck Mrs. Lottie Tammons, 2650A Franklin avenue, as she sat at home, police reported. Mrs. Tammons, a Negro, was wounded in the left arm.

Miss Mamie Lee Thomas, clerk at the liquor store, also a Negro, told officers two men came in and asked for wine. One went behind the counter and grew abusive, displaying a knife, whereupon she fired four shots with a .38-caliber revolver, she said.

Iowa Woman, 105, Dies.
DES MOINES, Ia., July 18 (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth J. Trudo died Monday a week after she celebrated her 105th birthday. Mrs. Trudo died at the home of an 80-year-old daughter with whom she had lived for 20 years.

$1,500,000 SPENT IN AREA
IN YEAR BY SCOTT FIELD

More than $1,500,000 in Government purchases was made by Scott Air Force Base in Belleville, East St. Louis and the St. Louis metropolitan area during the past fiscal year.

Major John P. Wilson, contracting officer at the base, announced today.

He said that local firms receive orders from the base in a competitive manner. For example, Major Wilson said, a firm lists itself and its products with the Scott purchasing and contracting office either through the mail or through personal contact.

When the base needs products of a certain description, the contracting office examines the list of firms supplying this merchandise. These firms then are allowed to bid for the contract.

Arrested

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
THOMAS J. MURPHY.

MAJOR ARRESTED IN COUNTY CHASE

Murphy stopped, the patrol report noted.

En route to headquarters of State Patrol Troop C on Ballas road, Mudd said Murphy "tried very hard to convince me that the case was not being handled correctly and that he should be allowed to continue on to his farm." Murphy said he owns a farm near Hillsboro in Jefferson county.

Mudd added, "Murphy also told me that I would regret having stopped him since he knew so many people."

Under better lighting at patrol headquarters, Mudd said Murphy's eyes appeared "somewhat glassy and bloodshot. His lips appeared almost white."

Li. W. L. Hutchings of Patrol Troop C denied there had been any attempt to hush up Maj.
Murphy's arrest. He said the case was "no different from several hundred others that are handled by the patrol each month but which are not reported to the newspapers."

It was a little more than a mile from the spot where Mudd first observed Murphy's car and the point where he finally baited him. Murphy was driving about 15 miles an hour most of the time, the patrol reported.

Released to Detectives.
After questioning by two patrol sergeants on duty at the time, Murphy was released in custody of two St. Louis detectives after Chief of Detectives James Chapman was notified of the incident.

He was released without charge. Sgt. G. H. Alkire of the patrol said that was "normal procedure under the circumstances." He pointed out that Murphy had been removed from the road as a motorist and two detectives had taken him in custody.

Further, Alkire noted, Murphy was told that the incident would be presented to the Prosecuting Attorney's office for appropriate

Chief Deputy Sheriff Smith was booked at the sheriff's office, charged with careless and reckless driving and required to post a $500 bond.

Alkire said this action was taken because Trooper Dale Ponce, who arrested Smith, also had in custody three "drag" racers. It is Patrol policy to require bond from all "drag" race drivers and Smith's action was regarded as equally serious, Alkire said.

In routine traffic offenses, a motorist is given a summons but is not required to post a

Balked at Being Booked.
At the time of his arrest, Smith admitted he had been drinking and balked at being booked. He said he was hurrying to the sheriff's office because he believed it to be undesirable.

Investigators for the prosecuting attorney's office have placed Smith at a party given for politicians and others in Town and Country from 8:30 p.m. Saturday until less than an hour before he was booked at 3 a.m. Sunday, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Mudd, Alkire and two other patrolmen were subpoenaed for appearance before the grand jury today. Murphy was "invited" to appear, and Chapman was asked to send a representative of his department. Prosecuting Attorney Edward W.
Garnholz said.

Murphy, 58 years old, was appointed assistant chief of detectives in March 1953.

He was raised to the rank of major in September 1951 in an appointment that caused surprise within the police department. He has been in the department since 1920.

SENATE OK'S BILL HIKING AID TO G.I. SURVIVORS

Action Follows House
Approval—Higher Rates Would Be Based on Rank.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the President last night a compromise bill revising the system of compensation payments to survivors of service men.

The Senate acted by voice vote a few hours after the House had given its final approval to the measure.

The bill is one of the major items on President Eisenhower's legislative program. It would cost an estimated $456,000,000 the first year, with slightly declining costs in succeeding years, and would allow higher payments to some 65,000 widows plus others.

Payment Based on Rank.

The measure, which the President says would make the military more attractive as a career, would:

1. Increase Veterans' Administration payments to dependents of servicemen who die on active duty. Widows now receiving $57 a month in Veterans' Administration compensation for service-connected death of a husband would get $122 to $266 a month, depending on the husband's military earnings. The higher rates would be based for the first time on the husband's rank rather than a flat rate for all, from private to general.

2. All service men would be put under the social security system and would pay for part of their social security credits, as civilian workers now do.
3. Do away with the $10,000 free life insurance, or indemnity, which was set up for service men in the Korean War.

The bill would take effect Jan. 1, 1957. Persons now receiving VA compensation would have their choice of remaining under the present system or going under the new one if they are eligible.

Other bills passed by the Senate and sent to the White House would:

Make it easier to get convictions in cases involving fraudulent acceptance of benefits under the Armed Forces Dependents Assistance Act. The bill would make such offenses misdemeanors with maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $1000 fine.

Repeal and extend for a year a law under which dependents of missing members of the armed forces may continue to draw pay allotments. The law expired June 30, but the Defense Department says no one will miss a check if it is signed by July 31.

Extend the school milk program to embrace all non-profit nursery schools, camps and settlement houses, regardless of whether they are for underprivileged children.

Forgive about $700,000 of overpayments to 2880 naval reserve officers called to active duty in the Korean war. The Senate Armed Services Committee said the men received the overpayments through errors made in good faith in calculating the effective dates of promotions.

Permit the armed forces to hire civilian counsel to defend service men or their dependents facing trial in a foreign court.

Measures passed by the House and sent to the President would:

Grant permanent residence in the United States to Alexander Orlov, 60 years old, Russian refugee, and his wife. Orlov, an author, broke with the Reds in 1930 and fled to America. Deportation proceedings had been filed against the Orlovs last year for violating the non-immigrant status under which they originally entered the country.

Merchant Marine Medals. Authorize decorations for merchant mariners for heroic or meritorious service in peace and war.

Other actions in Congress included:

The Senate passed and sent to the House a compromise bill removing the 10 per cent travel tax on most trips from the United States borders to the Caribbean, Bermuda, Latin America, Hawaii and Alaska. The bill retains the levy on trips into zones in Mexico or Canada which extend 225 miles beyond the United States border. The tax already had been removed on trips to Europe, South America and Asia. The exemption applies only to the part of the trip from the last stop in the United States and the foreign destination.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to allow the President to establish special low postal rates for relief parcels to disaster areas in the United States and foreign nations.

to the House a bill allowing Dr. Paul Yen Hsiung Feng, Chinese nuclear scientist, and his family to become permanent residents. He came to the United States as a student in 1950.

Fisheries Plan Rejected.

The Senate rejected a House proposal to set up a separate commercial fisheries division in the Department of Interior and asked for a conference.

The House Agriculture Committee approved a bill which would permit farmers to place crop land in the soil bank reserve as late as 30 days before harvest if the crop were plowed under, clipped or cut to prevent maturing.

GSA PLANS RAZING OF 'TEMPORARY' U.S. BUILDINGS

Washington, July 18 (AP)—Congress was told yesterday of plans to tear down the temporary government buildings that pock the Capital's scenery and provide space for thousands of federal workers in permanent structures.

The General Services Administration drew up the program, calling for 22 new buildings or enlargements of existing buildings. If it goes through, all the downtown temporary buildings will be razed by 1962.

The temporary buildings were whipped together in World Wars I and II to handle the emergency overflow of personnel. As the Government has stayed and are in use.

The GSA plan includes:

1. Construction of 13 new buildings at a cost of $386,000,000 by the end of 1960.
2. Major extensions to the Internal Revenue, Treasury Annex and Post Office Department buildings by late 1962.

3. Construction after 1962 of extensions to four other downtown buildings, one new structure and enlargement and remodeling of emergency hospital for use as an office building.

Foremen Lauded.

NEW YORK (UP)—Human effort is still the prime factor in industrial safety and the individual foreman is still the key figure to the success of any such program, according to the American Can Co. Canco.

evaluating a safety program of disabling accidents from 17.3 in 1947 to 4.8 in 1955, gives of the credit in promoting "in that has reduced the incidence per million man hours worked the foremen the major share created safety awareness."

90 DAYS, $1500 FINE FOR YOUTH IN FATAL CRASH

Police Were Pursuing Olivette Driver's Car
Killed.

Thomas Bayer, 19 years old, 22 Highgate road, Olivette, was fined $1500 and sentenced to 90 days in the city workhouse today by Police Court Judge Robert G. Dowd when he was found guilty of three traffic charges. He was the driver of an automobile which was involved in a fatal collision last Aug. 19.

Bayer's machine, being pursued by a police car, collided at Murdoch and Sulphur avenues with one driven by Paul Magoon, 5302A Murdoch. Mrs. Magoon was thrown 58 feet by the impact and killed.

No evidence was presented in Bayer's defense at today's hearing, but Mark Hennelly, his attorney, asked the court to dismiss two charges of passing intersection stop signs. He contended the police machine pursuing Bayer was too distant for the officers to be sure Bayer had not stopped at the intersections.

Judge Dowd denied Hennelly's plea, asserting that Bayer's failure to observe the stop signs resulted in Mrs. Magoon's death. He assessed the maximum fine on both stop sign charges and one of speeding. Hennelly announced an appeal would be filed.

The only witness at the hearing was Cpl. Melburn Stein of the Hampton avenue police district. He testified that he and another officer were headed south in Hampton avenue when they saw Bayer's machine going north at a high rate of speed. He said they turned and gave pursuit.

Stein estimated the speed of Bayer's automobile at 70 miles an hour and testified the police car never got within five blocks of Bayer's machine. The officer said Bayer passed stop signs at Hampton and Nottingham and Hampton and Eichelberger avenues.

Bayer is under indictment for manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Magoon. Magoon suffered head injuries, a punctured lung and fractured ribs in the accident.

TV PAIR BEATEN FOR 15TH YEAR AT $100 A WEEK

HOLLYWOOD, July 18 (AP)—Steve Rowland and his wife can look forward to $100 a week for 14 years as winners of what is probably the biggest net radio-TV jackpot yet. They won because Rowland trusted his wife through 14 weeks of competition on the CBS TV show, "Do You Trust Your Wife."

The Rowlands ran their string out last night when policeman Robert Vanaken, a Los Angeles freeway helicopter patrolman, scored eight to Mrs. Rowland's six in guessing whether 10 cities had more or less than 500,000 population. Steve and Dorothy Rowland's winnings, including $1200 on the qualifying round, total $74,000.

Because the Negro couple can spread the income tax over 14 years, they will come out ahead of the big lump-sum winners on the "$64,000 Question" and the $100,000 "The Big Surprise."

Rowland has an income of about $8000 a year from a liquor store and as an insurance man. He and his wife will realize about $37,992 from their winnings. Had they won $64,000 in one year they would have cleared $24,532. A $100,000 win would have meant $26,586 to keep.

GIRL, 3, RESCUED AFTER CLIMBING 60-FOOT ANTENNA

ELKHART, Ind., July 18 (UP)—Three-year-old Harriet Skom of Chicago, who likes to climb, was rescued from a television antenna 60 feet above the ground last night.

Harriet climbed up the slender steel antenna while her mother visited in the home of the Samuel News. She froze near the top and could not get down.

Mrs. Joseph Skom spotted Harriet and called police. Patrolman Robert Raeder climbed up and brought Harriet down.

The antenna standing on the ground beside the News home has metal braces about a foot apart. The girl had to climb about 60 steps.

GRAND JURY GETS CAMPAIGN REPORTS

Financial Data on 1954 Congress Races Furnished by Clerk of House.

Copies of reports showing 1954 campaign receipts and expenditures of candidates for Representatives in Congress from eastern Missouri have been received from Washington by the federal grand jury investigating election finances, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

States District Judge George H. Moore and the grand jury urged that the records be produced. The copies of campaign financial reports are expected to be studied by the jury when it returns to work Monday. It recessed until then, after meeting yesterday.

Robert's first reported, after the jury's initial request for the records, that he could not furnish copies without approval of the House. The grand jury foreman renewed the demand for the information, pointing out that the jury had no difficulty in obtaining photostatic copies of campaign financial reports filed by Missouri candidates for United States Senator in 1952.

Robert's first reported, after the jury's initial request for the records, that he could not furnish copies without approval of the House. The grand jury foreman renewed the demand for the information, pointing out that the jury had no difficulty in obtaining photostatic copies of campaign financial reports filed by Missouri candidates for United States Senator in 1952.

The House clerk then sent the copies, but it was not learned whether he had obtained House permission before doing so. The grand jury had also requested copies of campaign contributions and expenditures filed by candidates for the House in the 1952 races.

BONN DEPUTY'S SON KILLED IN SCUFFLE WITH POLICE

BONN, July 18 (INS)—The West German radio reported that Raimund Schmidt, 21-year-old son of the Socialist deputy speaker of Bonn's Parliament, died yesterday under mysterious circumstances.

The radio said Schmidt, a student at Paris university, reportedly was hitchhiking on the Autobahn, near Bonn, when he inadvertently hailed a police car. Hitchhiking is illegal in West Germany.

'Independent' Italian Red Party Recants, Accepts Soviet Rebuke

Togliatti Emphasizes Subservient Attitude by Framing Resolution Condemning His Own Stand.

ROME, July 18—The Italian Communist party groveled at the feet of the central committee of the Russian Communist party yesterday and recanted what timid intimations of independence it had manifested after the downgrading of Stalin.

The secretariat of the Italian Communist party unanimously decided to accept a recent resolution of the central committee of the Russian Communist party which took Italian Communist leader Palmiro Togliatti to task for stepping out of line in his comments on the situation in Russia after Stalin was toppled off his pedestal. Togliatti emphasized his subservient attitude to the Kremlin by framing a resolution which his secretariat approved condemning his own two-independent stand.

The resolution approved will next be submitted to the directorate of the Italian Communist party, which meets today. This is thought to be the last that will be heard of the "autonomy" of the Italian Communist party and of the "police system" in relations between the Russian and other Communist parties.

The meeting of the secretariat followed the return to Rome of a three-man delegation Togliatti had sent to Moscow to explain his position. The committee returned with a long policy statement from Communist party secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev, who insisted that the process of de-Stalinization had emphasized rather than reduced the need for close relations between the Communist parties of the whole world.

Khrushchev went so far as to hint that Moscow is considering the advisability of creating a new organization to replace the dissolved Cominform as co-ordinator of Communist parties throughout the world.

WHITE HOUSE ACTS TO PUSH EXPANDED AIRWAYS CONTROL

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 18—The White House acted yesterday to speed up expansion and modernization of the nation's airways control system.

In the wake of the recent aerial disaster over the Grand Canyon, it set aside plans for an improvement program to be spread over five years and asked Congress to provide money immediately for almost half of the work.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said that the decision to move faster on the project was based on new estimates of a rapid increase in air traffic and the imminence of the jet-airliner age.

Originally the Department of Commerce had projected a five-year program costing $246,000,000. For the current fiscal year, Congress had appropriated about $40,000,000 to start it.

Yesterday the White House asked Congress to increase this year's appropriations to about $108,000,000, nearly half the amount of the full five-year program.

NO CHARGE AGAINST ACTOR

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP)—The district attorney's office yesterday declined to issue a complaint against Bobby Driscoll, young movie actor arrested a week ago on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

There is insufficient evidence for a charge, a spokesman said.

Driscoll denied knowledge of marijuana police said was found in the car of a friend.

Men, take a tip from your bargain-wise wives! The women are switching to D-X Lubricating Gasolines. That's because they get the FREE upper-cylinder lubricant in D-X, worth $17.85* during a year's driving. Here's why they want it—and you'll want it:

- D-X upper-cylinder lubrication is the one real difference in gasolines. D-X provides extra mileage, more knock-free power, reduces costly repairs and assures longer engine life.
- Upper-cylinder lubrication is recommended by many automotive engineers, car manufacturers and dealers.
- Almost all leading oil companies recommend and sell an upper-cylinder lubricant to be added to their gasoline.
- But D-X, which has pioneered upper-cylinder lubrication for over 20 years, gives you FREE a high heat-resisting oil, scientifically blended into D-X gasolines... BOTH Regular and Ethyl.
- And we guarantee D-X Lubricating Gasolines to be better, with our written money-back guarantee.

Here's a gift worth $17.85—enough money to buy you, on the average, gasoline for 900 miles of driving. Get this bonus! Switch to D-X Regular or Ethyl at your D-X Dealer's today.

$1,000,000 ESTATE LEFT BY SALESMAN

Will of Constantine Rodriguez, Lumber Man, Filed in Probate Court.

An estate valued at about $1,000,000 was left by Constantine Rodriguez, St. Louis lumber salesman who died July 12, it was indicated today when his will and other papers were filed in Probate Court.

Rodriguez was 55 years old and lived at 7049 Lindenwood place. Officials of Wiles-Chipman Lumber Co. said he was associated with that concern from 1923 until his death. He was described as a successful commission salesman.

The will of Rodriguez, also known as Conrad W. Rodrick, provided that his estate be divided into two equal trusts after payment of small specific bequests.

All the income from one trust will go to Rodriguez's wife, who lives at the Lindenwood address, and she will have the right to dispose of the principal on her death, the will provided.

From the other trust fund, Mrs. Lillie Rodriguez, the lumber salesman's mother, also of the Lindenwood address, is to receive $300 a month for life. The remainder of the income is to be shared equally by his sister, Mrs. Genevieve R. Smith, 6567 Bancroft avenue, and her son, Robert L. Smith Jr., 1005 South Elm avenue, Webster Groves.

Bequests included $500 to the Northminster Presbyterian Church at Jacksonville, Ill., where Rodriguez attended Sunday School as a boy, and $500 to St. Domenico Italian Orphans Home, 1304 Partridge avenue, University City.

Rodriguez was born in Jacksonville of Portuguese ancestry, acquaintances said. Business friends said he made an excellent income as a salesman and invested his money carefully.

Harry Erbs, attorney handling the Rodriguez estate, estimated its value at about $1,000,000. He said he had not examined the assets thoroughly, but thought the estate consisted principally of an assortment of stocks.

SENATOR CAUTIONS AEC ON TRADING DATA WITH BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem., New Mexico, chairman of the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee, cautioned the Atomic Energy Commission last night about a recent exchange-of-information pact negotiated with Great Britain.

The agreement went into effect Monday, having been before Congress the 30 days required by law without any adverse action on it.

Anderson pointed out that this group had held hearings on the agreement, and that several members had "grave doubts" about it.

Under the agreement, the United States is to give information to Britain on the world's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus, and on this country's atomic energy program.

Anderson pointed out that these were intimately tied up with the nation's security, and said that he wanted to admonish AEC on two points:

First, he suggested that AEC should clear such agreements with the joint committee before they are signed, instead of submitting them afterwards as he said was the case with the British pact.

Secondly, he said AEC should make certain that any nation to receive important secret data has adequate security measures before an agreement is signed.

H. GIFFORD TILL, FORMER ST. LOUISIAN, DIES IN TEXAS

Funeral services for H. Gifford Till, former St. Louisian and until recently director of industrial research and development for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad, were held today in Dallas, Tex., with burial there.

Mr. Till died of a heart ailment on Monday at a Dallas hospital. He was 61 years old. He had been with the railroad since 1946, and had held his position until a recent illness forced him to take a leave of absence. Prior to that he was a vice president and account executive with the Anfenger Advertising Agency, Inc., now the Winus-Beardon Co. advertising agency, 1706 Olive street, where he had worked from 1938 to 1945.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jill Helm Till; a daughter, Miss Diane Till, both of Dallas, and a son, John Gifford Till, Town and Country.

PERRY COMPTON BACKING R. H. WEBER FOR U.S. JUDGE

State Republican Chairman Perry Compton announced yesterday he will recommend the appointment of Circuit Judge Randolph H. Weber of Poplar Bluff as United States District Judge here to succeed the late Ruben M. Hulen.

Compton, who said he will submit his recommendation to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., reported Weber has been endorsed by all state committee members from the Eighth and Tenth Congressional Districts, by two in the Ninth and one in the Sixth. Weber, serving his third six-year term as a circuit judge, had been mentioned as a possible G.O.P. candidate for Governor this year. His leading contestant for the appointment is Howard Elliott of Ladue, the party's 1952 gubernatorial nominee. It was reported that about 20 lawyers have been proposed for the appointment, including Commissioner Norwin D. Houser of the St. Louis Court of Appeals and former Congressman Claude I. Baker.

ALGERIAN REBELS AMBUSH FRENCH MILITARY CONVOY

ALGIERS, July 18 (AP)—Nationalist rebels ambushed three trucks carrying French security troops in western Algeria last night, French sources reported today. Both sides suffered losses.

The ambush took place south of Laferrière, a settlement 20 miles east of Tlemcen in a region of many clashes between French and rebel forces.

LE HAVRE, France, July 18 (AP)—Maurice Thorez, the French Communist party boss, backed the Red line anew today for peace in Algeria through negotiation with the Nationalist rebels.

The ailing secretary general told his party's fourteenth annual congress the Algerian rebellion is an enormous mess.

He called for a cutback in French military expenditures, which have been rising to meet the North African crisis.

"It is colonialism that has led to disastrous economic conditions in Algeria," Thorez charged.

To Visit Red China.

KARACHI, July 18 (UPI)—Prime Minister Mohamad Ali of Pakistan will leave Oct. 6 for a two-week state visit to Communist China, a authoritative sources reported yesterday.

PANAMA PUTS TIGHT GUARD ON MEETING OF PRESIDENTS

PANAMA, July 18 (AP)—Panama is enforcing tight security regulations on the country for the meeting of Western Hemisphere presidents including President Eisenhower over the weekend. The frontiers with Colombia and Costa Rica have been closed.

Immigration authorities at the capital's airport are taking up the passports of all except transit passengers. Passport holders are fingerprinted at police headquarters before the documents are returned.

High police officials from Venezuela, Nicaragua and Cuba were reported here to guard the safety of their respective Presidents — Gens. Marcos Perez Jimenez, Anastasio Somoza and Fulgencio Batista. Ambassadors of the 21 countries in the Organization of American States have begun arriving.

AGENCIES POLLUTING RIVER TO BE ASKED TO PLAN CURBS

Industries and municipalities that contribute to pollution of the Mississippi river in the St. Louis area will be asked this week to begin planning corrective measures by Nov. 1, Milton M. Kinsey, chief engineer for the Bi-State Development Agency, said today.

Kinsey is acting chairman of

a group of Missouri, Illinois and federal public health authorities that yesterday agreed on a time-table to reduce river pollution which will be recommended to the industries and cities.

He said the plan calls for each industry or municipality to begin engineering studies this year and submit a report to state health officials next July 1. Start of construction is recommended to begin two years later and be completed by the end of 1961. In cases of refusal to comply with the program, he said, Illinois can apply its strict pollution control law. The pollution law in Missouri is weak but the Legislature will be asked to enact a stronger one, he added.

U.S. SEEKS DATA ON AIRMEN SAID TO BE IN RUSSIA

Hopes Repatriates in America, Abroad Will Tell About Reported Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The State Department indicated today it hopes release of the note accusing Russia of secretly holding American flyers prisoner will encourage persons who know about the men to come forward with information that will help find them.

Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy put forward that idea at a joint hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees. Senator George (Dem.), Georgia, said Murphy conceded that the department has no "concrete, documentary" evidence that the men are held. But he said the "hearsay and second hand" evidence is considered strong enough to warrant publishing it in the hope of smoking out more.

The accusation was made Monday in a note to Moscow asking for information on at least 10 men from two or more missing United States planes. The note particularly mentioned a Navy Privateer which went down in the Baltic sea in April 1950 and a B-29 lost in the Korean war and named their crew members as among men believed held. The bomber was believed to have gone down either in the Sea of Japan or in the area of Soviet Kamchatka.

Information Sought.

The note, asking for information about all American military personnel held, said this government is "compelled to believe" information about such men which it has received from "persons of various nationalities freed from Soviet government imprisonment during the last several years."

The inquiry itself, called by George to find out further details, was behind closed doors. Afterward Murphy's statement was given out.

It said in part:

1. The success of the note "will depend in the first place on the possibility that Soviet authorities will actually make an attempt to find out, if they do not already know, what American personnel they have been holding of whom they have not notified us."

2. "In the second, the publicity attendant to the release of the text of the note to the Soviet government may encourage other repatriates to get in touch with American authorities abroad or in this country and give us additional information."

Vigorous Action.

Murphy told the committee the State Department has made careful examination of all evidence concerning reports of Americans held prisoner, discarding some as not credible and taking "vigorous diplomatic action" to obtain the release of individuals it considered sufficiently identified.

"Because it was believed we would be more successful in diplomatic negotiations if we could identify by name and history individuals of whose presence in Soviet detention we had evidence, the department and embassy at Moscow concentrated on those cases," he said.

CATHOLIC CHURCH EYES PUNISHMENT OF GUILTY DRIVERS

VATICAN CITY, July 18 (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church is considering ecclesiastical punishment for persons found guilty of having caused traffic accidents, Prof. Pio Ciprotti, a canon law expert, says.

Ciprotti made the statement in an interview appearing today in L'Osservatore della Domenica, a magazine published in the Vatican.

Last week the magazine appealed for "Christian conscience" to halt the rising toll of traffic deaths. It declared the Fifth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," applied equally to crimes on the highway.

Ciprotti said ecclesiastical punishments could be imposed on drivers who avoid helping persons they have injured, hide their identities, or who do not pay for damages they have caused. It could be applied to motorists driving without a license or while intoxicated, he added.

Ciprotti declared that in the "gravest cases, such as having caused the death of a person," one could consider an interdiction (prohibition) from entering churches or a "personal interdiction."

MAN HELD ON 11 CHARGES; CHASED 15 BLOCKS BY POLICE

Joseph Rockett, an unemployed laborer, was held by East St. Louis police Wednesday on 11 traffic violation charges after a chase of about 15 blocks at speeds up to 80 miles an hour, saw Rockett, a Negro, of 1909 Gay avenue, East St. Louis, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday driving Sgt. Fred Theriac said he without a license at high speed at Sixteenth street and Russell avenue. When Theriac turned his automobile around to question him, Rockett, 24 years old, sped away. He was stopped in the 1600 block of Lawrence avenue.

Rockett, who told police he was under bond on another traffic charge, was held on six charges of failure to observe traffic signs and single charges of disorderly conduct when confronted by Theriac, failure to pull to the curb for an emergency vehicle, reckless driving, speeding and driving without a license.

CEYLON OFFERS REDS AIR TIME ON U.S. GIFT STATION

COLOMBO, July 18 (AP)—Ceylon hopes to sell the Soviet Union broadcasting time over the radio station the Voice of America gave Ceylon's government five years ago.

There were reports in April that Voice of America broadcasts from Ceylon to Asia might be barred, but a Foreign Ministry source said today the Voice will share time with Red broadcasts.

The ministry source said Ceylon is trying to sell radio time embassy in London will contact the embassies of eastern European Communist regimes with similar offers.

He said delegations visiting Moscow and Peking also would be asked to try to sell radio time to the Communists. All broadcasts—American and Communist—will be censored by Ceylon officials.

Prime Minister Bandaranaike's coalition of Nationalists to Russia and that Ceylon's and Trotskyite extreme leftists defeated pro-Western Sir John Kotelawala's United National party in the April parliamentary elections. Bandaranaike announced immediately he would establish diplomatic relations with Russia and Communist China. Kotelawala had refused to recognize either.

2 ESCAPE POLICE BULLETS BY ABANDONING STOLEN CAR

Nine shots were fired by police Tuesday in seeking to halt an automobile in which two men were speeding away from the parking lot behind the Sears Roebuck and Co. store at 1408 North Kingshighway. The car was abandoned a few minutes later in the 1100 block of North Kingshighway.

Patrolmen Robert Ray and Eugene O'Donnell said they noticed the men, Negroes, trying doors of automobiles in the parking lot. When the officers approached the men ran to their machine on nearby Aubert avenue and drove off. Ray fired a warning shot, and both officers then fired at the car.

The abandoned machine had four bullet holes in it. Police said it had been stolen from Louis Maniaci, 4620 June avenue, Pine Lawn. Other bullets clipped off a radio antenna and broke the windshield of automobiles parked in the 1300 block of Aubert.

NAVY BUYS 12 ACRES OF CITY LAND FOR USE IN TRAINING

Purchase of 12 acres of city-owned land along the Mississippi river by the Federal Government for use by the Naval Reserve was announced Tuesday. Purchase price was $90,000. The property is bounded by East Grand avenue, Ferry street and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad tracks. The sale was authorized by the Board of Aldermen last June 24.

The land had been leased to the Navy for reserve training purposes and the Naval Reserve Armory is located there. The Navy plans to erect a larger structure.

AWARD BY FUND FOR REPUBLIC IS INVESTIGATED

Agent of Foundation Did Not Check Testimony of Woman Involved in Grant.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18
(AP)—An investigator for the Fund for the Republic said today it was not her duty to investigate the past of a woman librarian who was cited by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee for refusing to answer questions about alleged Communist activities.

The investigator, Mrs. Maureen Black Oppen, Short Hills, N.J., appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in connection with its investigation of a $5000 award by the Fund to the Liberty Committee of the Plymouth monthly meeting of the Society of Friends in Plymouth Meeting, Pa.

The award was made for what the Fund termed the library committee's "courageous and effective defense of democratic principles" in hiring Mrs. Mary Knowles, 45 years old, formerly of Boston, after her appearance before the Senate subcommittee.

Chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), asked Mrs. Oppen whether she had read Mrs. Knowles' testimony before the Senate subcommittee. Mrs. Oppen replied that this was not part of her assignment during her visit to the suburban Philadelphia community. Walter snapped back: "The fact of the matter is neither you nor the Fund for the Republic was concerned whether she was a Communist."

Asked About Protests.
Richards Arens, counsel for the subcommittee, repeatedly asked Mrs. Oppen whether in her investigation of the situation at Plymouth meeting she had reported to the Fund that "several hundred members of the community" protested against Mrs. Knowles' appointment as librarian. Mrs. Oppen replied that it was not her impression at any time that the opposition represented anything but a "very vocal minority."

The $5000 award has been held in escrow because the Plymouth group has been unable to reach a unanimous agreement on whether to accept it.

Earlier, Actor Jack Gilford invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions as to whether he ever had been a Communist. Gilford protested that the committee was going beyond the scope of its hearings.

Walter and Representative Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), and Representative Gordon Scherer (Rep., Ohio), made up the subcommittee investigating alleged "blacklisting" in the entertainment industry, specifically the motion picture industry.

It was the second day of the committee's hearings here. Gilford, a comedian, who now is appearing in the play, "The Diary of Anne Frank" in New York, was subpoenaed to testify in connection with a two-volume "blacklist study" which named him as an example of entertainers denied work for political reasons.

Demands to Know Scope.
At the start of the hearing, Gilford and his attorney, Martin Proper, New York, demanded to know the scope of the inquiry as far as Gilford was concerned. Arens said the Congressmen wanted to know if Gilford had been deprived of employment as the result of being listed in "Red Channels." This is a publication that listed entertainers with alleged Communist backgrounds.

Arens then asked, "you have ever been a member of the Communist party?"
"I object to that," Gilford shouted. "It's an invasion of my privacy. I came here to help you about this terrible blacklisting, to give facts about how I was fired from shows."

"You are directed to answer the question," Walter said. "I've been thrown off jobs," Gilford shouted back.

He was directed again to answer the question.
"I will use my constitutional privilege," Gilford said, "of not being a witness against myself." He referred to the Fifth amendment.

Actress Blacklisted.
Actress Gale Sondergaard said yesterday she was "blacklisted" by the motion picture industry for refusing to testify before the committee.
The subcommittee recalled Miss Sondergaard to ask her opinion regarding a report on blacklisting issued by the Fund for the Republic, an independent organization originally financed by the Ford Foundation.

Miss Sondergaard insisted her inability to get work in Hollywood after her 1951 appearance before the House group, "has not been accidental. I think rather that it might be construed as blacklisting."

Arens led Miss Sondergaard through a host of questions regarding alleged Communist activities, most of it a repetition of her earlier testimony. In each instance, as before, she invoked the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination.

Now Appearing in Play.
Miss Sondergaard now is appearing at Philadelphia's Playhouse in the Park in the play "Anastasia."

her opinions also were constitutionally privileged and further, that the question implied that she had once been a Communist. The actress then replied that she would "be delighted to answer," but considered it wiser to follow advice of counsel.

She also was asked about the alleged Communist activities of her husband, writer Herbert Biberman. He was one of the "Hollywood 10," convicted of holding the committee in contempt and sentenced to a year in jail.

Asked to name others on the Fund for the Republic's list of 45 persons hampered in their search for employment, she declined to speak for anybody but herself.

Another witness, German-born Werner Marx, a Philadelphia waiter with a master's degree in comparative European literature, invoked the Fifth Amendment.

Soviet Union, East Reich Reds Say Again Unity Is Impossible Without Talks by Both Germanys Khrushchev Denounces Western Concepts of a Free World — Moscow Agrees to Help Build Atomic Power Station — Troop Charges Against Satellite Cut.

By JACK RAYMOND

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

MOSCOW, July 18.

THE SOVIET UNION and East Germany signed a joint statement yesterday repeating the view that the unification of Germany is impossible without direct negotiations between the East and West German governments.

The statement was signed at the Kremlin by Soviet Premier Bulganin and East German Premier Grotewohl following two days of negotiations.

At a reception afterward, Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Soviet Communist party, delivered a slashing attack on Western concepts of a free world.

The joint statement on the two-day talks said the Soviet Union had agreed to a 50 per cent cut in the charges against East Germany for the support of Soviet troops stationed in that state. The charges will be reduced from 1,600,000,000 East marks (approximately $380,000,000) to 800,000,000 marks.

The statement added that the decrease in costs had been made possible by the "considerable" reduction in the Soviet armed forces in East Germany. At the time Moscow announced it was reducing its armed forces by 1,200,000 before next May 1, it was said that more than 30,000 would be withdrawn from East Germany.

The Soviet and East German governments also addressed an "appeal" to the governments of the United States, Britain and France to reduce the number of their troops in West Germany as a step toward the complete evacuation of foreign troops from German soil.

According to the joint statement the Soviet Union agreed to help the East German government build a 100,000-kilowatt atomic power station. The Soviet Union will help design the station and supply the necessary equipment and materials, the statement added.

The reception at which Khrushchev made his unexpected attack on "free world" concepts of the West was held in St. George's Hall of the great Kremlin palace. It came after the usual speeches honoring a visiting delegation.

The Soviet Communist party leader had a sympathetic audience for the most part. However, some diplomats present represented non-Communist governments with social systems of the type under attack.

Ideological Attack. Khrushchev derided Western style free elections and free press in what was easily the toughest ideological assault by a Soviet leader on Western democracy heard here in a long time.

"If representatives of those countries think I speak too sharply they should understand I speak as the Communist party secretary," said the Communist party leader.

Khrushchev called attention to the speed with which agreement had been possible between the East German and Soviet leaders. He attributed this to their common ideological outlook. He urged patience on the East German leaders in their desire to be recognized as a state.

The Soviet Union waited 16 years before the United States granted the regime diplomatic recognition, he pointed out. Communist China is not being recognized in the West, but nevertheless exists, he added.

"The Western powers, that is the capitalist states, very often like to talk about and call themselves free countries—how do they say it?—free world," Khrushchev declared.

"But this is the free world from which we liberated ourselves 39 years ago. They (the Western countries) could not tempt us back if they handed it to us on a platter," he went on.

"Then they say that they have a free press," Khrushchev continued. "That is, the capitalists have freedom of the press. They say that the workers are allowed to have a free press, according to their constitution. They can have a few newspapers, magazines, radio stations, later television stations—only they have not got the money for it."

SOVIET ENVOY LEAVES BONN FOR POST IN MOSCOW

BONN, July 18 (AP)—Valerian Zorin, Soviet ambassador to West Germany for seven months, flew to Moscow today to become a deputy foreign minister again.

The entire Soviet embassy staff turned out to see the diplomat and his wife depart. The West German Foreign Office was represented by a minor official.

Zorin has been a controversial figure since he came here as the Soviet Union's first ambassador to West Germany. On his arrival, leading West German newspapers headlined stories that he was the mastermind of the Communist seizure of Czechoslovakia. Chancellor Adenauer's government pointedly warned that "Bonn is not Prague."

West German leaders generally gave Zorin the cold shoulder in line with the Adenauer government's view that one of Moscow's major aims is to control all of Germany. Zorin's successor as ambassador has not been named.

Khrushchev asserted that "freed world" meant "freedom for the capitalists to plunder the worker without interference from anyone."

He stressed the necessity of the Communist parties to stand united. He said Communists must also co-operate with Social Democrats and other workers' parties. He said the capitalist side was hoping that in view of the decisions of the twentieth Soviet party congress on the downgrading of Stalin's the Communist parties of the world would fall apart.

"We will follow the line firmly," Khrushchev said. "and we will not let ourselves be provoked and we will not lose our nerve."

"If they were not capable of strangling our lone Socialist country in 1917-1918, they certainly cannot do it now," continued the Soviet leader. "I do not want to underestimate the strength of their side, but on the Socialist side strength is not negligible—right, comrade Arben Guxman, turning to Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, Soviet Minister of Defense."

By the United Press

'Foreign Intervention.'

Khrushchev charged that "foreign intervention" forced the overthrow two years ago of Guatemalan President Jacobo Arben Guzman, who was "elected on a democratic basis." He also charged that "a certain democratic country" is preventing the holding of elections for reunification of Viet Nam, prescribed in the 1954 Geneva agreement which ended the shooting war in Indochina.

In reference to the German question, Khrushchev said that if the German people are not interested in their own future, a common language for solving their own problems, "not immediately, but eventually."

"Imperialist monopolists want unification under the basis of a Bonn constitution to make Germany a capitalist," Khrushchev said. "The German democratic republic (East Germany), I permit myself to say, also wants unification and on its own Socialist basis."

Russia to Supply Additional Goods, East Germans Say.

BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—The official East German news agency ADN said the declaration in Moscow provided for Russia to supply several billion marks worth of additional goods.

The East Berlin radio told the people the Soviet aid would boost living standards.

The Communist radio played up the economic results of the Moscow conference. The East German press and radio have admitted there is widespread worker grumbling. They have reflected concern over a possible repeat performance in East Germany of the Polish workers' uprising in Poznan June 28.

West Berlin's newspapers, meanwhile, said Moscow had doomed Germany to a continued and perhaps long-time division.

Commenting editorially on the Soviet-East German statement, the papers said the Russians have decided to build up East Germany in an effort to force Western diplomatic recognition of that Soviet satellite.

The papers also said that the East German economy was in poor repair and badly needs the Soviet economic aid agreed on at the Moscow conference.

The Telegraf said the conference proved "how very much Moscow is concerned about raising the reputation of the East German regime."

The Telegraf said the stronger East Germany becomes, the harder it will be for West Germany to resist the Moscow suggestions for direct negotiations between the East and West German governments on unification.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 18 (AP)—The United States Army imposed a curfew today on its 250,000 troops in Germany in an effort to curb G.I. crime.

An order issued by Gen. Henry I. Hodges, commander of the United States Army in Europe, requires soldiers to be in their quarters by midnight on evenings prior to duty days and by 1 a.m. on evenings prior to non-duty days.

"This command has been increasingly disturbed in recent weeks by unfortunate incidents involving American soldiers and German civilians," Hodges said. "These incidents, with the attendant widespread publicity, constitute a threat to the splendid relationship between the United States Army in Europe and the people of the Federal Republic of Germany."

He said the curfew was ordered to help cut the incident rate to a bare minimum. Before the curfew was imposed, soldiers were permitted to stay out all night in most cases until they went on duty the following morning.

Nehru Joins Tito, Nasser in Island Talks

Nothing Spectacular Due From Parley by Neutralists.

PULA, Venezuela,

July 18 (AP).

THREE leaders of world neutralism met today for a widely awaited exchange of views.

Prime Minister Nehru of India joined President Josip (Tito) Broz of Yugoslavia and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt at this seaport town. He flew from Paris in an Indian Air Force plane. Then the three went off to Tito's vacation villa on the Adriatic island of Brioni, seven miles away.

An official schedule given to newspaper men allowed only three hours at the most for conferences of the three men, underscoring a feeling here that no major developments could be expected.

Algerian Problem. The talks, closed to reporters, are expected to deal primarily with the Nationalist-French conflict in Algeria. Inclusion of smaller nations in the big-power disarmament discussions, and funneling of economic aid to underdeveloped countries through the United Nations.

Social activities take up most of the time before Nehru and Nasser fly on to Egypt tomorrow.

Tito, Nasser and their staffs held discussions after Nehru's arrival.

The most tangible development of Nasser's week-long visit in Yugoslavia was expected to be an arrangement for further talks in August on an exchange of Egyptian cotton for Yugoslav manufactured goods.

Officials handed out the conference schedule after numerous complaints from the 120 newspaper men on hand at Pula that they were being isolated from the news. Only Egyptian journalists have been allowed on Brioni thus far. The other reporters were invited to the island to see a folk dancing exhibition tonight.

Nehru Seems Tired. Nehru seemed tired but in good spirits as he descended the plane ramp with his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi. Yugoslav youngsters presented him a bouquet of gladioli.

Security men held back correspondents as Nehru made a statement for the Belgrade radio but at the last moment allowed them through in time to catch his final words: "My last visit to Yugoslavia still is fresh in my memory, so I am glad to be back again."

A transcript of all his remarks showed he merely expressed pleasure at being here and avoided politics.

The Egyptians attempted to attribute large significance to the meeting, but Yugoslav sources predicted there would be nothing more dramatic than a restatement of known positions. Nehru said just before his departure this morning from France:

"We will meet as old friends, not as a kind of conference to solve every problem."

The United Press quoted Nehru as indicating the three-way meeting was somewhat of an accident.

"I planned to go to Brioni primarily to meet Tito," the Prime Minister said in Paris. "I learned later that Nasser would be there. It's not the kind of conference to solve any problems. We will simply discuss things."

There is little time for formation of any neutralist bloc or

PEARSON

Ex-Senator Cordon Now Gets Fees From Hell's Canyon Foes

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright, 1956.)

WASHINGTON.

IN THE FILES of the Federal Power Commission are significant facts about certain lobbyists now engaged in one of the biggest legislative battles in Washington. The big private utilities are required to publish the amounts they pay various people.

If you take the trouble to look at the 1955 annual report of the Idaho Power Co., on file at the FPC, Page 56, you will find this notation: "(VII)(A) Guy Cordon-Washington, DC (B) Retainer (C) Basis of Charges—Time required and expenses incurred. (D) Account 796."

Guy Cordon, of course, is the amiable ex-Senator from Oregon, Republican, who was defeated in 1954 by Senator Richard Neuberger in a campaign in which Neuberger accused Cordon of being friendly to the big private utilities and against federal development of Hell's Canyon on the Snake river. Cordon denied these charges at the time.

However, if you look at Account 796, Page 81, of the Idaho Power Co., report you will find listed disbursements for legal services of $31,999.95, of which $18,348.75 went to Parry, Keenan, Robertson & Daly in Twin Falls, Idaho, and the rest to ex-Senator Cordon.

Also Hired by Others. Further search through power commission files shows that Cordon also is being paid by Washington Water Power Co., another big utility which is fighting Hell's Canyon. Both Idaho Power and Washington Water Power were once part of the giant holding company, Electric Bond & Share, before the Holding Company Act broke them up.

Cordon is paid a "retainer" fee for 1955 of $10,000 in equal monthly installments. Further search of the FPC records shows that Portland General Electric, which also has joined Idaho Power in financing the campaign against public development of Hell's Canyon, lists Cordon as getting a retainer of $10,000 per year.

FLEESON— Conservative George and His Liberal Ideas

Record Shows Retiring Senator Is Against Backward Steps.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, July 18.

MODERN politics, with their swift changes and their impact upon its leading personalities, came vividly alive in the Senate when Senator Walter F. George of Georgia delivered his valedictory.

The Senate patriarch is claimed with pride by conservatives. In 1938, President Franklin D. Roosevelt sought to purge him because, said Roosevelt, "Dear Walter" is a nice fellow but gets his ideas from "the horse and buggy days."

Yet, for his final effort to influence his colleagues, George sought to strengthen the New Deal social security bill which the same Mr. Roosevelt once described as his own best claim to the affections of the American people.

It is a rebuke to the cliches which are so often the currency of political discussion to find from the record that George voted for the original social security bill and has been intimately connected with every phase of its evolution since then.

Mr. Roosevelt's wrath was caused in part by George's conservative views on taxes. Today's conservatives, led by Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, bitterly oppose the George-advocated amendments extending social security help to the disabled because the amendments would raise higher taxes. They are aiming at a balanced budget and lower taxes.

To them, George said strongly: "You are trying to take a backward step. These principles fit our times and the American concept that free men want to earn their security. The provision is an earned right; it is timely, practicable and workable."

In even stronger language he gave farewell warnings to the nation's doctors who have successfully raised the cry of socialized medicine against all bills they think affect their interests.

ALSO G.O.P. to Pitch Campaign Directly at TV Audience Film Star George Murphy Will Be Convention Director—Democrats Clinging to Old Whistle-Stop Method.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSON

WASHINGTON.

IS TELEVISION a new and revolutionary political instrument, destined to change radically the style of the American political campaign? Or is it just another medium, among many, for reaching the voters?

The coming election ought to give a fair idea of the answers to these questions, simply because the Republican campaign strategists are proceeding on the first assumption and the Democrats on the second.

The Republican campaign will be pitched directly at the viewers of the nation's 40,000,000 television sets. The pitch will start in earnest at the Republican convention in San Francisco. Republican Chairman Len Hall and Campaign Director Robert Humphreys have recruited Hollywood actor George Murphy to direct the convention, much as a Hollywood director directs a motion picture.

Murphy's problem is more complicated, of course. His main object is to keep the television viewers glued to their sets, despite a total lack of suspense about the outcome right up to the climax of the President's acceptance speech. To that end, he hopes to treat the television viewers to an orderly and entertaining spectacle, rather than a continuing mob scene.

Hollywood Attractions. But convention delegates, though sheep-like in other respects, are not subject to orders as movie extras. No convention in history, for example, has ever started on schedule. Murphy plans to deal with this problem by recruiting the most attractive Hollywood attractions—if not Marilyn Monroe, the next best thing—to appear on the platform at 10 in the morning. With the bleary-eyed delegates thus lured from their beds by beauty, the gavel will bang before a full house at 11. And the show will get under way.

If the Hall-Humphreys-Murphy plans work out, the convention will be just that—a show. There will be plenty of professionally acted plays and pageants, naturally extolling all things Republican, to carry the television viewers through the dull spots. And there will be an absolute minimum of long-winded speeches. According to present plans, the main speakers will be former President Herbert Hoover and Thomas E. Dewey. But Hoover, Dewey and other speakers will be urged to keep their speeches to a maximum of 25 minutes—hardly a warm-up for the traditional convention speech, and large numbers of would-be orators are being politely discouraged.

Dulles as an Actor. Other tentative convention plans include a televised dramatization of the Republican platform, with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, for example, briefly summarizing the foreign policy plank and speaking more or less off the cuff on "What the Eisenhower Foreign Policy Means for Our Future."

The whole show, of course, will be a build-up for the climactic moment, the President's acceptance speech. The climax may be delayed to Thurs., Aug. 23, instead of Wednesday as originally planned, in order both to appease the San Francisco merchants and allow more time for the build-up.

The campaign to follow will be aimed also squarely at the voter with a television set. More than $2,000,000 in television time already has been contracted for, through the advertising firm of Batton, Barton, Durstine and Osborne. The time will be divided between 35 "five-minute" spots on major shows and 10 half-hour periods on national hook-ups.

The President himself is expected to appear on only five or six of the half-hour shows, although this number may well be upped in the heat of the campaign.

'Productions' Not Speeches. The other periods will be devoted to what Chairman Hall likes to call "productions," rather than speeches—perhaps a serial report by cabinet members.

Buying Insurance Needn't Be a "Hit and Miss" Proposition

Many people are merely guessing when they buy insurance. They aren't certain that the policies they buy are the best possible values, making sure they afford really adequate protection.

All this because they often do not take time to compare values . . . not realizing that there is a service at their disposal which will enable them to "look over" a wide variety of choices . . . select those best suited to their needs.

This is the kind of service offered by the W. H. Markham Co. We not only provide a wide choice of coverages but continue to "follow through" long after you have purchased the protection . . . making sure that your policies never lapse or become inadequate . . . giving you one reliable source to consult in every emergency.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and plutocrats, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

How to Travel in the City

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In the Philadelphia area, where I am now living after several years in St. Louis, the Pennsylvania Railroad operates local electric trains on its regular local beds to many outlying suburbs on a number of different lines. These trains are composed of self-propelled cars which permit greater acceleration than would be accomplished by locomotive-drawn "dead" cars, thereby being ideal for speedy, local service.

As an illustration in time saving, it takes from 13 to 14 minutes from Merion on the main line to Broad Street Suburban Station, just one block from City Hall. This time includes three intermediate stops for discharging and taking on passengers.

A comparison in distance in St. Louis would be from about Big Bend and Clayton roads to about Sixth and Olive streets. By the only public transportation system you have in St. Louis it takes anywhere from 35 to 50 minutes to make that run, depending on traffic and on the mood of the public and bus and trolley car operators.

In Philadelphia, the fastest way to travel to and from town, as well as between suburban points, is by train. Private automobile is longer in time and distance, to say nothing of presenting a parking problem and, of course, of being more expensive to operate.

In St. Louis, the most expeditious and dependable way to get around town is by one's private car—if one is lucky enough to be able to afford one—fighting the four-way stop signs. One of the main drawbacks of your present public transportation "system" is that it is subject to exactly the same impediments in traffic movement as all the other private and commercial vehicles which make up the chaotic picture each day.

St. Louis' present "system" is proving itself to be more incapable each day of accommodating an increasing population and expanding industry. How long will it take you to go to work in 1971? Twice the time it now takes?

GARDINER ROGERS.

Clarification

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I must publicly apologize to the Metropolitan St. Louis Police Department. Last Saturday you printed a letter of mine about a young hoodlum smashing a window in a street car at Vandeventer and Olive on July 3 within sight and hearing of two "alert" policemen standing on the west side of Vandeventer who did nothing to prevent the youth.

The Ninth (Lucas) and Eleventh (Newstead) districts border at Vandeventer, and the attack on the street car occurred in the Lucas district. The officers were across the street in the Newstead district. So, now all is clear. It was out of their district, a hot night, so what was the use?

Of course, some of us citizens have long been of the opinion that proper law enforcement paid no attention to boundaries of districts and real policemen are of the same opinion.

So, my humble apologies to the police department for putting them in a bad light.

PIERRE CABANNE.

G. B. Shaw's 100th

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Chicago will have an outstanding celebration of the centennial of George Bernard Shaw July 26. The committee, headed by Mayor Richard J. Daley, is organizing a day-long program, as well as Shavian exhibits which will be displayed for a longer period. I am a member of the committee and I am particularly responsible for the organization of exhibits.

We are eager to have those items which have eye appeal, as well as anything that would be of interest. The exhibits will include manuscripts, letters, works of art, books, pamphlets, memorabilia—whatever will make the great British dramatist and essayist a living reality.

There will be complete protection against loss or mutilation or other hazards, including guards, insurance and other safety measures.

I understand that the manuscript and drawings for Shaw's "The Black Girl in Search of Her God" are owned by a resident of St. Louis. If this is so, I am most eager to hear from the owner and to learn whether the Shaw exhibit may display these items on loan.

We hope also that St. Louisans who are interested in George Bernard Shaw will make a point of visiting the centennial exhibit. Our plan is to make July 26 an unforgettable day for all who participate. My address is 120 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3; my telephone RAndolph 6-6116.

Grim Statistics

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Our automobile slaughter is worse than war.

The deaths from 1975 to 1955—180 years—in all our eight wars were: 1,190,393.

Automobile deaths from 1900 to 1955, the 55 years we have had motor cars, were: 1,149,414.

Automobile-injured compared with war-wounded are even more grim and more frightful.

War-wounded in all our wars, totaled 1,153,836.

Automobile-injured in 1955, just one year, were 2,158,000.

As the Session Wanes

Even though the time is late, it is most gratifying to see President Eisenhower calling on Republican leaders in Congress to revive the bill for federal aid to education. This bill was a key item in the White House program—until it was killed in the House nearly two weeks ago.

The President was entirely right in checking his program up squarely to former Speaker Martin of Massachusetts in the House and to Senator Knowland of California, as Republican leader in the Senate. They and their associates know why the program has been lagging. They know that if the election-minded Democrats have withheld support here and there, as Americans for Democratic Action has pointed out, so have the Republicans let the President down too many times.

If the urgently needed school aid legislation is to be revived, it will have to be the Republicans who revive it. The G.O.P. ignored President Eisenhower's opposition to the Powell amendment which saddled the bill with an anti-segregation proviso. They voted 148 to 46 for the Powell handicap while the Democrats voted 176 to 77 against it. Then the G.O.P. members turned around and voted 119 to 75 to kill the bill. Even with the Powell amendment opposed by Southern members, the Democrats still cast a majority for the bill, 119 to 105.

Thus it is clear that Republican Leader Martin is primarily responsible for lining up sufficient support for the President on the school aid issue in the House. Obviously there is no point in even trying to bring the bill up again unless many Republican members are ready to reverse themselves—as they should do for both the school children of the country and the success of the Eisenhower Administration.

In the Senate the situation is even stranger. Almost at the very time that Senator Knowland was talking over the lateness of the hour in the session and its adverse bearing on the Eisenhower program, Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, senior Republican in the Senate, was telling an audience that he and Senator Knowland will sponsor a new amendment to the mutual security appropriations bill to cut off all aid to Yugoslavia.

This issue was fought out in the mutual security authorization battle in the Senate two weeks ago. The original Bridges amendment, opposed by President Eisenhower, sought to forbid any more United States aid to Yugoslavia. The White House's stand was the reasonable one that it would not distribute mutual security funds against the country's best interests. It asked the Senate to support President Eisenhower. The Democrats supported him 29 to 15. The Republicans lined up against the President 26 to 21. Now a new Bridges-Knowland amendment is in the process.

All of this suggests how unfortunate it is that President Eisenhower is going off to Panama this weekend. The idea of a personal gathering of the heads of the American nations is splendid and on another occasion it could be applauded generously.

But just now Dwight D. Eisenhower needs much more to visit with Senators and Representatives—and particularly Republican Senators and Representatives—than with fellow Presidents from South of the Rio Grande. As the Alsops wrote, the unfortunate second illness at this critical time has allowed a lot of dirty dishes to stack up in the kitchen. Today's Mirror of Public Opinion suggests what Mr. Eisenhower can do as a leader in his own right.

The President needs help in cleaning up the job and much of the assistance ought to come from the members of his own party who are so eager to ride his coat-tails in November. We trust the President's new appeal—and his words of appreciation to the Democrats—foretell still more leadership on his part in the dwindling last days of the session.

An Auditor Who Can Be Trusted

The only good thing in the entire far-spreading scandal that has broken over the Republican State Administration in Illinois is the appointment of Dr. Lloyd Morey of Urbana as interim State Auditor.

Dr. Morey, who is president emeritus of the University of Illinois, was comptroller of the State University at Urbana for 36 years. That means he handled the university's funds for more than a generation. In all that time his custodianship of the money of the people of Illinois was so scrupulously honest that no faintest suggestion of misuse was ever associated with his name.

The new State Auditor can be counted on to do what Orville E. Hodge of Granite City did not do—treat public office as a public trust.

Gov. Stratton is to be commended on this appointment. Had he been as insistent on an Auditor with Dr. Morey's qualifications, Orville Hodge would not have been renominated without opposition last April as a key member of "the Stratton team."

To Make More of the Arts

Legislation to create a federal advisory council on the arts should not be permitted to get lost in the last-minute shuffle as Congress drives for adjournment. This legislation, inspired by Nelson Rockefeller and proposed by President Eisenhower, is now far enough advanced to justify hopes of its passage. It has been approved in the Senate; in the House, a subcommittee is ready to report favorably to the full Committee on Education and Labor.

The measure applies to music, drama, dance, literature, architecture, painting, sculpture, photography, motion pictures, radio, and television. Senator Lehman of New York, a sponsor, points out the shocking fact that this country "gives less recognition to the role of the arts in our national life than any other major nation."

If our national life is to be satisfying to us and attractive to others, the arts must play an increasingly greater part. In it. To enable them to do so is the purpose of this worthwhile legislation.

We hope to see the Representatives from Missouri and Illinois exert themselves strongly in its behalf.

False Economy in Crash Inquiry

There is no thought of scrimping on expenses in an investigation when an airliner crash occurs in this country. Yet the Navy is giving up the search for the wreckage of the Venezuelan airliner that fell blazing into the Atlantic off New Jersey last June 20 with 74 persons. The question of who would pay the salvage cost is reported to have been the deciding factor.

The precise cause of the accident will probably never be known. True, it is believed that extension of the landing flaps changed the air flow and caused the jetted-on gasoline to be sucked back so that the exhaust may have ignited it. And the chances are excellent that examination of the wreckage would prove this point or reveal some other cause. The United States might well have picked up the check when the reason for this air tragedy means so much to aviation here and abroad. If a similar accident should occur the economy will be regretted.

Up to Seven Aldermen

The aldermanic Zoning committee has had almost seven weeks to study the two downtown parking bills. In that period the Aldermen have enjoyed ample opportunity to hear all the pros and cons, to pick the measures apart word by word and examine them for flaws—and finally, to make up their own minds on what ought to be done.

What is indicated now, as the Board prepares to recess for the summer, is not further study or even tinkering. It is now time for action, and that means reporting the bills to the full Board.

As Mayor Tucker has pointed out time and again—and as the Aldermen surely have seen for themselves—the parking problem for the average motorist in the downtown area is becoming more acute day by day. This is not a problem to be put off. It will not solve itself, nor have the private garage and parking lot operators been able to solve it.

Firm, quick action by the Board of Aldermen is essential and that requires an especially strong recommendation from the Zoning Committee. Here are the seven Aldermen who sit on that committee and who possess the power to give the measures the vigorous push they need:

James W. Noonan, Third Ward, Democrat, chairman.

Carl Cassel, First, Democrat.

John T. Curry, Fifth, Democrat.

Fred W. Haag, Twelfth, Republican.

Joseph Kavanaugh, Fourteenth, Democrat.

A. Barney Mueller, Twenty-first, Democrat.

Alfred I. Harris, Twenty-second, Democrat.

A Good Appointment Confirmed

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Judiciary Committee Members Jennings of Missouri and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, in particular, deserve a vote of thanks for the confirmation of Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff to be a Judge of the United States Court of Appeals.

This is one of the best of President Eisenhower's appointments and it would have been a shocking thing if it had not come to a vote before the session ended. Judge Sobeloff, former Chief Justice of Maryland, will adorn the federal bench, as he has brought distinction as well as fairness to the office of Solicitor General.

The vote to confirm was the gratifyingly large one of 64 to 19. The Republicans who voted against President Eisenhower on this test were: McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner of Indiana, Welker of Idaho and Williams of Delaware. Surely this is strange company for Senator Williams to be in!

She Done Him Right

"Frankie and Johnnie" is our own St. Louis ballad, shot out right over here on Targee street, as the saying goes, and we do not mean to disparage it. The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo has danced it beautifully, and likewise Miss Cyd Charisse in her recent film "Meet Me in Las Vegas." There has always been something about it that faintly discomfited us, though. After all, he done her wrong, notwithstanding that he was her man.

In "The Ballad of Baby Doe," the new folk opera presented at the Opera House in Central City, the famous old silver-mining town a whoop and a mile-high holler from Denver, things turn out better. Douglas Moore, who composed "The Devil and Daniel Webster" to the libretto of Stephen Vincent Benet, and John Latouche, the present librettist, fell hard for Baby Doe; so do we. Her beguiling charm is that, contrary to all expectations, signs, and portents, she done him right.

Horace Tabor, the proprietor of the Matchless Mine, at Leadville, was a millionaire whose wife Augusta had stuck by him through the long, hard years. Elizabeth Doe, a beautiful blonde divorcee from Wisconsin, came to Leadville to ensnare him, and ensnare him she did. He divorced Augusta and took Elizabeth to Washington for a rip-roaring wedding attended by President Chester A. Arthur.

Ten years later Tabor was ruined in the general downfall of the silver miners. Everyone expected his fortune-hunting wife to leave him, but she stuck. Six years more and he died, enjoining her never to sell the Matchless Mine. For 36 years she endured every blow misfortune had to offer, and our story ends when Baby Doe, an old woman now, freezes to death in a little shack at the Matchless where she had long lived alone, faithful to the end. Horace and Baby were sweethearts. Period.

Police Board Action

The Police Board's approach to the department's handling of the June 1956 case is likely to strike most St. Louisans as objective and generally reasonable.

If anything the Police Board leaned over backward in more than one instance to avoid even the appearance of a whitewash. Suspensions were ordered. Where more serious action seemed proper—departmental charges, for example—steps were taken to file them. Equally important, where there was no evidence against individual officers whose names had been brought into the inquiry, the Board made a special point of saying so.

What are the implications of the report for the future of law enforcement in St. Louis? In our opinion, the community surely will be the gainer. For one thing the Board has forcefully underscored its determination to follow a policy of command responsibility, under which district captains are to be held strictly accountable for all law violations within their jurisdictions.

And in extension of this wholly proper principle the Board has made it clear that precinct sergeants are responsible for the state of law enforcement within their precincts, and individual officers for affairs on their beats. In short, the Board has pinpointed responsibility all along the line.

At the same time, the Board has made it clear that it will protect its officers from unsupported charges, especially when they come from persons who frequently have been under police surveillance. The best evidence of this attitude is the same and careful approach followed by the Board for the better part of a year while it was showered with charges of widespread corruption and payoffs, often by those in official position.

The Board's actions were based on findings and recommendations made by Police Inspector James F. Thompson. He was handed a difficult assignment which he discharged with commendable objectivity. An inspector's office that really inspects helps to keep the department on its toes, and that too translates into a gain for the public interest.

"FELLOWS, I'M NEUTRAL"

—From The Washington Post.

Mr. Eisenhower's Weak Support

The Mirror of Public Opinion

It is not a part-time President that bothers voters, but a President with part-time backing from his party in Congress; he lost on school aid, mutual security, defense estimates; second term would require his still more active leadership.

An Editorial in the Christian Science Monitor

Except among those who hoped President Eisenhower would not run again there has been little belief that his operation a month ago would stop him. Now he has removed any doubt.

It was a small "if," and he did not enlarge it by the means he chose to remove it. A full-dress press conference or any formal announcement would have made it look as if he had been assailed by new doubts about his ability to fulfill the duties of his office for another term.

Instead the word comes indirectly, in a report by congressional leaders of their conversations with the President. And it confirms the assurance that he feels better than when he declared in February his intention to run again.

In the light of his earlier statements this means that Mr. Eisenhower is completely free of doubt as to his capacity to meet the demands of coming days, including the campaign. Senator Knowland said Republicans are looking forward to a "very vigorous and active campaign" under the President's leadership.

His task would be greatly eased if they were as ready to accept his leadership to help the nation as they are to use it to help themselves.

The strategy conference at which the announcement was made was partly necessitated by the failure of many Republicans to support presidential policies on bills now before Congress.

If Republicans were unitedly following Eisenhower leadership, Congress would not have voted a virtual "no confidence" in Administration defense estimates; it would not have rejected his urging to give federal aid to schools;

It would not have stalled his proposals for a mild liberalization of trade policies; it would not have forced him to beg for a restoration of mutual security funds; it would have heeded his requests for legislation on half a dozen other subjects.

In face of the President's own confidence and of favorable medical opinions the "health issue" appears unlikely to be decisive.

With some voters a more serious question may arise as to how effective the President's leadership will be. They are less concerned about a "part-time President" than about a President with part-time support.

As of today Mr. Eisenhower has reshaped and unified his party in considerable degree. But continued progress in that direction will demand more active leadership from the White House.

For, knowing that he will not run a third time, more Republicans will be tempted to go it alone or to seek political aid in other directions.

Hitherto Mr. Eisenhower has leaned over backwards to keep hands off Congress. And often he has appeared to reject the role of party leader. Good reasons can be given for this course.

But new conditions have arisen. Moreover, if two-party government is to be effective there must be party responsibility. That demands party leadership and party discipline.

It is widely assumed that Mr. Eisenhower will be re-elected. Multitudes of Americans would vote for him regardless of party or platform.

Yet if the purposes he stands for are to be made effective—in his party and in national policy—more vigorous leadership may well be required of him.

Between Book Ends

The following reviews were the last contributed by F. A. Behymer, retired dean of Post-Dispatch writers, who died Sunday night in an Alton hospital at the age of 86.

'A Battle Between Battles'

KINGS GO FORTH, by Joe David Brown. (Marlow, 256 pp., $3.50.)

They liked each other. The first time they met.

That is, Lieut. Sam Loggins. Liked Sergt. Britt Harris.

And Sergt. Harris liked Lieut. Loggins. But not so much.

It wasn't Harris' way. To like anybody too much.

Later they both met Monique Blair.

And they both liked her. Too much under the circumstances.

That is the way Joe David Brown begins to tell about the battle between two men for a woman and it is the style in which he finishes the telling. It is the battle between the bigger battles in which the two men fought.

For they were American soldiers fighting their way up through Italy in World War II.

Monique Blair was American too in a way, though she had never been there. On her father's side she had a racial taint, though it wasn't pronounced. To Lieut. Loggins it didn't make any difference but to

Sgt. Harris it did because he came out of the South and after he had supplanted Loggins in the girl's affections he scorned her and Loggins hated him for that and planned to kill him, planning which didn't revolt him because killing was his business.

As it turned out he didn't kill as he had planned, man to man, but by the simple device of directing by radio the fire of his own outfit to where he and Harris, on a mission inside the enemy lines, were trapped.

Harris died there and there Loggins was nearly killed. Not quite, but for all practical purposes he too was killed, for something inside of him died.

What died inside of him was final. Because of its finality he could never die again and

Of all the men he'd killed Only he, only he, Only the sergeant, Only Britt Harris, Only the man he had liked The first time they met, Haunted him.

School With a Vision

GROWING YEARS, by Archie Swanson Beverley. (Vantage Press, 194 pp., $3.)

The Whitwell Farm-Life School, in a tiny Virginia village, is known to forward-looking educators everywhere because it is forward looking. Once, about 40 years ago, it was just an ordinary, very ordinary, two-room country school.

Now it is a full fledged high school with a program based on the pupils' present and future needs, turning them out as well-rounded citizens of a democracy, with specific training along community lines, prepared to cope with life in the United States in their day.

The school is that because Archie Swanson Beverley became its principal 40 years ago and she was a woman with a vision, a pioneer educator. Her vision was that no child should be denied proper schooling because he lived in a rural district. The story of how Whitwell School cancelled out that denial, widened its horizons, broadened its curriculum and extra-curricular activities, enlisted the co-operation of parents and worked with church and home, expanding into a high school of real community significance and serving as a blueprint for hundreds of communities throughout the country, is told without self-praise, by Mrs. Beverley in "Growing Years."

Scientist Shortage

From The New York Times

Like ourselves the British are worried about finding enough technically trained men and women to meet their industrial needs. Seventeen of Britain's largest firms have therefore created a fund of more than $4,000,000 to bolster scientific education. There are to be capital grants for the building, expansion, modernization and equipment of science buildings in schools that receive little public support. Emphasis is to be on teaching science and mathematics.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Dulles and the Black Cat

WASHINGTON. SECRETARY DULLES on neutralism has been behaving for all the world like the man who went into a dark room looking for a black cat that wasn't there.

The black cat that Mr. Dulles has been looking for is a universal all-purpose definition of neutrality which will announce the exact temperature of our official moral disapproval. He seems to feel that it is somehow the business of the United States, and of himself as Secretary of State, to pronounce a whole-sale blanket verdict on all countries which do not belong to NATO, SEATO or METO, on countries as diverse as India and Ireland, as Sweden and Egypt, as Switzerland and Yugoslavia. Because this cannot be done, he has within the past month or so found it necessary to contradict the President, to contradict the Vice President who had contradicted the President, and to contradict himself. Such a thing ought not to happen in a well-conducted government. For it betrays a confusion of mind which is more damaging than the attack of our adversaries.

Blanket Verdict.

On June 9 at Ames, Ia., Mr. Dulles declared that, except under very exceptional circumstances, the principle of neutrality is obsolete, short-sighted and immoral.

This blanket verdict that they are all immoral irritated the non-joiners who are a multitude in South Asia, the Middle East and Europe. The trouble was compounded by Vice President Nixon's howler in attacking Indian policy when he was in Pakistan.

So Mr. Dulles had to go back into the dark room looking for his black cat. Last Wednesday, at his press conference, he emerged with a new version of the Dulles doctrine.

As of July 11 countries belonging to the U.N. (which includes all countries, excepting only Switzerland, that are able to get themselves admitted) are no longer immoral neutrals, and Switzerland is not an immoral neutral because it has been neutral for so long a time.

Thundering Anti-Climax.

This reduces to absurdity the attempt to generalize about the morality of neutrals. For having started with a blanket disapproval, Mr. Dulles has ended with another generalization which leaves him with no neutrals to disapprove of. The official doctrine at the moment is that neutrality is immoral but that there are no neutrals who are immoral.

Now that we have arrived at this thundering anti-climax, the question is how did we become entangled in so stultifying and damaging an argument? This is the morning after, and we must try to remember what touched off last night's talking match.

At the moment there is a truly perplexing and difficult situation. The basic assumption of the cold war, that the world is divided into two camps, has been overtaken by the course of events, and a great change has come upon the world situation.

Among the developments which have caused this change the most influential have been the attainment of nuclear parity by the Soviet Union, the success of the forced industrialization of the Soviet Union followed by the reaction against Stalinism, the consolidation of the Red regime in China.

Sources of Neutralism.

In the face of this new situation there have arisen in Washington two schools of thought. The one, represented by Senator Knowland, would like to refuse American aid to any country which does not join one of our military alliances. The other, which has had encouragement from the President himself, would recognize that the weak and under-developed countries may have good reason for not joining military alliances, and would nevertheless give them economic aid.

Neither school of thought has as yet produced a policy which can be applied indiscriminately to all the neutrals. No one will ever produce such a policy. In the reality of things the question of how to treat Tito's Yugoslavia is distinct and specifically different from the question of how to treat Nasser's Egypt. In the Asian subcontinent we have a vital interest in being friends both with India and with Pakistan. But it is impossible to formulate a generalized policy which is equally good for both.

A Political Vice.

The root of the trouble about defining neutrals has been the practice, unfortunately rather common in our inexperienced diplomacy, of trying to deal with specific and diverse and hard problems by sweeping them under the rug of a moral generalization. This is a political vice which can be, and frequently has been, ruinous to an effective and realistic and genuinely moral policy.

It is the business of the statesman to work out an Egyptian policy, and a Yugoslav policy, and an Indian policy, and a Swedish policy and an Irish policy, and to refrain from pronouncing moral judgment on "neutrals" as such and in the abstract.

There are people who, when they hear an official use the word "moral," feel that morality is being promoted and defended. It may not be so. Nobody thinks it to be moral and high-minded for a man to issue blanket judgment on his fellow men. He is likely to get himself thoroughly distrusted and disliked. For each of us expects to be treated as an individual person, not as part of a generalized lump.

So it is among the nations. They are proud, as we are proud, and they resent, as we would resent, being put publicly on trial to be judged for their moral character. They resent it all the more when the judgment is generalized and when they are treated as faceless objects, having no distinct individuality of their own.

AIR GUARD TO START BREAKING CAMP

Louisiana Squadron Leaves Tomorrow, St. Louis Unit Due Saturday.

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAMP WILLIAMS, Wis., July 18—The 1700 members of the Missouri Air National Guard tomorrow will begin breaking camp preparatory to departure for home bases following one of their most successful summer training periods. The first group to leave will be the men of the 122nd Bombardment Squadron, who will board a special train tomorrow night for the 1200-mile trip to New Orleans.

The St. Joseph (Mo.) contingent will entrain for home Friday night. The St. Joseph guardsmen are personnel of the 180th Bombardment Squadron and the 131st Maintenance and Supply Group.

The 700 St. Louis airmen will depart Friday evening by chartered bus and arrive at Lambert-St. Louis Field Saturday morning with the first arrival scheduled for 10 o'clock. As has been customary, relatives and friends are expected at the National Guard hangar to greet the returning airmen.

Finance officers will hand each officer and airman 15 days active duty pay tomorrow. Pilots of the three tactical squadrons will take off Saturday morning for their respective stations. A clean-up detail will remain behind one day to secure buildings and other installations.

Training directors and other officers responsible for the summer program praised the enthusiasm and skill of the guardsmen. Training obtained at prior encampments and at army drills has paid off, officers asserted.

Capt. John P. Dolan, 740 Northmoor drive, Florissant, aircraft maintenance officer for the 110th Bombardment Squadron, Lambert-St. Louis Field, reported that maintenance at this encampment has been especially good. Dolan, a veteran of World War II and Korea, voiced high praise for young airmen, who work long hours on the flight line to insure that the B-26 bombers are ready for the next mission.

Flying training today continued to stress air-to-ground gunnery, Norden bombing and navigation missions. The ground program includes on-the-job training and a night field problem for 200 basic airmen. A weekend break in training at the Wisconsin Dells and other nearby resort areas was welcomed by the airmen from Missouri and Louisiana, who continued to enjoy cool, bright weather. It has been a short two weeks for most of them.

MISS MILDRED MCCLUNEY'S FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Miss Mildred McClune, a member of an old St. Louis family, will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Second Presbyterian Church, 4501 Westminster place, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Miss McClune, who was about 75 years old, died yesterday in Boston of complications following an operation. She lived at 4961 Laclede avenue and had been spending the summer at her Cape Cod cottage. She had served as president of the board of managers of the Home for the Friendless, a refuge for elderly women at 4431 South Broadway, since 1950. Members of her family have held offices on the board for the past century. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. George C. Bradshaw, with whom she lived; a son, Allen W. Charlton, Jacksonville, Fla., and a brother, Chester H. Stelljes. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Drehermann-Haral undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

TILLES PARK BILL TO COUNTY COUNCIL

Proposal Recommends Offer of $298,975 to St. Louis for Site.

A recommendation that St. Louis county offer $298,975 for Tilles Park was prepared for presentation to the County Council today.

Charles R. Skow, secretary of the county Parks and Recreation Advisory Board, was to present the proposal, with a recommendation that a vacant 8.5-acre tract near Midland boulevard and North and South roads in Vinita Park be acquired as a park site.

Action on either recommendation will be up to the council. The Tilles Park recommendation was made by members of the parks board and the Citizens' Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee, meeting jointly yesterday at the Courthouse in Clayton.

The group acknowledged that the offer it recommended was substantially less than the $430,000 value placed on the 58.8-acre park in Ladue by both city and county appraisers. Its offer represented only the appraised value of the land without improvements.

However, the group expressed the view that the smaller figure was the best offer the city could expect. Park improvements would be of no value to a prospective subdivider, it was pointed out.

The city Board of Estimate and Apportionment last month offered to sell the park to the county at its appraised value after a study showed its greatest use is by county residents.

Under the county recommendation, the purchase would be financed from $2,200,000 in bond funds voted last November and a park department surplus expected to amount to $190,000 by the end of 1956. The proposal suggested $100,000 of the surplus fund be used for the purchase.

Acquisition of the site in Vinita Park was urged Monday by Mayor John J. Lester, who said nine civic groups have offered to provide recreation programs there.

MRS. JOHN CHARLTON DIES, FUNERAL WILL BE FRIDAY

Mrs. John E. Charlton, 1362 Granville place, died at home yesterday of infirmities. She was 84 years old.

Her husband was with the old J. Kennard & Sons Furniture Co. for 53 years before his death in 1938. Mrs. Charlton was a charter member of the Compton Heights Christian Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. George C. Bradshaw, with whom she lived; a son, Allen W. Charlton, Jacksonville, Fla., and a brother, Chester H. Stelljes. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at Drehermann-Haral undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

MRS. LUCIUS D. TURNER FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucius D. Turner, wife of a Belleville attorney, were held today at the Renner undertaking establishment in Belleville. Burial was in Green Mount Cemetery there.

Mrs. Turner, 76 years old, died Monday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital after a long illness. She was a graduate of Washington University. She lived at 19 Coral drive near Belleville.

Survivors include her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Walter E. Ackermann, Belleville; a son, L. D. Turner Jr., Tulsa, Okla.; a brother, Eugene C. Tittmann, 5284 Westminster place, and a sister, Mrs. Charles A. Record, Brookline, Mass.

DR. PHILIP FINOT FUNERAL HELD; DENTIST, TEACHER

Funeral services for Dr. Philip Finot, a dentist here for 40 years until his retirement 17 years ago, were held today at the Baumann Brothers undertaking establishment, 2504 Woodson road, Overland. The body was cremated.

Dr. Finot, a former school teacher who began practicing dentistry when 40 years old, died Monday of infirmities at his home, 2601 Sims avenue, Overland. He was 97. He is survived by nieces and nephews, including Dr. Philip Finot of Indianapolis.

MET CANCELS NEXT SEASON IN ROW WITH UNION

NEW YORK, July 18—The Metropolitan Opera Association announced last night that it had canceled the 1956-57 season because it could not agree with the American Guild of Musical Artists on the status of Robert Herman, a stage director.

Herman had served as a secretary to the management in long earlier negotiations between the Met and the union. The union then had threatened to prefer charges against Herman, an A.G.M.A. member, for acting on behalf of management. The Met had replied that it would cancel its season if by last night the union had not signed both a contract with the management and an agreement not to press charges against Herman, who is the son of Babe Herman, a former baseball player.

Last night the A.G.M.A., after a lengthy board meeting, agreed to make a concession in the case of Herman, but it rejected the Metropolitan's "ultimatum" that the agreement be signed at once.

F.A. BEHYMER FUNERAL SERVICES HELD IN LEBANON

Funeral services for Francis Albert Behymer, who served on the Post-Dispatch staff for 64 years before his retirement as feature writer in 1952, were held today at the Meyer undertaking establishment, Lebanon, Ill., with burial in College Hill Cemetery, Lebanon.

Mr. Behymer, who wrote under the by-line "Mr. Bee," was 86 years old. After his formal retirement he continued to write articles and book reviews for the Post-Dispatch, his last review appearing July 3.

A gift of more than $125 contributed by his Post-Dispatch associates will be presented in memory of Mr. Behymer to Lott Creek Community School, Cordia, Ky., whose need and good work Mr. Behymer discovered and made the subject of a news feature in 1954, two years after his "retirement."

HORSE SHOW FREE FOR YOUNG COWBOYS

Boys Town of Missouri Benefit to Begin Tonight.

Youngsters wearing Western-style clothing or carrying cowboy guns will be admitted free to the opening performance of the Boys Town of Missouri Benefit Horse Show tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The four-night program will be at St. Charles County Fairgrounds, one mile south of St. Charles off Boone's Lick road.

A feature of the opening night performance will be a demonstration of cattle-working by Western quarterhorses and a special trick-riding exhibition by the Rodeo Kids, a group of entertainers from 5 to 14 years old. Texas Bruce, a television cowboy, will make a personal appearance.

Now in its seventh year, the annual benefit horse show has contributed approximately one-third of the operating funds for Boys Town of Missouri, at St. James. The community offers a home for underprivileged boys from 7 to 15 years old.

Tickets for the show are available from the Boys Town office, 7727 Clayton road, Parkview 5-

Shortened Route.

THE 1956 P.G.A. champion to be determined at suburban Boston's Blue Hill Country Club in the tournament starting Friday will not have to go so far nor work so long for the honor as in the past.

A new pattern for the tournament calls for only five days of action, instead of seven, and in its all-match play format, the nominal requirement now will be only nine rounds of golf for the finalists instead of 11.

In years past the tournament had been a rigorous grind that caused some of the older stars to pass it up. It still will be an endurance test, but that aspect definitely has been lessened.

Now a field of 128 starts with an 18-hole match play round Friday, continues with two rounds of 18-hole matches Saturday, and likewise Sunday, before going into 36-hole semifinals Monday which lead up to the 36-hole final Tuesday.

Prior to this year the schedule was: 36-hole qualifying at the site on a Wednesday and Thursday, an 18-hole first round Friday, 18-hole second and third rounds Saturday, and 36-hole quarterfinals on a Sunday before the usual semifinal and final rounds of 36-hole match play. Even with the new setup such name players as National Open Champion Cary Middlecoff (who has a hip ailment), Ben Hogan, Jack Burke, Lloyd Mangrum and Julius Boros are not playing at Boston.

Reasons for Change.

JIM FOGERTY, Sunset pro who was a member of the P.G.A. executive committee when the changes were voted, explained a number of reasons.

"First and most important was that the sponsors of the tournament preferred it to be played without a qualifying round," he said. "That they would get a better break in that all of the boys would be playing in match play. Some of the better players occasionally had been eliminated in the qualifying round that reduced the field to 63 and the defending champion."

"I remember one year at Pomona—this was several years ago (1939 to be exact)—when Sam Snead failed to qualify. This sort of thing has a bad effect on the tournament's appeal to the public. It isn't as bad if such a player happens to be defeated in the first round."

So the sponsor, which, Fogerty reminded, puts up some $41,000 for the tournament, was being considered in this change.

In addition, Fogerty continued, the home club representing the majority membership in the P.G.A. believes this is primarily his tournament. He doesn't want qualifying at the site because it is rough for him to go to it, fail to qualify, then have to return home and explain to his members how he didn't get to play in the tournament. "Now, everyone who goes to the tournament plays in it because it is all match play," Jim commented.

Too Tough?

THERE was another reason for the change, and it didn't grow out of the feeling of the sponsors or the home club professionals. It came from the top tournament players themselves.

"The players were very unhappy with it because it required so many rounds of golf. It was just too much unless a man happened to be in the best possible physical condition," Fogerty asserted. "Those who went to the finals were all worn out and it affected their play for the next two tournaments or so. In fact, some would drop out of the next tournament, like Middlecoff, who said 'we're dead, we just can't make it.'"

And so the break was made with tradition in the event which, despite its various limitations on entries, had been a famous championship since the days of five-time winner Walter Hagen.

Fogerty agreed that the background to this break with tradition fact that tournament players play many, many more tournaments these days. An event that makes extraordinary demands on stamina doesn't fit into their plans as easily as it would those of stars of other years.

Besides, there was one other factor. The seven-day P.G.A. championship tied up a golf course for maybe 10 days or longer. "It was becoming increasingly difficult," Fogerty remarked, "to get a club to give up its course for almost two weeks."

So the P.G.A. route now won't be so lengthy in terms of number of holes played by the finalists. But it may have an unexpected by-product. The better player will find he'll have to run the hazard of more 18-hole matches. There are five now, instead of three. Many years it seemed that three were too many because the best players were too often knocked out too easily in the short-route contests.

Maybe this will be a year for a dark horse. But he'll have to be a five-year pro. None of the younger ones are eligible under P.G.A. regulations.

Golf Course Opening. Holiday Valley, Inc., operators of a golf, swimming and other recreation project at 2477 Marshall Road in Kirkwood, announces that its nine-hole golf course will open this Saturday. Scorecard statistics show a length of 2440 yards with six par-four holes and three par-threes.

Near Riot at Milwaukee; Snider Punches Fan at Cincinnati

Gomez Set Down 3 Days, Fined $250, Adcock $100

CINCINNATI, July 18 (AP)—Ruben Gomez, pitcher for the New York Giants, today was suspended for three days and fined $250 by Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, for an altercation in Milwaukee last night with Joe Adcock, the Braves' first sacker. Adcock was fined $100.

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Ringling Brothers may have folded, but major league baseball opened a three-ring circus of its own last night.

In the main ring was a two-man fust between New York's Ruben Gomez and Joe Adcock of the Braves that ballooned into a free-for-all at Milwaukee. While this riot held attention in the big top, there was a side-show at Cincinnati.

There, Duke Snider of the Dodgers fought with a fan and both wound up in the police station, and in another interesting act, Don Newcombe, Dodgers' pitcher, denied he had labeled National League umpires "gutless."

At Milwaukee's County Stadium, a howling crowd of 33,239 saw one of baseball's wild scenes last night as the Giants' Ruben Gomez hit Joe Adcock twice with a ball—once as Adcock charged the mound—and then bolted for his dugout, the angry Braves' slugger in hot pursuit.

In a split second, the chase resembled the fox and the hounds. The Braves' dugout emptied in a swirl of players, racing behind Adcock toward the Giants' dugout. There a stream of Giants piled off the bench and met the onrushing Braves at the top step.

Rice and Brandt Collide. Five Giants' surrounded Adcock and held him as he tried vainly to wrench free and chase the 29-year-old Puerto Rican right-hander up the ramp and into the visitors' clubhouse.

Del Rice, Braves' catcher, and Outfielder Jackie Brandt met head-on at the top of the dugout steps and both tumbled down on the concrete floor. Cincinnati players ran in from the field and joined the milling mob which for a time appeared to need only one more spark to explode into a fullscale player riot.

After it was over the players said they hadn't heard the national anthem being played by the County Stadium organist. There was too much noise and excitement, they said. The four umpires, led by senior arbiter Lee Ballanfant, and six or eight uniformed policemen restored order in about three minutes.

The pitch that set in motion the melee in the second inning was an inside serve that nicked the 28-year-old Adcock on the right wrist—in the same area where a pitch by Brooklyn's Don Newcombe hit Joe on Sept. 11, 1954, and just below the spot where a pitch thrown by the Giants' Jim Hearn last year on July 31 broke his arm. Both those pitches put him out of action.

Gomez's Control Perfect. Adcock, holding his wrist, walked toward first. They exchanged a few words and then Adcock, turned abruptly and ran toward the mound.

Gomez, who by this time had a new ball, flung it at the onrushing Adcock about 25 feet away, and hit Joe flush on the left thigh. The 175-pound pitcher then turned tail and raced for all he was worth—his back hunched over as if he expected the worst for the Giant dugout. The 210-pound Adcock was right behind.

As the umpires and police-

Why Gomez Ran for Giants' Dugout

Senor RUBEN GOMEZ of Puerto Rico suddenly remembers he is no bullfighter as he sees the Braves' JOE ADCOCK (No. 9) charge at him in the second inning of the game at Milwaukee. Gomez, who had just hit Adcock twice, once with a pitch at the plate and again as Joe walked to first base, is just turning to start his race for the Giants' bomb shelter. He didn't stop until he reached the clubhouse. Players swarmed on the field in a near riot. Both players were ejected from the game and the Giants went on to win, 8-6, in 11 innings.

men quieted tempers, Giants' Manager Bill Rigney scuffled with several of the officers, who, he said later, overstepped their authority.

Both Adcock and Gomez were ejected from the game. Six detectives escorted Gomez back to the Giants' hotel as soon as he had dressed "for his own safety," said another. "The league stood guard outside the club's dressing room after the game."

"He never should have run," said one New York regular. "What could have happened to him if he had stood his ground—maybe one poke and then we would have stopped it."

"He'll never hear the end of this," said another. "The league will really get on him now."

No Penalty by Club. Rigney said he planned no disciplinary action against Gomez and said it was possible the right-hander would start in a day game here tomorrow because he was forced to use five pitchers in last night's 8-6, 11-inning Giants' victory.

Adcock, nursing an inflamed wrist and a bruised thigh, said "He called me a name and I chased him. I was never so mad in my life. It's a good thing I didn't catch him."

Peace Agreement in Police Court.

CINCINNATI, O., July 18 (UP)—Outfielder Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers and a Cincinnati Redlegs baseball fan agreed in a courtroom today to shake hands and forget their exchange of fists after the last night's game at Crosley Field.

Snider and Ralph Baumel, a 33-year-old electrician from Mason, O., agreed to drop their respective assault and battery charges at the urging of Judge Clarence Denning.

The Dodger star and Baumel traded punches after the fan had taunted Snider with the remark, "What's the matter, Duke, haven't you any guts?" Each claimed the other had thrown the first punch. Baumel lost two false teeth in the argument. Upon their appearance in court this morning, Judge Denning asked them: "Why don't you shake hands and forget it. You both look like two fine American boys."

"I'm willing to forget it," Snider replied.

"But I lost two teeth," Baumel replied. At this point, County Prosecutor Robert Paul intervened. "But you understand, Mr. Baumel, that even if the judge finds Mr. Snider guilty, he couldn't restore your teeth. You would have to bring civil action for that."

"So why not shake hands?" "OK, Duke, let's forget it," Baumel said. "I'll forget it, but I hope you get beat twice more by the Redlegs."

"Well, if it does happen, it

Anne Quast Wins Again in Western Golf

HUNTINGTON, W.Va., July 18 (UP)—All but one of the favorites won their second round matches today to advance to tomorrow's quarter finals of the fifty-sixth women's western amateur golf tournament at Guyan Golf and Country Club.

Defending champion Pat Lesser, Seattle, Wash., defeated Barbara McIntire, Toledo, O., 1-up, after receiving a scare when Miss McIntire took Nos. 16 and 17 holes to extend the match to the 18th.

Medalist Anne Quast, Everett, Wash., defeated Mrs. Paul Dye, Indianapolis, 3-2.

Veterans Mrs. Mark Porter, Philadelphia, defeated Clifford Ann Creed, Opelousas, La., 1-up, when she parred an extra hole.

Anne Richardson, Columbus, O., defeated Betty Kirby, Akron, O., 6-4; West Virginia Champion Berri Long, Huntington, W.Va., defeated Nan Berry, Quincy, Ill., 5-3; Mrs. Berton A. Craig, Morrow, O., defeated Mrs. John Deller, Evansville, Ind., 1-up; Mary Patton Janssen, Charlottesville, Va., defeated 1955 runnerup Carol Diringer, Tiffin, O., and Louise Camant, New Albany, Ind., upset veteran Ruth Jessen, Kenmore, Wash., 3-2.

The semifinals will be held Friday and the finals Saturday. In yesterday's matches, three favorites were eliminated and a top contender had to go an extra hole to remain in contention.

Miss Quast, who won the 1954 Women's Western junior tourney, had to take the last three holes to win her match 1-up from Meriam Bailey, Palatine, Ill., it appeared she would be knocked out on the 135-yard No. 18 hole when her drive fell about nine feet short of the cup and Miss Bailey's dropped about five feet beyond.

The Washington student dropped in her long putt for a birdie two. But Miss Bailey's ball rolled about an inch to the left and past the cup and she had to take a par to lose the match.

In the biggest upset, 1951 titlist Marjorie Lindsay, Decatur, Ill., was eliminated by Nan Berry, Quincy, Ill., 4-3.

The other two upset victims were Curtis-cupper Mary Anne Downey, Baltimore, and former Kansas Champion Judy Bell, Wichita.

Mrs. Berton A. Craig, Morrow, O., defeated Miss Downey, 1-up, and Clifford Ann Creed, Opelousas, La., downed Miss Bell, 3-2.

Billiken Basketball Affected By New Law in Louisiana

By Robert Morrison

Eddie Hickey today described as "regrettable and disappointing" the developments in Louisiana that may prevent St. Louis University's participation in the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament at New Orleans.

The school's athletic director and coach said he was not in a position to say what the university's policy would be toward playing in the tournament but that he would consider it unsatisfactory to be asked to take a team not at full strength.

The new Louisiana law barring inter-racial athletic contests created an immediate problem so far as the St. Louis U. basketball team was concerned because one of its top prospects, Cal Burnett, is a Negro.

"It's speculative to say now just how important Burnett will be to our team at that time," Hickey said, "but there is no doubt about his rating now as a top contender for a starting role."

"It would be displeasing to me personally to be asked to field a team not at top strength, whether because of illness, injury or non-acceptance of any athlete."

Wires Governor. Hickey said he was surprised to learn the law had gone into effect. Gov. Earl Long signed the bill Monday. Before knowing the bill was signed and after consultation with Sugar Bowl officials who encouraged comment, Hickey had wired Gov. Long that:

"St. Louis University has always been proud and happy with former participation in sports with Centenary, Louisiana Tech and Louisiana State and particularly the Sugar Bowl classic. Since we permit both white and Negro students to participate in athletics the pending legislation if adopted would prevent our continued competition in Louisiana. . . . The possibility that St. Louis U. will not play in the Sugar Bowl tournament, in which it has a brilliant record, notably in games with Kentucky, poses a real blow to the Billiken basketball schedule."

The Shortened Road.

This coming season, for the first time in Hickey's 10 years at St. Louis, the Bills will not be making a regular season trip to New York. This grew out of scheduling difficulties. So if the New Orleans trip is knocked out, the Bills' major travel engagements (except for conference play) would be mostly early in the season against tough teams (Cincinnati, Ohio State and Kentucky). There is one later non-conference date DePaul in Chicago. Thus the opportunity for shooting for nat-

King Victor in Bowling Meet; Weber Is Fifth

PARAMUS, N.J., July 18 (UP)—Johnny King, 35-year-old Cleveland bowler, yesterday won the $17,750 National League of Bowling round robin tournament.

King pocketed a $5000 top prize after 28 games in the tournament. He won 20 and lost eight. His total score, based on the Petersen point system, was 137-36.

Tony Lindemann of Detroit was second.

In gaining the victory, King posted the final day's high score. Needing 311 pins in his final two-game match against Foy Belcher of Los Angeles, King rolled a 258-226-484 to win by a comfortable margin.

Dick Weber of St. Louis, finished in fifth place with 126-16 points. He won 12 games and lost 16.

The series was filmed for showing on television.

The final standings:

Name and City	W.	L.	Pins	Points
King, Cleveland	20	8	5486	137-36
Lindemann, Detroit	14	14	5816	132-16
Belcher, Los Angeles	16	12	5759	131-50
Weber, St. Louis	12	16	5728	126-16
Arteste, Minn.	12	17	5716	126-16

Braves Buy Atwell.

MILWAUKEE, July 18 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves purchased the contract of Catcher Toby Atwell from Miami of the Class AAA International League. The 32-year-old Atwell played for Braves Manager Fred Haney while Haney was pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates and also has played for the Chicago Cubs, and at one time was a member of the Brooklyn organization.

Television in Review That Old Feeling About Reruns

By John Crosby

ONE of Alexander Woolcott's favorite legends, as I recall it, was about the house-hunting couple who come upon a house which the wife seemed to know all about, though she'd really never laid eyes on it before. That is, she knew what was inside and who was going to answer the door and that sort of thing. Precognition. She'd been there before, as it were, though she couldn't have been.

JOHN CROSBY

Anyone watching television this summer is going to have the uncomfortable tickings of precognition again and again. He's been there before. Or maybe he hasn't but it seems like he has. The air teems with reruns and whether you've seen the plays before or not you rather think you have. If you have seen them, they are so unmemorable that you recall them only dimly like something in a dream. Or just possibly you have not seen the thing but it is so much like a dozen others that you have seen that you might just as well have.

FOR INSTANCE, the other day on "Undercurrent" one of the rerun series on TV, I heard Virginia Bruce, playing a wife, tell Pat O'Brien, playing her husband, not to worry: "We'll talk about it in the morning." Now, I'm reasonably sure I never laid eyes on this little stinker of a picture before but I seem to recall Virginia Bruce saying, "We'll talk about it in the morning" to her husband before, conceivably in some prior life.

Or take "Adventure Theater." Now this is a series shot in England and which has never been shown over here before so I couldn't possibly have seen it. Still, when one drama opens—as it did—with the narrator saying, "They were an ideally happy couple until one day a strange letter arrived—and the nightmare began," it's difficult to escape the conclusion that I have second sight.

LATER in the same sordid little drama, there came the line: "Ever since I ran away with Wanda, she's dragged me down, down, down!" Later, the wife says to her husband: "I'm free of you at last—but I feel nothing but emptiness." These may be first-run dramas but those are not first-run lines.

I have now sampled "Adventure Theater," "Festival of Stars," "Star Showcase," "Spotlight Playhouse," "Encore Theater," "Undercurrent," all reruns, and "Sneak Preview," which is not composed of reruns but of shows that didn't manage to get on in the first place. All I can say is that you'll have to take your chance on any of them. About the only generality you can make is that each of them consumes half an hour, though some half-hours may seem longer than other half-hours.

FOR INSTANCE, "Festival of Stars" opened with "The Fabulous Sycamores," which, as you probably suspected, was based on the Kaufman-Hart play, "You Can't Take It With You," which was one of the most successful plays in the commercial theater to say nothing of one of the funniest. Still, on TV they managed to extract all the humor, all the quality and everything else from it. It takes a certain genius to manage this. Quite understandably, the names of George Kaufman and Moss Hart were omitted from the credits. No reason why they should be blamed.

However, another "Festival of Stars" program called "The Silent Stranger" with Richard Conte was, I thought, well worth a half-hour. This was one of the better type westerns in which a guy rides into town, trailing an air of menace behind him and, at the end of half an hour, rides out again, mission accomplished. It was composed largely of brooding atmosphere, iacetic dialogue and mystery which explodes in sudden violence at the end. It didn't break any new trails but it was very well done.

I'VE ONLY SEEN ONE of the "Sneak Preview" series and I thoroughly enjoyed it. This was a ghostly and unusual thing about a couple of kids at a carnival. The kids stumble on the fact that the merry-go-round operator has a little trick of running his carousel backwards, making himself younger and younger with each turn until he is a boy again. Then, in the guise of boyhood, he robs rich old ladies, after which the merry-go-round runs in the right direction, restores him to his proper age. The end is fairly hair-raising. But since this may be released again, I'd better not reveal it. It was produced by Sam Goldwyn Jr.

you have tried to treat her as if she did. Apparently you haven't any partner in your business. If you had, you might have picked up a few ideas about a partnership. It is a little different from hiring and firing.

BUT LET'S PRETEND for a moment that your wife is employed by you to run the home (which she certainly isn't in fact). You could make some progress if you employed the fundamental principles of employer-employee relationships. These are sometimes called the three Rs: Recognition, Respect, Remuneration. Take stock of yourself and see if you could pass an examination on the three subjects.

1. Recognition. Do you praise her for the way she manages things? Do you understand the difficulties she has to deal with and give her a pat on the back for her success? Do you tell her occasionally what a wonderful thing it is to have a wife like her? Do you take her out socially a good deal?

2. Respect. Do you treat her as an equal? Do you study her peculiarities, her special interests, her likes and dislikes? Do you consult her on matters which are of real importance to her as a partner? Do you talk and act as if her opinions were intelligent and valuable?

3. Remuneration. No doubt you give her a liberal allowance to run the house and think you are very virtuous in doing so. The remuneration a wife has a right to expect is different. She has a right to expect sincerity, appreciation, companionship and love. She has a hard job and a large part of the remuneration to which she is entitled consists of your daily assurances of affection, admiration and devotion.

Introduction to Colorful Fur Season

COLORFUL fur season is promised by the retailers who are introducing their new collections for the benefit of those who like to make their selections at tempting prices during the summer months. New shades of blue appear. Blond tones are of general interest, and there is a splash of red to contribute to the brightness of the fashions. The vogue of black is rivaled by a decided interest in white and off-white tints.

Contributing also to the impressiveness of the fur styles are several new silhouettes. The slim coat, tapered to the hemline, is featured extensively. Collars frequently are large, and the revival of the hood that may also be worn as a cape collar is noteworthy. Stoles, capes and shorter jackets have a bloused or barrel-like silhouette in accordance with a popular theme.

Illustrated are some of the outstanding types available in the St. Louis stores.

1. This handsome full-length coat of royal pastel mink was created from a Paris pattern. Especially distinctive is the detachable scarf that is held by label tabs. This may be arranged in several different ways or worn as a separate accessory.

2. A pale gray blue shade called Sorrento blue is attractive for a hip-length beaver coat that has an enveloping collar and deep cuffs. The tie is of broad-cord silk.

3. Emba Cerulean mink skins are arranged in an unusual vertical formation in the design of this cape stole. The cape is rounded over the shoulders to give a modification of the barrel silhouette although the back hangs straight.

4. This hooded coat with its slim tapered lines is typical of an important fashion. Also of interest is the choice of fur which is bright red mink. The same coat may be obtained in pastel beaver. Skins are handled to give a supple drapery through the shoulders.

5. The waist-length jacket with dolman sleeves is scheduled for fashion leadership, not only for evening wear but with wool dresses. This bolero is made of royal pastel mink. Collar drapes in a flattering line. The back of the jacket is bloused.

6. Another elegant wrap made of royal pastel mink is the clutch cape. This model has a collar that lies flat at the shoulders, forming a soft and becoming frame for the face. The back of the cape is rounded.

Stalin, Scapegoat of Tyranny

By Fulton J. Sheen

A STUDENT of the philosophy of Communism for more than 30 years hopes the following reflections may be permitted on the "un-godding" of Stalin by Khrushchev, Bulganin and others.

FULTON J. SHEEN

While Communism was denying what the rest of the world was saying about Stalin, it is now admitted by the Soviets to be true. He is now called by his former friends a tyrant, a dictator who bombed his way to a proletarian throne. Moscow had frantically denied all this for 30 years and affirmed that he was a lover of peace, a noble citizen and the greatest genius of all times, a friend of the downtrodden. In other words, Moscow lied. The democratic nations of the world were right in their judgments; Moscow admitted was wrong. As the doctor is a better judge of the patient than the patient himself, so the untyrannical nations of the world prove to be better judges of tyranny of Communism than the Communists themselves.

Tyranny can never live without a scapegoat. Someone must be blamed for the failures of a dictator. Once it was the Czar, then it was capitalism, then it was the "imperialist war mongers of the west." Now, in the language of the Old Testament, the scapegoat is found within the camp, and is driven outside the camp. As Nero blamed the Christians for the burning of Rome, so "capitalistic encirclement" was once blamed for the tragedy of Russia. The Trojan horse, which the Russians wheeled into the gates of other nations, is now found within the Kremlin. It was Stalin who was the Trojan horse.

THE SOVIETS, who believed and practiced liquidation as no other people in history, now believe that they have liquidated their bloody past by focusing the guilt on Stalin. But the list of the defendants at the bar of justice is longer reading. The very ones who now accuse Stalin were his agents in the rape of nations. Poland knows the name of a well-known Bolshevik who practiced Stalin methods; the Ukraine can name another equally famous name. The guilty conscience always projects its guilt on others; the cowardly conscience does so after the death of accomplices in the blood-baths of nations. Khrushchev and Bulganin hold up their hands in mock innocence, saying "Behold, we are innocent of the blood of this man Stalin," but they "who delivered" Stalin to the wolves need more than water to wash the incarnadine spots from their hands.

Nothing confirms this more than the fact that Khrushchev condemns Stalin, not the terror; he condemns the individual who practiced tyranny, not the tyranny; the cruel one, not cruelty; the member of the party who was brutal, not the brutality of which the leader was only the exponent. It is Stalin who is liquidated by Khrushchev, not liquidation. Instead of the new policy being a purging of the old leaven of terror, it is rather a manifestation of what takes place in all tyrannies—the moment when revolutionary leaders turn upon one like monsters of the deep. Incidentally, it might be asked, if there is no such thing as morality, if history is economically determined, if economic conditions produce characters, then why blame a Stalin as a product of forces beyond his control? If he was "dialectically determined," as Communism must say, then he is beyond both praise and blame.

THIS INNER FEUD is merely the continuation of incessant civil war among revolutionary leaders. Have we forgotten the Lenin-Stalin feud, which Khrushchev now admits in the publication of the long-denied Lenin testament? Did not Trotsky charge the ruling group, particularly Kamenev and Zinoviev, with responsibility for defeats in Germany and Bulgaria? Were not the Tito-Stalin feud and the Seria-Malenkov feud merely the precursors of the Khrushchev-Stalin feud? As Lenin wrote about Communism in 1920: "At any moment it may substitute criticism with weapons for the weapons of criticism." Great empires in the past have broken up when division set in among the sons. Khrushchev and Bulganin are "sons of Stalin"; they are flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone. When Constantine died, the sons moved the empire eastward; with Stalin in dead the sons are moving the empire "westward" in sense of co-existence. An empire that is built up around a man for more than 30 years can be undone by men in three. Modern history tells the story of a tremendous disintegration in another field, when authority passed from one man to a "collectivity" with equal authority among the individuals. Watch and see—it is being repeated today in the political order.

Words, Wit And Wisdom By William Morris

Word Game.

HOW would you like to add some valuable words to your vocabulary and have fun doing it? Here are 10 interesting and useful words. You'll know some of them, but others will prove a bit more puzzling. For each numbered word you will find a term of almost the same meaning among the lettered words and phrases following it. For example, the word numbered 3 may have practically the same meaning as the word lettered C. Write this down as 3C.

When you have written down all the answers, check against the correct pairings at the bottom. Score 10 points for each correct answer—80-100 points is excellent; 70-80 good; 60 or fewer, better get out your dictionary and look up the words you missed.

1. Kyrie: (a) spooky; (b) eagle's nest; (c) gloomy old house.
2. Exacerbate: (a) enchain; (b) make ridiculous; (c) embitter.
3. Evolve: (a) repeal; (b) fall to follow suit; (c) call forth.
4. Eurythmics: (a) architectural patterns; (b) rhythmic body movements; (c) sonatas.
5. Erubescence: (a) blush; (b) condition of fever; (c) great learning.
6. Euphemism: (a) pleasant sound; (b) inoffensive expression; (c) high-flown language.
7. Epoch: (a) crowning achievement; (b) Greek deity; (c) period of time.
8. Equivocate: (a) lie; (b) unsettle; (c) cause destruction of.
9. Emaciated: (a) hungry; (b) wasted away; (c) emotionally deranged.
10. Emanate: (a) move to new quarters; (b) free from slavery; (c) come forth.

Sin Fighting

By Stan Delaplane

OKLAHOMA CITY, where oil wells pump in the back yards of mansions, was wrestling like fury with sin. I found this was nothing new. Oklahoma City is the most sin-wrestling city in the nation, I guess. They have been battling since 1907, when the State passed its Constitution and prohibited liquor.

STAN DELAPLANE

An election was coming up. All the candidates were huffing and puffing among the paid political advertisements, offering to meet Satan at catch-as-catch-can and throw him up for grabs. I gathered that a candidate in Oklahoma City must be a real bully boy at sin-fighting. For over the years they have had some real champions.

I DROVE DOWN from Kansas on the highway that follows the old Chisholm cattle trail. It was a nice day. About 98 degrees, said the cheerful announcer on the car radio. (The cheerful announcer up in his air-conditioned studio.)

I checked into a refrigerated hotel with a swimming pool. The bellboy brought a bucket of ice with the room key.

"You like a little beverage, huh?"

"What kind of beverage?"

The bellboy said almost any kind of beverage, huh, could be arranged.

"You mean gin, son?" I said sadly. "I thought this was a dry state."

"Yes, SUH!" said the bellboy happily. "Oklahoma is dry! Prohibition State, Oklahoma. I could bring you the fixin's fo' a tall, cool Tom Collins, suh."

"Is that home-made gin?"

"No, suh! This is first-class Texas gin. Real fresh gin. Reckon they mighta made this gin this mawnin' down Texas way fo' all the dried out folks up in Oklahoma."

I TOLD the bellboy I was under strict doctor's orders not to drink any fresh gin. He brought me a lemonade, and I went back to the paper.

The town, said the candidates, was full of bootleggers, gambling men, cold-deck artists and boosters. Throw the rascals out.

"It is estimated that bootleggers made $7,000,000 last year."

I took a taxi over to Hollis Russell's bookshop and bought a couple of books on Oklahoma. The book said Oklahoma City had been named four times as a major vice center. Couple of years ago Look magazine put it among the top ten in the United States. It seemed odd that such a beautiful city could be so sinful. All clean, modern buildings. All beautiful, big homes on tree-shaded streets.

The lady in the bookstore had come from Buffalo, N.Y., and she said Oklahoma City is a wonderful city. She is crazy about it.

"Why I used to lock my house up when I was home alone in Buffalo and still worry. Here I leave everything unlocked all the time!"

Child Tests

By Angelo Patri

"WE HAVE two lovely children, a boy of five and a girl of three. Could you tell me what tests to give them so we can know about what degree of intelligence each has, and so we can know what to expect of them educationally?"

ANGELO PATRI

No tests are necessary for the present. Young children such as these are best let alone to develop at their own rate and according to their abilities. They need good, plain, nourishing food, sleep, recreation, affection and guidance; this last when their behavior indicates it is needed.

Eagerness on the part of parents to learn what ability can be hoped for in a child is something like that of wanting a rosebud to open rapidly into a full-blown flower. One morning I saw a girl pick a rosebud from the bush and unfold its petals. Of course, the result was not what she had hoped for—the full-blown beautiful rose. What she got was a distorted, misshapen caricature of the real thing. That might happen to the child whose ambitious parent began testing and teaching on the basis of the test. Had the little girl waited, fed and watered the rosebud the while, she could have had the perfect flower she wanted. It could be so, too, with children.

WE TEST ONLY the children who seem to be in trouble at this stage of growth. When this happens, we ask for help from the experts. Tests on which we depend for information about the mental and physical condition of children who are not developing normally must be given by trained and experienced persons and not by anyone else. Giving a test and interpreting it is a matter of knowledge, skill and experience, and it should be left in the hands of the experts. Even then, the tests often have to be repeated to make certain that the results are as accurate as humanly possible.

Normal children who are growing with normal children usually do not need tests. When they enter school, the educators may, just possibly, use a test for one reason or another. Usually the teacher's judgment is all that is required. All the healthy little one needs is encouragement to develop. The power to do it is within him. Just give it a chance.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

IT'S tough to get the last word in with a Texan, regardless of the circumstances. Jerry Coleman, back in big league baseball after being a war pilot in Korea, tells about a group of G.I.'s over there who came upon a remarkably small horse tethered to a post.

"Gosh all hemlock!" exclaimed one soldier. "I'll bet that's the smallest horse in the whole world!"

"You're crazy," contradicted a recruit from Texas.

"Back home, man, we got horses that's as little as two of that one!"

LATEST TEXAS STORY concerns the oil magnate who was so lazy he couldn't be bothered coming in out of the sun. So he had the streets air-conditioned.

Awaiting Big Chance at Muny Opera

Understudy Ruth Schumacher of Kirkwood Is Training Herself by Watching Principals

By Mary Kimbrough

RUTH SCHUMACHER, who traveled from Kirkwood to the Municipal Opera by way of the Broadway stage, is faced with the task of learning two sets of lines every week of the Muny season, and she never knows from one day to the next which set she'll be asked to say and sing.

The slender, brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph G. Schumacher, 438 South Clay avenue, a former member of the Muny chorus, has returned this season as stock mezzo-soprano, engaged for the season as understudy to principals. In addition, she appears each week in a role of her own. But she must be ready at a moment's notice to drop one role for another, if the principal for any reason should fail to go on.

"It gets a little frustrating," the young singer admitted with a wry smile. "I don't want anyone to get sick, but I wish sometimes that maybe someone wouldn't quite 'feel' up to going on. Nothing serious, understand, but it would mean a chance for me."

Even though all the principals thus far have been brimming over with health and energy and have been right on hand at every curtain, Ruth isn't taking time out to brood over her lack of opportunity to go on in a major role. Instead, she's getting as much experience as she can in the less spectacular parts and meanwhile studying the principals in a constant educational campaign to train herself to be a better actress and singer.

"I guess sometimes I look a little foolish staring at them during rehearsals, but I want to learn everything I can. They've had a great deal more experience than I have had and I know just watching them will help me a great deal. But I don't want to copy what they do. I want to develop each role as I see it."

THAT'S why, even with a minor role which calls for a few lines, she tries to imagine that character's background, education, culture, motives in acting the way she does.

Tall, blue-eyed Ruth, who portrays the role of Louka in this week's production, "The Soldier," has taken this same serious approach to her profession ever since she decided to enter it a few years ago. Neither of her parents had been in show business—her father is an attorney—but both Ruth and her sister, early displayed musical ability, with Ruth turning to the vocal side of the musical world, and her sister, now Mrs.

RUTH SCHUMACHER... SHE'D RATHER BE A LITTLE FISH AT MUNICIPAL OPERA THAN BIG FISH SOME PLACE ELSE.

Lynn Carron, studying the piano.

"I used to come out here to the Muny with my parents and dream of the day when I could be here on the stage. That has been my ambition ever since I was 10 or 11 years old. But the training came later."

"Mother tells me that in church I used to love to sing so much that I kept right on even after the organist had stopped playing, but I didn't study until I went to Webster College."

It was her class schedule at Webster that delayed for several seasons the fulfillment of her dream to sing at the Muny. In 1951, she wanted to audition for the Muny chorus, but her study schedule conflicted with early rehearsals so she got a job instead with the Starlight Theater in Kansas City where the season began a little later.

From Kansas City, with no agent but plenty of ambition, she tackled New York, took voice lessons, obtained some club singing dates, then auditioned for her first Broadway show, "My Darlin' Aida," and was chosen as one of 10 for the chorus out of 600 applicants.

But even the lights of Broadway couldn't put the Muny out of her mind, so after the show closed she came back and in 1952 appeared in the chorus for the season. Then came a Sigismund Romberg concert tour, winter stock in Miami, an appearance on the Rodgers and Hammerstein television spectacular, and jobs as soloist on Caribbean cruises. Following a small role in "Arabian Nights" at Jones Beach, she joined the cast of "Gypsy" on Broadway as an understudy and in several minor roles, leaving the cast this summer to come back to her first love, the Muny stage.

Modest and self-effacing despite her better-than-average start as a singer and actress, Ruth preferred to remain an understudy for the time being to the stars in Muny productions rather than to accept leading roles in theaters of lower stature.

"It's important to understudy people who are good in their roles," she said. "I have had opportunities to play the same roles in other cities, but how would I know whether I was doing well? This way, I am learning from those who are already established in the theater."

"Anyway, the Muny is right at the top of summer theaters and it has a magnificent reputation throughout the profession. I'd rather be a little fish here than a big fish some place else."

THIS is her own decision, just as have been all the others in her brief professional career. Her family was enthusiastic and proud, but without professional experience on which to base parental advice. So she was on her own.

"Whether I've made the right decisions, I guess I'll never know," she said. "I realize that often I've gone against the advice of well-meaning friends because I felt that my way was the better way, but whether it would have turned out differently had I followed their advice, no one can tell. When I'm faced with a decision to make, one which I know can influence my career one way or the other, I listen to advice, weigh all the pros and cons, then pray that God will help me decide the right way."

Alumna of a Lutheran high school in Des Peres, where the family lived before moving to Kirkwood, Ruth maintained her interest in church when she was in the East and often would sing in church services, refusing to accept pay for her work.

"Sometimes," she said, "I would write my own songs. I would go through a hymnal to find some ideas for a solo, then sit down and write one if I couldn't find just what I wanted—or if I didn't have the 60 cents to go out and buy some new music."

She is spending this summer at home, where her parents help her with her lines.

"Sometimes, my dad brings me to rehearsals so I can spend that time in the car studying my lines, something I can't do if I catch a ride with other members of the company. And at home, mother cues me. I sometimes trade the dish-washing job with her if she will stay in the kitchen and read the cues to me."

"But when I really get confused is when the character I'm actually playing has a conversation with the character I'm understudying. If I'm not careful, I find I'm talking to myself."

Mr. Dale led the six of spades, the queen went up on Mr. Muzzy's right and he promptly won with the king.

Even if the heart finesse were successful, he had only two heart tricks, one spade, four diamonds and a club in quick winners. There was nothing to do but to try the club finesse.

He led a small club, finessed the Jack and Mrs. Keen won with the king. A spade was returned and Mr. Dale, holding ace-10 over the Jack-five, ran off five tricks in the suit for a two-trick set.

"Muzzy," Mr. Chapman said, "why do you have to bid no trump all the time?"

"You bid your hand and I'll bid mine," Mr. Muzzy retorted.

"Look, Muzzy," continued Mr. Chapman, "you had to make a holdup play on the first trick in this hand. Don't play your king of spades. Just let Mrs. Keen win with the queen."

"What?" yelled Mr. Muzzy, "and have her lead back a spade right through my king?"

Mr. Chapman said, "I'm not asking you to play the JACK of spades on the first trick. You'd play your small one. Mrs. Keen's spade return would be through your king-jack—an automatic stopper, with the queen gone."

"It wouldn't matter whether Dale won with his ace or not. If he did, you'd have the third round spade winner. If he didn't, Mrs. Keen would be retorted of the suit and couldn't lead it again when she got in with the king of clubs."

Getting Boy To Ask Girl For a Date

By Elinor Williams

"HOW can I get a boy to ask me for a date?"

Does that question sound familiar to you because it has been in your own busy little mind?

Now a high school girl has sent in an answer:

"Dear Elinor: I agree with you usually, but this time I don't entirely agree. You said that a girl can scare a boy away before he ever asks her for a date by telling all her friends that she likes him."

"I know it's true that this has happened to some girls when they spread it all around school that they like a certain boy and a lot of goosy things like that. It could scare a boy away if he's the shy type and not used to dating and if the boys teased him about it a lot."

"But some boys aren't bashful and don't mind being teased about girls, believe me. They love it. I seem to think it makes them appear popular or something."

"Anyway, I know a girl who liked a certain boy and she told her friends. He used to speak to her, but never paid much attention to her. When he heard that she liked him, he picked up his ears and began to notice her and pretty soon they started to go steady."

"So I guess it depends on the boy you talk about. Some boys like it and some don't."

Color Ideas

Tawny shades of gold, camel, coffee and beige are being introduced as forerunners of the coming season. There also are vivid shades of Chinese red and sapphire blue, many of the two used together or with black. Tri-colored striped fabrics combining blue, black and brown are among the important color preferences.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. ARE WE FACED WITH A NEW SORT OF TEENAGER?
YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1.

YES. They want to be adults right now, according to Dr. Donald McNasser. This conclusion was drawn from 400 biographies written by students in 10 high schools. They don't want to wait to have experiences as their parents did. Parents were considered by the majority as the most influential people in a teen-ager's life. Next, a boy or girl friend. Only one per cent felt that adults had real confidence in them. They want security, understanding and guidance from parents without losing the right to set their own style of living.

Answer to Question 2.

True. Boredom is mental and emotional tension and frequent periods of boredom indicate emotional instability. Boredom is exhausting and slows down thought processes. If you are chronically bored, your life lacks incentive and purpose, and you should cultivate broader and more satisfying interests. Repetitive action is often cause of boredom, though if you make a sincere effort to pretend interest in a dull job, the work can be made to seem pleasant.

Answer to Question 3.

Yes. A mother who accepts the routine of house work and says she enjoys it will lay the foundation in children for a sound attitude toward work, says Dorothy Barclay in a New York Times. Mothers who complain within the youngster's hearing of the drudgery of house work, and dads who declare they'd like to "chuck it all and go beachcombing" are likely to be concerned later on about a child's "poor work habits." Good work habits and attitudes take time to develop but consistent interest, good example, and adult-child co-operation will lead to the hoped-for goal.

"Your Happiness Cycle" (non-profit booklet) will help you schedule important events by predicting your happiness highs and lows. Send 15 cents (coin only) and self-addressed envelope to Dr. A. E. Wiggam at the Post-Dispatch.

Smart Resorts in East Attract St. Louisans

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

SEVERAL St. Louis families are in Hot Springs, Va., for the summer, and a few more are going. At the Homestead there now is Mrs. Allen T. West of the Park Plaza Hotel, who will continue to Watch Hill, R.I., for her annual visit about Aug. 1. According to present plans she will be at the hotel instead of at her summer home at the Rhode Island resort. Mrs. West's daughter, Mrs. William Hale Harkness (Betty West) of New York and her three children are established in the Harkness summer place in Watch Hill.

Early next month the Homestead colony will be augmented by Mr. and Mrs. Eberhard Anheuser of Golfhurst, Sappington, who will be there a month or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg, 49 Westmoreland place, are due at the Wianco Club, on Cape Cod and Wianco, on Aug. 15 after a visit in the New England mountain country, where they are at present. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Lee of the St. Regis apartments, 4954 Lindell boulevard, are dividing their summer between two resorts. They departed July 10 for the Wianco Club and Aug. 1 will move to the New Ocean House, Swampscott, Mass.

Mrs. Lee's daughter, Mrs. William Gage von Weise, 2 Hortense place, departed yesterday for Wequetonsing, Mich., to occupy her cottage for the rest of the summer. She is motoring with her three daughters, Nancy, Ann and Martha, and will be joined Friday by her 12-year-old niece, Karen von Weise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. von Weise Jr., of Rye, N.Y. The two von Weises will join the group the weekend of Aug. 4 and Louis von Weise will take his daughter home.

Stuart M. Skinner, 809 South Warsaw road, Ladue, will depart Friday to spend his vacation with his family in Marion, Mass., where his wife and children are occupying the cottage at the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Shepley Lionberger.

Spending Season at Maine Resort.

LETTER to a St. Louis friend from Mrs. L. Guy Blackmer, 5642 Kingsbury boulevard, tells of highlights of her recent trip east and the fact that she is escorted in her cottage, Matakka, Seal Harbor, Me. Traveling by motor over the Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpikes, Mrs. Blackmer made several stops en route to Maine. In Hartford, Conn., she spent a weekend with her sister, Mrs. Charles Malcolmson, who is now with her at Seal Harbor, and in Boston spent a week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright Johnson Wainwright (Jane Blackmer). She was entertained at informal parties there and attended the Boston Arts Festival just opening in Boston Garden. She saw a performance of Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and a ballet, both under the giant elms in the garden. Luncheon in Cambridge and a visit to the Boston Museum of which former St. Louisan Perry Rathbone is director were among her activities.

At Seal Harbor, where her cottage overlooks the Atlantic, one of Mrs. Blackmer's nearest neighbors is Dr. Nathan M. Pusey, Harvard University president, and his family. Saturday Mrs. Blackmer and the Wainwrights attended a lobster party at Pemaquid Beach in honor of her cousin, Adlai Stevenson.

Gartside-Huth Wedding Set for Aug. 25.

MISS JOAN MARION HUTH of Milwaukee and Robert John Gartside Jr., will be married Saturday, Aug. 25, in Milwaukee and, after a brief honeymoon, will sail Sept. 13 for Paris to live for a year while he completes his studies for the concert stage on a Beebe fellowship. The prospective bridegroom, who at present is touring Europe with the Harvard Glee Club, of which he is former assistant director, will fly home July 29, landing in Boston.

The wedding will take place at the Sherman Park Lutheran Church in Milwaukee, with the Rev. Victor Frank officiating.

After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carl Huth of Milwaukee, will give a reception at the Bluemound Golf and Country Club. The prospective bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Gartside, 6639 Pershing avenue, who will go to Milwaukee for the event.

The bride will have an honor attendant, Miss Jennie Lou Singleton of Milwaukee, and two flower girls, both nieces of the bridegroom-elect; Mary Lynn Riesmeyer of Kansas City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Riesmeyer (Dorothy Gartside), and Cynthia A. Bates, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bates (Mary Louise Gartside) of Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. Riesmeyer will attend the wedding.

Serving as best man will be Harry Booth of Islington, Mass., and as ushers, John Huth, the bride's brother; Winslow Briggs, Palo Alto, Calif., and Carl Zahn, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Mr. Gartside, a tenor, has been in Paris studying since last October. A graduate of Harvard College in 1950, he received his master of arts degree from Harvard University in 1953. Miss Huth is a Radcliffe College alumna and took graduate work in education at Harvard.

A family reunion is being held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Dale Norwine, 400 West Polo drive, Clayton. With the Norwines are their daughters, Mrs. Oliver Bowen Root of Los Angeles, and her children Catherine and David, and Mrs. William C. Krueger of Colorado Springs, and her infant son, John William. Mrs. Root was Miss Mildred Norwine and her sister is the former Miss Jeanne Norwine. Joining the group later this month will be Mr. and Mrs. Norwine's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Norwine of Middletown, Conn., and their daughter, Kerry, and son, Kyle. Robert Norwine is director of admissions at Wesleyan University, Middletown.

Miss Edith Wiener to Become August Bride.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Edith Wiener, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Meyer Wiener of Coronado, Calif., former St. Louisans, to George W. Scott of London, England. The wedding will take place next month in Coronado.

Miss Wiener is a graduate of Mills College, Oakland, Calif., where she also earned her master's degree and taught modern dance. Mr. Scott is a graduate of Cambridge University.

To Visit in Wisconsin

Mrs. JOHN JOSEPH SHEEHAN, who with Mr. SHEEHAN will depart Friday for Ephraim, Wis., to spend several weeks with her grandfather, Alfred C. Carr, at his summer home. The SHEEHANS live at 5137 WATERMAN AVENUE.

Webster Groves Residents Give Small Parties

MRS. R. EARL SALVETER, 324 South Maple avenue, entertained a group of young women at a luncheon at her home Wednesday in honor of Miss Bonnie-Marie Marti, whose engagement to Air Force Lt. Victor D. Lippold was announced recently.

MISS BONNIE-MARIE MARTI

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Marti, 421 California avenue. Lt. Lippold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lippold, Dodge City, Kan., visited here recently on his way to his new assignment at Harlingen, Tex., from Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla.

The wedding will take place, Oct. 6 at Webster Groves Christian Church.

Visitors here last week were Walker J. Hosmer and his daughter, Miss Joan Hosmer, of Greenfield, Mass. Their host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gushaw, 1107 Pine Tree lane, entertained friends at a swimming party and picnic in honor of Miss Hosmer.

Returning recently from Bay Lake, Minn., where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Kohlbray, 463 Lee avenue, 51 South Gore avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Julian M. Phillips, 331 South Gore avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Carr, 48 Mason avenue.

Also returned recently from the East are Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Wilson, 335 Bristol road. They visited several places including Cumberland, Md., where Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Clara Ebert, lives.

The wedding of Miss Jo Ann Marie Miller, daughter of Mrs. Charles Adolph Miller, 623 South Gore avenue, and the late Mr. Miller, to Elliott Morris Day of Cedar Rapids, Ia., took place June 16 at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, St. Louis. After the service was performed by the Rev. W. Murray Kenney, there was a reception in adjoining William Scarlett parish house.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Walter William Kuehl of Park Ridge, Ill., wore a gown of white pique and lace. Her illusion fingertip veil was attached to a seed pearl crown. She carried a prayer book.

Miss Elaine Miller, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Sally Day, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marion Rosebrough, bridesmaids. They wore white polished cotton frocks dotted in red, and carried nosegays of red carnations, white stephanotis and chrysanthemums.

Mr. Day, son of Mrs. Jack Fair of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and John Day of Los Angeles, was attended by James Manly as best man. Ushers were Robert Brooks, Cedar Rapids; Dennis Armstrong, James Benson and Charles Miller, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Day are living in Cedar Rapids, where Mrs. Day will complete her studies at Coe College. Mr. Day received his degree last month from the same college.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

I HAVE just about reached the end of my rope and I hope you can help me. My wife and I met in an office where we worked. We went together about eight months before we were married over a year ago. She was 20 and I was 21. Our backgrounds are similar and we have gotten along very well. Both of us are well-adjusted and I have been happy. She was always a good athlete and I never was especially good. A month ago I told her jokingly that if she did something I would spank her. She went ahead and did it and then said, "Now let's see you spank me." And before I could do anything, she grabbed me and spanked me. Honestly, Martha, I had no idea she could do that. It was the most humiliating experience of my life. I haven't been able to think of anything else since. The only person who knows it is my brother and I told him when I had too much to drink (something I have never done before). He says I ought to leave her because I will never be a man in my house again. He is probably right but I don't want to do that. Isn't there something I can do to atone for my disgrace?

DISCOURAGED.

I hope you're not thinking of beating her just to show who's Superman and who's the helpless little female. Of course, you shouldn't leave her. That's about the silliest suggestion yet. Where's your sense of humor? Kid her about being Miss Muscles of 1956. Laugh it off or you'll just get more miserable. She was just playing a joke on you and unfortunately forgot for a moment that she was guilty of wounding a man's vanity. That's about the worst mistake a woman can make. Show you're an adult and stop brooding.

Dear Martha:

I'M DESPERATELY trying to find someone who can help me with my problem before it's too late. I'm going to lose my boy friend unless I get over my jealousy. I've tried and tried and he has given me so many chances. I just can't seem to get over it. Have other people won over this horrible fault?

READER.

Improperly channeled, jealousy can be a terrible thing, wreaking havoc on any kind of relationship and causing misery for both the jealous person and his or her victim. But it's not an unnatural feeling, of course, and by facing it intelligently you can make it a valuable aid. Refuse to let yourself pout or nag or hound him. Instead, assure him of your admiration, go with him into groups where he can find congenial friends. As the two of you enjoy these friends together, he will have a far greater sense of security and joy, and through these mutual associations you and he will be bound even closer together. How much better this is than to make him cringe every time someone else speaks to him or make him fearful of your frown because he happens to like other persons and they like him. Try to clamp chains of possessiveness around him and you'll lose him in a hurry.

IN ANSWER TO Daily Reader: For possible information on farms where city boys can work in the summer, get in touch with the Missouri State Employment Service or with the agricultural agents in the various county seats in the St. Louis area. They can tell you whether such jobs are available.

Changed Man

By Ruth Millett

MANY a wife who writes to this column makes a harsh comparison between the man she married and the man he has become.

Most of these wives blame their husbands for "changing so completely" after marriage. Few ever stop to ask themselves if they might have had something to do with the kind of husbands the men they married have become.

Any woman who felt lucky to get the man she married—only to discover after a few years of marriage that she doesn't feel all that lucky for having the husband she does—ought to ask herself a few questions.

HOW OFTEN did she point out his faults to him when she might better have looked for something to praise? Whose wants and ambitions has she made important, hers or his?

When she has compared him with other men has it been to his advantage or to his disadvantage?

Has her husband come home at night to find a happy, gay companion or to listen to a tale of woe?

Has she done her own job of homemaking well enough to win his respect and admiration, or has she been doing her job half-heartedly or even grudgingly?

Has she tried to make a place for herself in the community or has she sat back and envied the women who are doing things, attributing her own discontent to the fact that her husband doesn't share his life with her?

HAS SHE BEEN as good to his family as she has been to her own?

Has she really loved her husband or just wanted constant evidence that he loves her?

Has she taken pains to stay as attractive-looking as possible, even when there has been little time or money to spend on herself?

A wife's answer to such questions as these may help her to understand why the man she is married to seems to have so little in common with the man she married.

ETIQUETTE QUESTIONS

By Amy Vanderbilt

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: When I write my son's childhood friends, who are all now around 30, I always have signed my letters "Dorothy Blake." Having been taught that one never signs "Mrs. Blake." However, the mothers of some of his friends in writing to my son do sign "Mrs. Smith," etc. I have begun to wonder whether I am wrong—D. B.

You are right. In writing to a child, a woman signs her proper social signature, in this case, "Dorothy Blake." A small child may not know that he should not call her "Dorothy" in return. But, as a mother myself, I know children at about the age of six become quite conservative in this matter. Then, instead of referring to mother's friends as "Dorothy," "Betty," etc., they begin of their own accord to call them "Mrs. Jones," "Mrs. Smith," etc.

By Sheila Graham

LONDON.

MAURICE CHEVALIER has a date with a NBC spectacular titled, "Chevalier's Paris"—filmed, of course, and produced by Ted Mills who did the same for "Nehru's India."

Kay Thompson, filming "Funny Face" in Paris, told me by telephone that CBS has signed for a 90-minute live show in the fall. When I asked, "Who'll be in it with you?" Kay replied, "No one unless it's an adorable man. But I wouldn't be surprised if 'Eloise' turns up." If she does, Kay will impersonate her high-living brat.

EDDIE CONSTANTINE, the American rage of France, will finally be seen by his countrymen in a filmed TV series which, I understand, will be made half in France, half in America. Then watch for Eddie to be deluged with fabulous TV offers!

Television is not yet hurting movie attendance in France. There are now close to half a million sets but reception from the west—Bordeaux, Le Havre, Nantes, etc.—is poor. In England, however, the movie industry is crying the TV blues.

EDGAR BERGEN, taking a vacation from "Do You Trust Your Wife?" and Dick Powell doing ditto from everything are motoring through Bavaria and Austria, while their wives toil in "Interlude" in Munich. Dick has a date later with Charles Boyer in Paris on "Four Star Playhouse" business.

Mrs. Jack Benny, who would rather take it easy, has been cajoled by Jack into appearing in most of the TV shows he is filming in Europe. I saw her in a couple, and Mary should do it more often.

Rolling in Watermelons

By Lu Murphy

SOME girls get emeralds. Some girls get stocks and bonds. Me? I get watermelons. I don't know what it is.

But there is an irresistible something about me that literally compels everybody who has an extra watermelon to bring it to my house. I don't mean just people who raise them. Why, once there was a party and it began to lag and the hostess suddenly said brightly, "I know what let's do. Let's all take Lu a watermelon!"

The record was two years ago when I was abandoned on the front doorstep in 37 minutes. Obviously with 11 watermelons and one of me, something had to go. So I did. But they just sat there until I got back. Squatting, I think it's known as.

I don't mean to sound ungrateful. I do appreciate the spirit in which they are given. As the man said only last week, "Thought I might as well bring you a couple of melons, Lu. If I don't they're just going to rot in the field."

A THING LIKE THAT makes you feel real loved. You know? Besides, rot in the field? Heaven forbid, when they can rot so much more comfortably on my living room rug.

Please don't think I don't like watermelon. I'm frantic for watermelon. I even have a plate shaped like a watermelon because I like watermelon so much. It's just that I don't think it is fair to coop more than eight up at a time in a hot little apartment.

And what brought all of this up is that I came home from a tea party and found my door barricaded by a 15-pound you-know-what. And—I don't know—but something snapped. "Old friend," I told it gently, "this is nothing personal, you understand, but there is positively no more room at the inn."

SO I SHOVED and staggered and rolled it over to my neighbor. The dear girl practically wept she was so happy. And I practically wept because I felt I had found the answer to it all. I had. Only unfortunately, so had everybody else.

I mean, as soon as I left the melon by her front door, this gal tore out the back door and took my offering to her neighbor. She in turn presented it to the little woman across the street, who, as fast as her fat little legs could carry her, brought it right straight back to me. It all happened so fast I didn't even have time to get my hat off.

So I quit. I've had it. You go right ahead. Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled melons, the wretched refuse of your teaming patch. Send these, the homeless, over-ripe to me. We'll sit here and grow old together.

My Day

A Full Life

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

I LEFT Hyde Park early Monday morning so as to be in New York in time for the funeral of a woman for whom I have always had the greatest admiration, Miss Charlotte E. Carr.

Her life was so full and so valuable to so many people that one can only be thankful that she had 66 years in which to give of her extraordinary powers. I don't think she was ever afraid of any situation.

She was a Vassar College graduate in 1915 and went immediately into social work, and I think she must be one of the graduates of which the college is really proud.

MISS CARR served in important positions during and after the war. It always seemed that she was taking on work when, at the moment, work needed ability and great strength of character. She had it and she used it.

She worked in Pennsylvania, in New York and in Washington. She was head of Hull House in Chicago for a number of years after Jane Addams died. For the last few years she suffered ill health, but she kept right on working as long as she was able, and when she died she was consultant to Commissioner of Welfare Henry L. McCarthy in New York City.

ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON I drove over to Salisbury, Conn. Such a peaceful, quiet village with such charming old houses. I spoke in the Scoville Memorial Library for the Salisbury Women's Democratic Club on the principles of the Democratic party, and I was glad to find I had a few Republicans in my audience, for I cannot help feeling that most Democrats know as much about their own party as I do.

For a Sunday afternoon in July, I thought it was quite remarkable that in this Republican area we had at least 200 persons present. I was delighted to have a chance to meet them afterwards.

Some Hints For Women Who Drive

By Josephine Lowman

CONSIDERING the fact that women spend much time in their automobiles I am giving a few suggestions for the woman motorist.

If you drive a great deal in the summer you may find one arm is darker than the other. Long sleeves in hot weather are not feasible. You could have a separate sleeve (just from wrist to elbow) to slip on when you drive. If you do not want to bother with this you can use suntan make-up on your inside arm when you dress for special occasions.

Even in a car your face may become wind-burned or may be dried out by hot dusty gusts and the heat from the road. Why not use a base? You can get one for dry skins.

Your lips also may become dry or chapped. Be sure, that your lipstick is not too dry. Apply one of the colorless pomades on long trips.

Remember that loose hair blowing in your face is dangerous. Let me also call your attention to the fact that flowing sleeves are not practical for efficient driving.

Usually we feel the most fatigue through the neck and shoulders, after a long motor trip. When you reach your destination lie flat on your back on the floor. This is more restful than on a bed. Stretch your neck slowly against the floor, making it as long as possible. Rest in this position for a while. Turn onto your abdomen and place a hot water bottle or a heating pad on your shoulders and the back of your neck.

Hurry and fatigue lead to accidents. Surveys have shown that emotional factors are a major cause of traffic accidents. Do not drive when emotionally upset or when extremely tired.

Storing Food Chopper A large clear plastic bag keeps food chopper, handle and cutters all in one convenient place.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

WHILE Mungo Park was making his way into the interior of Africa, he was disappointed by the attitude of Johnson, his Negro servant. Johnson refused to go farther into the Dark Continent and returned to the coast.

Park rode onward, entering a desert region. Soon he ran out of water and became thirsty. A few bushes were growing here and there and he chewed leaves which he picked from them. This gave him only a little relief from his thirst.

TAKING THE BRIDLE from his steed, so it could graze on what might be found. Park lay on the ground, feeling that his end was near. He fell into a deep sleep.

When he awoke it was evening. He found the air cool. Lightning was flashing in the sky. Soon there came a heavy downpour of rain. In addition to the suit he wore, Park had a few articles of clean clothing. These he laid on the sand, and when they were soaked he wrung them out, letting the water drip into his mouth. Thus he was able to quench his thirst. The rain stopped in about an hour, but lightning kept flashing in the sky. By its light he studied his compass while he rode farther eastward. At daybreak he came upon a small pond and drank water from it.

ALTHOUGH he was now over his thirst, Mungo Park had grown weak from hunger. Seeing a village, he rode into it, even though he feared that it might belong to Ali's kingdom.

The village was, indeed, a part of the Mohammedan country. Park knocked at the door of one of the chief men and asked for food and shelter. He was turned away, however, because he was a white man from a Christian nation.
